N compiling this volume of the Jambalaya, it has been our ambition to reflect truthfully all sides of student life at Tulane to-day. Every department in the University has been given an equal representation. We believe that a College Annual should be more than an inanimate catalog of the events of the past year, and it has been our purpose to produce a book whose every page fairly glows with the spirit of our Alma Mater, and whose every picture recalls some fond memory. We have dreamed of a Jambalaya superlative—of a Jambalaya among Jambalayas. To say that we have only partially succeeded is but to record human frailty. Look kindly on our faults and attribute our failings to lack of ability rather than to insincerity of purpose. Our success lies in your approval. Let the judgment be fair. Proceed.

The History of the Tulane University of Louisiana

ULANE UNIVERSITY looks back for its beginning to the Medical College of Louisiana, which was organized in 1834 and chartered in the spring of 1835. It issued its first degree in March, 1836, the first degree in Medicine or Science ever issued in Louisiana. Tulane University, as it stands to-day represents the contract, giving to the Tulane Administrators perpetual control of the University of Louisiana, which the men, to whom Paul Tulane entrusted his donations, entered into with the State of Louisiana. In the opening of his letter to the Administrators, dated Princeton, May 2, 1882, he writes: "A resident of New Orleans for many years of my active life, having formed many friendships and associations dear to me and deeply sympathizing with its people in whatever misfortunes or disasters may have befallen them, as well as being sincerely desirous of contributing to their moral and intellectual welfare, I do hereby express to you my intention by an act of donation inter vivos all the real estate I own and am possessed of in said city of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, for the promotion and encouragement of intellectual, moral and industrial education among the white young persons in the city of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, and for the advancement of learning and letters, the arts and sciences therein " Mr. Tulane's first gift amounted in value to $363,000, and subsequent donations raised the total value of real estate donated to $1,050,000, with an annual rental of $75,000. The result of other donations since the time of Mr. Tulane's generosity have been the Richardson Memorial Building, the Josephine Hutchinson Memorial Building, the F. W. Tilton Memorial Library, the endowment of the chair of Botany by Mrs. Ida A. Richardson, the donor of the fund with which the present Richardson Memorial Building was erected, and, very recently, the establishment of the Department of Tropical Medicine, Hygiene and Preventative Medicine by means of a donation of $25,000 by the United Fruit Company, and the erection of a new engineering building, the Stanley Thomas Hall, made possible by a bequest of $60,000 by Stanley Thomas.

The H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College was the result of a donation of $100,000, in October, 1886, by Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb to the Tulane Administrators for the establishment of a memorial of her only daughter. Newcomb College has since been the recipient of a bequest of F. Walker Calleander of $65,000.

Under Article 320 of the Constitution of 1879, the Legislature of the State recognized the three departments—Law, Medical and Academic—of the University and granted $10,000 annually until 1884, when the Administrators of the Tulane Educational Fund assumed the financial obligation of the State. During the course of three decades subsequent to 1884, the Tulane University of Louisiana has reached its present proportions, when it comprises the Graduate Department, the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Technology, the Teachers' College, the H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College for Young Women, the Law Department, the Department of Medicine, Pharmacy and Dentistry, and the Post-Graduate Medical Department. The University is also the possessor of a stadium and capacious grandstand, built with funds donated largely by the New Orleans Progressive Union, and of a large and thoroughly modern gymnasium. As we review the steady progress of Tulane University, we feel that Mr. Tulane's wish, as expressed in the close of his letter, has been granted. His letter ended: "With devout gratitude to our Heavenly Father for enabling us to form these plans, and invoking His divine blessings upon you (the Tulane Administrators) and your counsels"

SENIOR ACADEMIC

Academic Senior Class History

F you turn to this page in expectation of reviewing a long list of glorious achievements, then, gentle reader, you are doomed to disappointment. For three successive years, history has chronicled every important event in the annals of our class, and this year a sadder, more serious duty confronts us. We are to bid farewell to dear old Tulane.

Four years ago we crept tremblingly into the outstretched arms of our Alma Mater. To-day we rush forth confidently; sure that the world is already at our feet. From the small world of the college to the world of men and affairs is a serious step, but we are anxious to attempt it because of the glorious promise which the future holds forth.

One thought alone dampens our spirits—we are saying good-bye to our college life—good-bye to campus and student activities—good-bye to the pleasant hours, which made four years speed by—good-bye to the close associations which must dissolve when our class separates. Good-bye Tulane—You may have had larger and more brilliant classes, you never had a more loyal one.

-H. L. Barnett, Historian.

Junior Class History

NCE more the Class of Nineteen-Fifteen is called upon to give an account of itself, and it feels sure that it shall not be found wanting in accomplishments of which it may well be proud. In the past it has experienced almost unmeasured success. At present, it is striving to excel its actions of the past. To the future, it looks with the highest hope, and therein can see only renown.

As we of the class look back upon the past two years of our career, we needs must feel some pride in the manner in which we conducted ourselves through that strenuous period; in our victories, too numerous to mention; in our defeats, too few and too honorably contested to be ashamed of; in our class spirit, of which we may justly boast. Through these years the Class of Fifteen has come with flying colors, with a record to be envied, with the strongest spirit of good-fellowship and co-operation among all of its members; and with but one regret: that our number, as is natural, has steadily diminished.

Now we are Juniors and of our original four score and ten members only half that number yet survive. Now, too, do we experience the more serious side of college life. The care-free ways of the Freshman year live only in our most pleasant dreams of the past. The excessive ardor and empty pride which we experienced as Sophomores, ever eager to lord it over the unknowing Freshmen, have likewise vanished. Nor have we yet become serious Seniors who live only in their studies and quite apart from the rest of the world. We hold the golden mean. We have outgrown the frivolity of the lower-class men and are not yet sober-browed Seniors. To the lot of the Juniors falls the good qualities of both these groups and the faults of neither; and Nineteen-Fifteen is striving to make the most of its golden opportunities.

After three years with such a record, how could any class have other than a bright outlook? With such spirit as this class has shown and still continues to show, a glorious future is assured. There is no doubt that the final year will eclipse in glory any year in the class's history. Inasmuch as every man is willing to sacrifice his personal interests for those of the class, the record of Nineteen-Fifteen cannot fail to excel. So here's to Nineteen-Fifteen, her past victories, her present honors, and her glories yet to come.

Sophomore Class History

PIRIT. That one word spells the main characteristic of the Class of 1916. When has the present Sophomore Class ever been lacking in this important feature of college life?

Long, long ago, on the very first day of their Freshman year, they showed the spirit and the fight that was in them when they charged the University in battle array, prepared to annihilate that famous Class of 1915, who, fortunately for themselves, were conspicuously out of sight. Consider the spirit in which they accepted the first edition of the Student Body Freshmen Regulations and established a precedent for their Alma Mater.

The 1915 bunch won the tug o' war, the wrestling matches and the football game; all close affairs. The three first, out of seven scheduled contests, and even this could not dampen the spirit of '16. They buckled down to work and easily defeated their notorious rivals in the next three events, debating, basket-ball and baseball, only to lose the last, the deciding track meet, by three or four points.

On the opening day of the 1913-'14 session, the Freshmen, Class of 17, marched onto the campus in companies and batallions (just like regular soldiers) only to find the Sophomores lined up in front of Gibson Hall, (headquarters), joyfully awaiting their arrival, singing fiercely (?) their famous battle song: "What D' you Mean, You Lost Your Dog."

Both factions faced each other for a few moments while lieutenants and captains planned and plotted. Then,—with one mighty yell!—!—! "Aw ain't it!—!—! Well the Dean declared a truce.

So far the Freshmen have won the tug o' war, the wrestling matches, (they would not match 16's best men) and the football game, (Whoop! Whee! Gallery goes wild!) which the critics say, was as interesting as any 'Varsity affair. The first three out of seven, but '16 has the spirit and they are working for the next four events.

And this class without the aid of the upper class-men (as was needed when they first came in) enforced the regulations upon those fierce, (?) yes, terribly fierce, Freshies.

The Sophomores have the largest representations at every University game, meeting, rally, (beer feast), etc. The members of 1916 are in the lead in football, baseball, basketball, track, debating, oratory, dramatics, cartoonery, and riot stunts.

The class thanks its sister students at Newcomb for their loyal support. May they marry well.

Here's to all that wish '16 well,

All the rest may go to—join the Freshman ranks.

-Billy Sherwood, Historian.

Freshman Class History

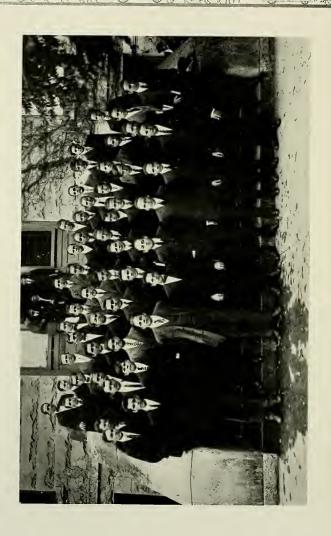

N Monday, September 9, 1913, a crowd of rain-soaked, dirt-besmeared huskies marched unmolested up the front middle steps of Gibson Hall. A cheer for '17 from the friendly Juniors standing near announced the advent of a new class. It was, however, a rather inglorious advent; waiting expectantly, but not fearfully, for the Sophomore attack which never came. The Class of '17 had crossed Audubon Park in marching order through a driving rain and presented a woebegone appearance.

The Freshmen organized from the start, ready for anything, but were informed by Dean Dinwiddie that there would be no Freshman-Sophomore contests except such as were regulated.

Under the leadership of the Junior officers the Class of '17 assembled at its first regular meeting on October 6 to elect class officers. Mr. S. L. McConnell was elected President; Mr. W. J. Gibbens, Vice President and Treasurer; and Mr. E. Wellington. Secretary.

Although the history of the Freshman Class is short, the same cannot be said of list of members, for there are twenty-four '17 students in the college of arts and science and seventy-one in the technology department. Out of about one hundred Freshmen there have been discovered enough "infant prodigies" to administer three successive defeats to the Sophs; the wrestling matches, the tug-of-war, the football game, all are recorded as Freshman victories. Another such achievement and the tank will be adorned with Freshman numerals, painted in black and blue, the Freshman colors. The Sophomores will be adorned in like colors.

The good ship '17 has set forth on its four years cruise. It has almost escaped unscathed from its friendly conflict with '16. It has weathered successfully the first reefs in its cruise, the mid-term exams. Here's for a prosperous voyage under those most able pilots, our Profs.! Here's for success, not for the Freshman Class alone. not merely for all the classes, but for our instructors, our college, TULANE, first, last and always!

SENIOR ACADEMIC

Senior Class History

T is customary for Senior Historians to recall the achievements of their youth, the steps by which they reached their present. I shall do likewise.

In our Freshman year we won the only basketball game in which Freshmen were allowed to participate.

Was it not the Class of 1914 who instigated the Sophomore-Freshman party as a method of hazing in place of the brutal banner fights of former years?

Our Junior year was a year of many achievements. We excelled in languages as well as sciences. Our class gave to Newcomb a modern Latin Triumvirate, and a full understanding of the Fourth Dimension. As Freshmen we had a Math. class of many dimensions. As Sophomores, we decided upon the study of fewer dimensions with a more earnest study of each—the class having been reduced from some fifty odd to six. As Juniors, we presented to Newcomb only four dimensions—length, breadth, thickness, and the fourth. The last of these being the most wonderful and unique. Did she not win the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority Mathematics prize? And this was open to Seniors likewise. In this same year 1914 won all prizes open to Juniors. The basketball championship cup was ours this Junior year also.

Is there anyone in the University who has not heard of the 1914-'16 wedding? Mr. 1914 was married to Miss 1916 by Rev. Newcomb College. We pledged on that day our loyalty and love for 1916 and there has been no divorce since then. Mr. 1914 has cherished and guarded over 1916 since the wedding and will ever do so as long as 1916's college life lasts.

And now for our last year of college life. Although just half spent it has been a brilliant one. It was our class who propagated the movement for inter-collegiate debating. This movement, taken up by students of other classes as well, has become a reality, and on March 28th Newcomb will debate with Agnes Scott.

The last and most commemorable act of History which 1914 accomplished was done for the satisfaction of Newcomb's most worthy President. He, thinking our class most competent for philosophic thought, swerved from his usual method of teaching philosophy and gave us an examination on that subject. The results of this exam. were so favorable that he has decided that hereafter he will adopt some of 1914's philosophy and teach it to succeeding classes.

Senior Class Poem

(With apologies to Mary Clemmer.)

Good-by, Newcomb,
We leave thee bearing purest gifts
That when some fair temptation lifts
Its luring glance, though sore beset,
We'll stronger be; then no regret
Life-long will follow after us.
Four years within thy trusting care
We've rested; and with thee did share
Thy deep, rich store of learning.
We now must leave thee at the pathway's turning,
And so, good-by, Newcomb.

Good-by, Newcomb. We seem to part; Yet still within our inmost heart Thou art with us. Still thy place Thou holdest; naught can thee efface. Yet all our life seems going out, As we turn our faces slow about To go alone another way,— Apart from thee till life's last day, Unless thy spirit lights our way. Good-by, Newcomb. The dreaded dawn That tells our student days are gone Is purpling all the pallid sky— And soft we sigh, Newcomb, good-by!

Class Poet.

A Legacy

We, the Class of Nineteen Fourteen,
Have bequeathed it to the ages.
"Twill be handed down the coming years of time
With patience he engages
To turn us into sages,
And the Phil. exam. is now his latest crime.

We did not wish to take it
And we told him so, O yes!
But it did not seem to turn his firm resolve,
And he told us all, alas!
He'd have nothing of our sass!
And the Phil. exam. was left to us to solve.

We did not wish to take it,
"Twas never done of yore!
And we told him so with wisdom and expression.
But though we raged and swore
That Phil. it was a bore,
Not a thing was done to lift our deep depression.

But now the 'xam is over,
We are living at the last,
And I cannot say we've really come to rue it,
And sure! we all have passed,
And we're the only class that da'st
To sit down to a Phil. exam, and do it!!

Junior Class History

Readers of this History of 1915, Be you Juniors, or Sophomores, or Freshmen green, Be you Seniors, or whoever you may be I pray you a while to bear with me; For 'tis my purpose to speak in rhyme The history of the greatest class of its time.

They taught Freshies a lovely way to haze. Their Sophomore year contained red-letter days, They said that this class raised quite a stir, Well its motto was "Gaudeamus Igitur". The banquet with their brother class at Tulane Would by itself for this class have won fame.

'Twas a Freshman class three years ago, The jolliest class you ever did know. It went in for dramatics, athletics and fun, Latin Club and debating also claimed some. It had its triumphs in every line, And in her studies each member was fine.

Their Sophomore days they were reluctant to leave But they found Junior days a true heartsease. The "cabaret party"-who'll ever forget? If you'd done as you wished you'd have been there yet. Such dancing, such ladies entrancing, ah me! Such handsome beaux at that gay party.

But my space is short and so is my time, Each event cannot be put into rhyme. The half, of course, has not yet been told. Let someone else the rest unfold. If I told every merit of this class to you, I'd talk and talk but never be through. -Historian.

Newcomb Freshman Class History of 1917

In the Jambalaya for the first time now Nineteen Seventeen makes her bow, Fresh for the fray, a glorious sight With banner streaming free and light. Ready and waiting, every one For any sort of joke or fun.

When the police force ran us down They found our nerves quite steady; We barred them out and made them wait 'Till we were good and ready.

The Suffragettes charged through their ranks
By Mrs. Pankhurst led;
The Militant flag she firmly grasped
And waved it o'er her head.

The Juniors show true sister sport
And stand by us most loyally.
They "took us to the Cabaret"
And entertained us royally.

"The play's the thing," the poet says,
And you will all recall
That in this line the showing
Of the Freshmen was not small.

To any one who doubts our worth Here's one reply alone; (I'm sure it will sufficient be!) Just go and ask Miss Stone.

So here's a toast, best class of all,
A toast of love to you!

May we always rally to the call
Of the Black and the Turquoise Blue!

"Cross-Roads Philosophy"

There's a heap of satisfaction In a trouble if you grin, If you keep your nerve in action And you wear a lifted chin. There's a joy in doing something That you've never done before, So don't be a deaf and dumb thing, Chance is knocking at your door.

Down and out, there's fun in rising, Fun in facing heavy odds
Doing deeds that are surprising
And the happy fellow plods,
Plods along and hums a ditty
As he journeys down the street
Of the busy gold-made city
"Till he's back upon his feet.

It's in overcoming trouble
That a fellow gets his fun.
It's in shattering the bubble
That is labeled "CAN'T BE DONE."
It's in striving night and day time
When the problem hopeless seems,
Man appreciates his playtime
When he's realized his dreams.

There's a heap of satisfaction
In a trouble if you grin.
Difficulties have attraction
If you keep a lifted chin,
And the harder that your fight is,
Then the greater is your fun
And the finer your delight is
When you view the things you've DONE.

Stand aside and let the BURKE CLAN CY BALD WIN." "MEY! ER perhaps he will win," was the answer, "but see him WAG UES PACK." He should place that bundle on the ground.

The Hegira

UT of the wilds they came, hastening from densest and unknown parts; crossing the furroughs with memories of bygone days when horny hands grasped the plough handles and dry tongues chirruped to 'ole gray mules'; deserting villages where daily they assembled 'to 'ard ole Si Hoskins' store and swap yarns' while 'chawing a cud an' whittling a stick o' pine'; away from the towns and cities, either tremulously cognizant of deficiency in preparation or egotistically proud of former schooling; sophisticated, those of vast (?) experience; sent hither by commands of elders. Where away? 'Tis to college.

Birth.—And thus it was that properly embryoed, sustenanced and instigated, numbers were augmented by numbers and lo! The Class of 1914 was born! Helter skelter, promiscuous, and not to say motley.

Infancy.—Now the successful raising of an infant requires care, experience, toleration, patience, and various and innumerable other attributes such as have been captured and adopted for personal uses by the Physiologists and Neurologists of this day and time. Naturally this child was no exception. First of all, 'naming the baby' held the whole kibosh in suspense and much trepidation was undoubtedly experienced by the ones in authority, although it is rumored that the nightwatchman and those neighbors in close proximity named the brat most conscientiously, if not most effectively. Nextly the matter of diet predominated and while some held to the gross ingestion of anatomical knowledge, others insisted upon the minutest examination of food, saying that while it was certainly true that the child digested in chunks, nevertheless, feeding was forced with knife and forceps, thereby creating a tendency in the young breast to slash about unmercifully, irrespective of all benefits essential to its growth. There were those who contended that chemically analyzed food only was fit for consumption at this age. Consequently the diet was a mixed one. Now the idea of exercise arose, and while from the beginning the youngster presented a marked tendency for across-the-park-walks and twenty-four-hourcar-rides, it was the general consensus of opinion that plaster casting and roller-bandaging would provide about all the necessary muscular activity for a year at least.

Owing to the variety of diet, at the end of its first lap, the little one was forcibly deprived of certain portions of its anatomy.

Childhood.—Naturally increased growth and capacity required further attention, as for example, a stronger food formula. Scarcely any change was noticeable, although there was an inclination toward determining the physiological capacity, thereby causing more or less controversy upon whether there was a necessity for 70 per cent; a desire for 100 per cent or an actuality of 20 per cent—the latter with few variations predominating.

Further value thereof was finally considered enhanced by neurological ingestions—the daily menu reading thus: 1. Dessicated brain substance; 2. Nerve cells a la Creole; 3. Spinal cord pulp. To these dishes were added bacterial infections for purposes of experimentation. It is to be remarked, however, and much to the credit of the scientists interested, that in view of the hardships invoked, such a scarcity of disruptions of parts resulted that the remaining was hardly rendered hors de combat.

Puberty.—Having attained to the age at which more dependance could be placed upon responsible organs of digestion, greater liberty was permitted in the matter of food. At times the boy could be induced to formulate his own dietary, although his ravings over 4 per cent milk and infant feeding became so violent that the allowance was limited. The hankering for 'cutting up' naturally obsessed him and only by wise precautions was he prevented from instituting a private graveyard and for a while after he was only allowed to participate in such maneuvers, his task being usually to take a bath and stand around looking wise. Much dry tonic was given to increase the capacity it is believed as it required much time for digestion but very little for elimination.

However, he fared well and those parts which survived became quite strong and healthy, notwithstanding the loads of concentrated substances which were forced upon his protesting being. There were certain instances when attacks of Hydrocephabes seemed imminent, but all such were quickly aborted by depreciating vocabularies sent forth by the ones in charge—rarely was other medication a necessity.

At last the fatal attack arrived. Nervousness and restlessness was obvious; sallow complexion; sunken cheeks; staring eyes; droopy walk; alopecia areata; at times the eyes became anxious and appealing; at others there was threatening prostration—all of which created no concern thereabouts except that larger loads were given and the general opinion being to 'nail it to him'. His condition went from bad to worse and during delerious moments he talked of "By the way", "Essential skin lesions", "Talipes equinus varus", etc. Not until his last moments was the correct diagnosis made and was pronounced the fatal malady "Examinationitis" complicated by "Fearofgraduationosus".

The body after due rites and ceremonies was given to the public for autopsy.

Junior Medical Class History

GAIN it is the Class of 1915 called upon to give account of its past experiences and it is necessarily the duty of the Historian to relate of these momentous happenings. It is of course impossible to bear in mind all of the events that have taken part in the formation of our more or less checkered career, however we shall endeavor to recall the most auspicious occasions and the very "serious and frivolous facts about the great and near great."

'Twas in the Fall of 1911 that we bade farewell to our accustomed youthful surroundings, gathered our belongings together with our courage, and wended our tortuous and precipitous way towards our mecca of Medicine in order that we might gain knowledge and facts concerning this, our chosen profession. Sad were the tidings and heavy were our hearts when we learned from our predecessors what a mountain of work was before us in the coming several years. Bravely did we face it all with a determination to overcome all obstacles and, with this feeling of confidence urging us on, we find at the end of the first year our strenuous efforts crowned with success. One milestone is passed and we are unanimously of the opinion that 'twas indeed a blessing to this grand old institution that we decided to enter within its portals in order to gain sufficient learning to carry on our life's work. At this stage of our work we find ourselves to be the centre of comment and our hopes are buoyed by the fact that we have succeeded so remarkably well. So, it is with a carefree and light heart that we return from our vacation with one idea in view, "to smash all previous Sophomore records."

Indeed it was a task of great proportions that we undertook and often did we realize this ere the completion of this Sophomore year's work. Many times did the way seem dark and dreary but always did our motto instill new courage and hope into us and we were sufficiently rewarded at the end. The day of reckoning was our red letter day and we were once more and forever confident of our wonderful ability. Gigantic were the problems put before us and of enormous magnitude were the tasks undertaken by us, but we ne'er did falter. Our patience, perseverance and constant application served us in good stead and naturally did we "smash all records" in absolute accordance with our intentions.

At the close of the session of 1912-'13 we learned from all sides that our remarkable intellectual powers were a matter of common comment, so we felt now even more confident of ourselves and were eager to attack the problems of the Junior year. Even at this stage, notwithstanding the incessant rain of compliments being showered upon us, "we were still capable of donning our head-gear without invoking the aid of a shoe horn." However, in the parlance of one of our distinguished members we found ourselves more or less "emeciated", but anxious for the work of our approaching Junior year.

Our environments were new in this past year, but we realized our capabilities were sure of ourselves, and entered enthusiastically into everything set before us. Our work has been most pleasant and interesting as far as we have gone and we feel sure that we have acquired sufficient enlightenment to reward us for our strenuous endeavors. In the language of one of our distinguished professors, we might say: "Ve are a goot class aint it"!!!!

—H. V. Sims, Historian.

Sophomore Medical Class History

FTER our "romantic" experiences in the Anatomy Departments with Prof. Bean and after having passed the pitfalls of Freshman chemistry, the Class of 1916 entered into its second year with its roll almost intact..

We are glad to announce that the majority of the class have emerged from the pathless "tracts" of Neurology with their higher centers unaffected.

Now near the close of the second term most of us feel confident that we have a fair chance to arrive safely into our third year. Of course there are some "Lame Ducks" in our midst, but after careful treatment by Dr. Duvai and staff, "we Pathologists" have every reason to believe that their lesions will have undergone repair by the end of the year.

We fear that in the near future some of our number will forsake medicine for other pursuits. Riley, we hear, is contemplating entering the "rubber" business, and McCrossin is going to "bust" into some other field of endeavor.

With regret we leave behind the artistic courses of second year to enter the more serious work which is to follow.

Freshman Medical Class History

N l a e s f d

N one year it is hard for a class to achieve much fame or have much history thrust upon it. Still we feel that we, the class of 1917, have achieved all the greatness that is possible for us to receive in the time of our existence as a class, and we have surely gained the love, praise, and instantaneous—yea, spontaneous admiration (?) of those members of the faculty fortunate enough to have had the opportunity of imparting as much of their knowledge to us as our various Beans would absorb.

The class roll contains sixty-eight names, representing "the flower and manhood" of all parts of this continent and Algiers. Also Dr. Metz has his own various and sundry cognomens for us—meaningless for the most part to the common laity, but easily deciphered by the use of a "dictionary;" to us, however, his nicknames are as clear as mud.

The ideal student of the mind of one of our Professors has been typified to a great extent by the majority of our class, inasmuch as we have so many non-note takers and "Buzzards." As for punctuality, promptness, and application, we are seldom equaled—never passed.

As time passes on and brings the knowledge and dignity of the Senior to us, we each and every one hope to become that which every man of our chosen profession should become—our brother's keeper.

DR. ALCEE FORTIER

Dr. Alcee Fortier, Dean of the Graduate Department of Tulane University, and Professor of Romance Languages since 1884, died at his home in Audubon Street, Saturday, February 14, 1914.

He brought honor and prestige to the University by his leadership in local and foreign societies, literary, educational and philosophical. Many are the teachers whose intellects command admiration of their students, but few are those for whom their students feel a real and sincere affection. Dr. Fortier was both admired and loved. The genius of his clear mind was our inspiration and made to thrill with live and human interest subjects which might have proven dry and tedious. His kindly interest was ever present sympathy in our work and brightened our student lives. Though tireless in his own labors, he was never too busy to help us in our difficulties. He never sermonized; his life was a sermon.

The Dental Department of Tulane

E are glad to announce that during the last two years the Department of Dentistry has grown considerably. True, we have not accomplished much in the way of numbers, but this is readily explained by the fact that the requirements for entrance have been strictly adhered to. We are getting a better grade of students and are making better grades than was customary for the average dental student. A new incentive seems to have taken hold on these men, too, for they aim, now, to make not only a pass, but something more than that. Some of the best marks made in branches where dental and medical student are combined were made by dental men, and this year the present Freshman Class stood out prominently from the fact that a larger percentage of dental students passed chemistry after the first test than any other department. This is encouraging not only to the Dean, but to all others who wish the Dental Department well.

In spite of the many obstacles, we are making great showings in our work, and under conditions which we believe will grow more favorable as the seasons roll, we expect to be a prominent department of Tulane. We think as much of Tulane as does any other student.

We will certainly have to get represented in the sports. There is good material in our department for football, and in fact, all athletics.

So let us sedulously continue, fellow-students, aiming as the youth did bearing the banner with the strange device—"Excelsior."

The Civil Engineers Take a Trip

AY thirtieth last saw assembled at the Union Depot some twelve or fourteen heavily laden young civil engineers outward bound from Tulane University to the Summer Camp at Winnfield, La.

An interesting spectacle they made, each man being equipped with at least a half dozen suit cases, and besides this one had in tow a good size steamer trunk which he tried to fool himself into thinking was only an overgrown hand-bag. Besides these unnameable parcels, the party had in possession enough equipment to make a coast-to-coast geodetic survey.

The trip was uneventful. The party was entertained with mandolin selections from "Freddie" Warriner, whose object was serenading a young lady in the next seat, and by the antics of a young married (?) couple a few seats ahead.

A few miles outside of Alexandria the party was surprised to see coming down the aisle of the car one whom we at first thought to be the fireman. Upon close scrutiny, however, we found him to be Prof. Derickson, who had become so covered with cinders and grime that he could hardly be recognized.

Upon arriving at Alexandria the party lined upon the platform of the station and a hot discussion ensued as to which hotel we would go. The Bentley was suggested, but Prof. Derickson expressed doubt as to whether or not he would be admitted in his besmuted condition.

The next morning early we caught a train to Winnfield, and the rest of the trip was made in a few hours.

At Winnfield conditions were found to be ideal. The camp was located in a country schoolhouse situated in one of the most picturesque spots in that part of the country. The meals were taken at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Scott, the former being superintendent of the Southern Mineral and Land Improvement Land Company, and it was due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Scott that each and every member of the camp, including Prof. Derickson, gained at least ten pounds.

The schedule of the day was as follows:

6:00 A.M. Great din caused by impact of hammer on tin pan, Quartermaster Haas at the end of the hammer. General turmoil caused by everybody turning over.

6:05 A.M. Sounds of scrimmage caused by overturning of cots.

6:10 A.M. Everybody up.

6:30 A.M. Start for breakfast.

7:00 A.M. Great disappearance of biscuits, eggs, steak, coffee, etcetera.

7:30 A.M. To work.

12:00 M. Further disappearance of victuals.

1:00 P.M. Work.

5:00 P.M. Quit.

6:00 P.M. Further disappearance of rations.

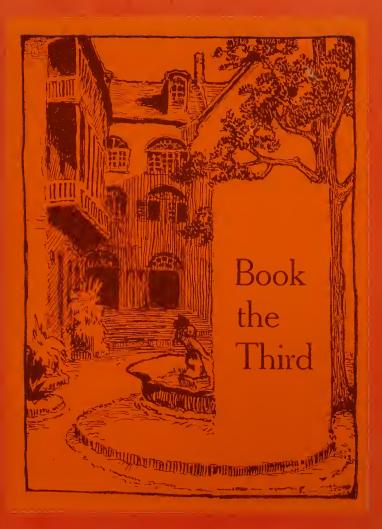

7:00 P.M. Target practice.

9:30 P.M. Hit the canvas.

Our pastimes were various, such as the playing of mandolins, playing ball and pool, etc., horseback riding—with Henry Lemoine as hero,—shooting of pigs, ducks, and also members of camp with air rifle by Prof. Derickson. It was also amusing to tie Bill Koch to his cot. A hay ride was enjoyed with the young (?) ladies of Winnfield as guests. Dodging stones after blasts in quarry and trying to keep warm at nights (eating also) occupied very much of our time.

Two weeks were spent in camp, every moment of which was enjoyed and everybody agree that great benefits had been derived.

Chemistry Laboratory Rules

- 1. Always be late for class; it is very stimulating to Miss Hero.
- In removing stoppers from bottles leave them on the desk; it is good for the stoppers and adds much to the beauty and cleanliness to the desk itself.
- Use as much of the chemicals as possible; some of them are very expensive and it gives an air of beauty and nonchalance to the laboratory.
- Never replace bottles; searching for them in odd places lends excitement and variety to laboratory life.
- 5. Always pour water on acid—see the pretty splash.
- 6. Always throw matches in the wastepaper boxes; the results are often illuminating.
- 7. Do not measure accurately; do it with a dash and make things interesting.
- 8. Break as many things as possible; we rise on the wrecks of our former selves.
- 9. Always jump to conclusions; Miss Hero loves an illogical mind.
- 10. Never study assigned work; it makes the next lesson so much more interesting.
- 11. Never think for yourselves; it interferes with much that is valuable after exams.

The Paper Man

EAN, what's all that excitement on Newcomb Campus?"

"Why, haven't you heard! It is the first match game of the season, and do you know that both the music and art students have made up their minds to capture the cup. You may rest assured it will be a highly contested game on both sides—"

"Oh! do let's go and join the crowd-"

"Remember, you must root for the art girls."

"Why, indeed I will; though just in New Orleans for a few days, I must tell you, Jean, that I still take a vital interest in anything concerning Newcomb and pertaining to art, being now a pupil of the Chicago Institute after getting my diploma from college."

"You don't mean it, Bessie! I think that's splendid; yet I know you must miss Newcomb very much and all the girls and that Tulane fellow. By the way, what be—"

"I know what you are going to ask. Well, believe me, Billy is desperately mad with me. I told him I had never enough spare time to answer his letters, and so I don't blame him for getting angry. Upon my word! There he is now, as sure as I'm living, strolling towards that girl with blonde hair."

"That's not Billy; that's a reporter. You see, we both haven't seen him since such a long while that we've nearly forgotten his looks."

"Who is the girl he's talking to?"

"That's Marjorie Snibbor."

"Awfully attractive, isn't she?"

"Very popular, too."

Marjorie with pad and pencil is heard saying: "Sixty-two to thirty-nine (62-39)." The reporter: "What was the score for the first half?"

"Twenty-three to twenty-two (23 to 22) in favor of the art girls. Would you like to have the names of the players?"

"No, thank you, not at present."

Reporter snaps at business manager and says: "Took a picture of you, Miss ---."

"You did! and may I ask what paper you are representing?"

"Am not a reporter; it was only for my own private information," and he vanished.

"Wonder what the reporter told her, Jean? She seemed very much embarrassed."

"Why, I suppose it's because he took her picture."

"Oh, look! We are winning!"

"Rah, rah, rah! Rah, rah! Rah, rah, rah! Three cheers for the Art School."

"Did I hear correctly, Bessie? Was it sixty-two to thirty-nine? Oh, gee! ain't it fine for us, Bess!"

"Hello, Marjorie; I want you to meet Bessie Collins, one of our former basketball stars. She is just here from Chicago. Please accept our congratulations also; that game was sure great."

"Thanks, girls. Do you happen to know that man's name—the one standing over there? He spoke to me a few minutes ago. Why, there he is now about to board that car."

"No, we do not. What did he tell you? Wasn't he a reporter?"

"I thought he was. Well, so long, girls. Have to be going. Will 'phone you, Jean, tonight."

"Hello!"

"Hello!"

"Is that you, Bessie?"

"Yes."

"Well, Bessie, this is Jean. Guess the news! Marjorie just 'phoned me she had received a beautiful bouquet of American beauties with a card signed from 'Billy, the Paper Man.'"

So it was Billy after all. Still as flirt as ever. That boy gives me a pain in the shoulder; he's so fresh and sentimental."

"But, don't you love sentimental persons? I do; besides, I think that that mysterious note of his to Marjie is perfectly fascinating. There is nothing so reliable as the unexpected, nothing so dreadfully uncertain as a thing assured."

"Jean, did you tell her who Billy was?"

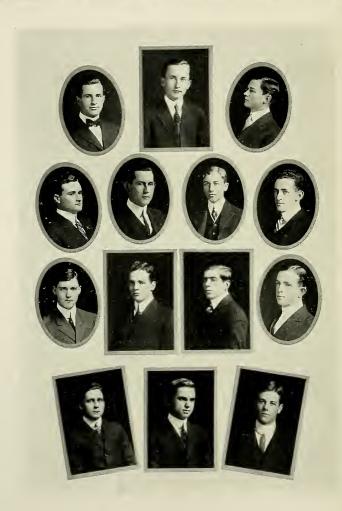

"No, indeed, not a chance. She said he rang her up after sending the flowers and told her he'd meet her at the next game Saturday."

"The nerve of some people! Suppose we'd get a substitute? Wouldn't the joke freeze him some? Sarah Hillrem looks so much like Marjorie she might be taken for her twin sister."

"But she said he told her to wear a 'loving cup,' so he'd recognize her."
"Ha! ha! ha! We'll put a drinking cup on Sarah's head. Good-bye."

"So long, Bess. Don't forget to 'phone me more news should you hear anything exciting about Billy's new romance." M. M. '14.

Did You Know?

HAT three of our most Renowned students have returned to College this year to take up "Post???" Graduate work—viz., Bob T., Sleepy Dick, and Reggie.

That Hold-Up Jones was caught selling his photographs to the innocent inhabitants of his native hamlet after that little incident in the Park?

That Dr. Dixon was pleased to read the Yellow Journal Edition of Weekly? No? Well, neither did any one else.

That Bob Marx had a moustache? Well, if you look real hard, you will see that that is not dirt on his upper lip, as you may have suspected.

That Al. Carter was the hardest worker in College and that he could never be found outside of the classrooms or the Library? No, I guess that you did not and next time you must observe more closely.

That moving pictures had been taken of that wonderful cabaret show that Newcomb gave and will be shown in the chapel during commencement week? (We expect a very large audience, to say the least.)

That Dean Creighton now allows smoking in the Engineering Building and that the students therein can make all the noise that they want without being interrupted by the Dean? If you did not know it, just read the signs in the building.

"The Tulane Club"

HE greatest organization that Tulane has ever seen was formed this year by a handful of our most loyal supporters, and we can predict a most brilliant success in all of its undertakings. The object of this club is to instill in the students a spirit and love for their Alma Mater that cannot be surpassed, and we firmly believe that this organization, under the strict guidance of our most ardent workers, will accomplish the end after which they are ever striving.

Already signs of prosperity have been made manifest to the public at large, and we can assure them that naught but success can ever cross the long and tedious journey that this organization proposes to take.

The first manifestations of their work was made known when the largest interscholastic track-meet in the South was advertised to take place at the stadium on May 16, 1914. This meet will be the biggest boost that Tulane has gotten in many a year, and we are sure that our University will appreciate the untiring efforts of the Managers of this meet and thank them for the benefits that will be derived therefrom.

The Tulane Club has come to stay, fellows, and we earnestly request each and every one of you to give it your worthy support and help to put the Athletics of old Tulane at the top of the ladder of success.

The Newcomb Flags That Got There

ILL the Newcomb flag get there?" was the question put to Newcomb students on the map that was made when the campaign for money to send delegates to the Student Volunteer Convention began. The red line of the railroad reaching from New Orleans to Kansas City, where the pennants of many colleges had gathered, looked very long, but gradually as

"Harriot", the first Newcomb pennant, progressed a mile more for each two cents contributed, and every one became interested in her journey, the distance seemed shorter. She was rescued from the perils of being stranded half-way in Wicked Memphis and finally reached Kansas City in safety. The other four followed in rapid succession. "Sophie" was sent all the way by the Juniors as the result of their party; "Newcomb" by the Domestic Science Department; "Memorial" by the Arts; and "College" by the general fund. The delegates elected by the student body were Misses Foules, Cushman, Sivewright, Barnwell, and Richardson.

Athletics

ARK, dreary and disappointing was the football season of 1913. Every day reports came to the anxious students of injuries on the gridiron, of star players being declared ineligible, of some hard-hearted faculty member smothering a youth's ambition, or of other similar catastrophe. Towards the end of the season, when the big games arrived, each Saturday beheld a defeat for old T. U. Thanksgiving Day was only a single chapter in the gloomy story.

Tulane and Newcomb should have been crushed, it seemed, by the weight of defeat. Practically any other student body in the United States would have ceased supporting a losing team. Members of the team tell that during the progress of one of the games on their trip, when Tulane was winning steadily, bets were freely offered by students of the rival institution that their team would not win another game during the season; many of these students left the field before the end of the game. Far different with Tulane! The newspapers predicted that L. S. U. would beat us 40 to 0. Did that kill Tulane spirit? Didn't we load to the steps one of the longest trains ever sent out over the Y. & M. V. with Tulane and Newcomb rooters? Didn't we stand by our team through rain and many, many L. S. U. touchdowns, letting them know that we were with them? Sure, we did! With the score pilling up against us our rooters stood up and gave an exhibition of real college spirit.

And we came back even stronger at every other game. That's spirit for you!

Now the team has been left out of this discussion so far, but only to have special mention here. Coached by one of the best men Tulane ever had to guide her football heroes, Hoffman, the team did all in its power to be worthy of the respect and helpfulness shown by the student body. In spite of defeat, losses of players and injuries, the team fought their very best in every game. If any team beat us, they worked for it. Some of them missed. The L. S. U. score would not have been so bad on a dry field, where Coach Hoffman's open formations and "Big Swede's" toe both worked to advantage. The scrubs, too, stuck it out; many of them never missed a practice, although without a chance in the world of making the Varsity. All honor to the scrubs, and may there be many of them next year! Speaking of next year recalls the fact that Sweetland, our new coach, will be with us, and in spite of the new Freshman ineligibility rule we will have a great team; one that will be a basis for future teams to build on. All that the coach needs is a squad of men, and we fully expect that such a squad will be forthcoming next year.

"Revenge is sweet," saith the poet, thereby establishing the motto of Tulane's 1914 basketball team. We beat L. S. U. four straight games. Yea, verily! At first there were many set-backs, as in football. Captain "Skeet" Glass was forced by circumstances and the ever-present faculty to sever connections with the University. Barnett, star guard last year, was unable to play on account of debating. Most of us went to the first game on account of the dance so widely advertised by the manager to be held after the game. The team won and kept on winning. Attendance at the games was great, for besides the pleasure of seeing Tulane win, there was always a wrestling, boxing, or gymnastic exhibition between halves and a dance after the game. Coach Hanson proved that he is a master of basketball strategy and able to impart his knowledge to his team. Numerous trick plays there were, starting with Fritz Oakes at center. A gilt defense kept down the scores of our rivals. Only on the road, just after the first games with L. S. U., was Tulane defeated, and there are many reasons for these defeats. The whole squad was more or less crippled, they were on strange ground, and Altman, star forward, was entirely out of the game through L. S. U. roughing. A great deal of discussion arose over the roughness exhibited during the Baton Rouge series. Everybody now understands that neither Tulane nor L. S. U. meant to be unsportsmanlike, and most cordial athletic relations now exist between the universities.

The baseball team of 1913 did not hit its stride until near the end of the season, but then it went a-whizzing. One of the prettiest stunts ever pulled off in the stadium took place when Vandeveer, Tulane's long and lanky pitcher, hurled two games against L. S. U. on two successive days and won both. Tulane is very fortunate in possessing about the best coach in the country, Bruce Hayes, whom we all believe has Connie Mack beaten six ways. The 1914 team, with games already played with Jefferson College, University of Mississippi, and L. S. U., still has a clean slate. "Old Warhorse" Gillis has two shut-outs to his credit. We may reasonably expect that the 1914 team will have the best record of any baseball team produced at Tulane. The schedule is much better than usual, more interest is shown by the students, and everything points to a prominent place on the Southern Intercollegiate Baseball Championship horizon.

Largely through the efforts of Edgar Morris and Arthur Waters, Tulane was placed on the Intercollegiate tennis map in 1913. These men started a movement which resulted in a dual tournament with L. S. U., which Tulane won; and a Gulf States Intercollegiate Tournament in New Orleans, which Tulane also won. This year tennis has been taken under the wing of the T. A. A., a regular manager appointed and great things are expected of the team.

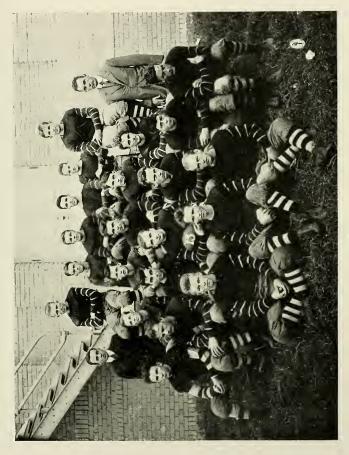

Coach Hanson has taken great pains to organize wrestling and handball teams as a fit winter training for football men. A future of great service is in store for these sports, the greatest indoor developers of wind and muscle.

Track work is a favorite at Tulane and good teams are the rule here. In 1913 our opponents were too strong for us, as a rule, but in spite of this our team was one to be proud of. Among its numbers were Werlein, Southern Champion high jumper; Bert Coleman, Southern Intercollegiate Champion sprinter; "Skeet" Glass, S. I. A. A. pole-vault winner, and many others worthy of mention. This year a regular track coach, Tad Gormley, known throughout the South, has been secured to train the men. The Southern Interscholastic Track Meet, to be held in the Stadium under the auspices of the Tulane Club, is sure to induce some good men to come to Tulane, besides placing the University before the public in a most favorable way.

With the combined aid of the new T. A. A., the Tulane Club, and the whole student body, athletics are on the boom and are going to stay on the boom. We are waking up. The process is slow, but positively sure. Tulane athletics are bound to succeed.

THE SQUAD

GILLIS	''Nig''
Nig, the old time star of long ago, was held out on account of injury until the game with L. S. U., but in that game one could see that Nig knew the game, for his playing in this contest was well worthy of much praise and he was often cheered throughout this bloody conquest.
Underwood	Undy''
Undy did not show up on the gridiron until late in the season and had very little practice with the team, but the time that he was out showed that he was a valuable man and will be a great help to next year's team.
GATELY	Gate"
Tracy has three more years to play the game, and although he is one of the most consistent players on the team, he lacked experience, but much is expected of Tracy in the three remaining years of his college life.
Maihles	'Pete''
Pete was the best defensive player on the team and often stopped more end runs than an ordinary man could do. He played rings around his opponents and will be one of the stars in the South in a very short time.

WOODWARD
A good natured big Swede with lots of pep, fight, and much noise. His toe work was his specialty and brought him notoriety throughout the South and Middle West. As a tackle he was a bear and one of the best that has come down the line.
Grehan
Pinky, like the rest of his Irish race, had all kinds of pep and fight instilled in his bones and was one of the hardest workers on the team.
Hotard
We regret very much that Hot did not come out for the team until his last year at college, but as it was he played like an old veteran and tore up many lines of the opponents.
CORBIN
Keno has two more years to play the game and during that time we expect to see him one of the stars of old Tulane, for he is built for a player and has lots of fight and per in his system.

Sharp
Although Henry has been in college quite a while, this was the first season that he came out for football and we are glad that he came out, for his work in the backfield was very good, and although a little light, he was fast enough to make up the weight.
FICK
Sleeter, although inexperienced at the game, was one of the hardest players on the team.
GEORGE
Frash has played regular now for two years and little can be said here that is not already known all over the South, for every day almost would see his name in the papers as doing some phenomenal work on the field. Frash was so good a player that the boys unanimously elected him as their captain next year and in that position we predict naught but success.
GOODSEN
It was not until the last of the season that the coach used Charlie, but his work in the L. S. U. and Arkansas games gained him fame for the season.

MARKS, Capt
Samter, the old reliable, played always in his usual good form and his management of the team showed that he knew the game from A to Z. We are sad at the thought of graduating such a valuable asset to the team and wish to extend him our heartiest congratulations for his work on the field.
HINDERMAN
As a fullback, Frenchy was hard to beat, and often he would plough through buck walls and other obstacles for a large gain. He was a sure player and always could be depended on to make the required distance.
WHITE
Baldy was one of the surest tacklers on the team and when he went after a man he meant business and never failed to land his prey.
ROSENTHAL
Rosie had the difficulty to play several different positions during the season and showed up well in all of them. We hope that Rosie will play his regular end next year and show up some of his opponents in the South.

History of 1913 Football Season

E cannot say that Tulane had a very successful season, for that would appear as if we were trying to mislead the public, which is a thing that we must always guard against in order to hold our place of honor and dignity among the Southern colleges.

No, we did not reap many laurels on the gridiron this year, but we can truthfully say that no team ever worked harder for its Alma Mater than did the squad of 1913.

We confess that success was far beyond our reach, but we claim that if five of our best men, who are in the Medical Department and who were held out by their studies and the FACULTY, had stayed out with the team, old Tulane would not have finished very far behind the best teams of the South.

Under conditions that prevailed during the past season, we want to thank Coach Hoffman for his untiring efforts on the field. He coached his men well, and it was only due to mishaps and through no fault of his that the team did not come out on top.

From the schedule below one can judge for oneself as to the success of the 1913 Football Team, but you know the old saying: "Wait until next year." Well, wait!!!

OAKES		"Fritz"
-------	--	---------

Fritz was one of the hardest men on the team to replace and it would have taken several good coaches to develop another like him. We regret that he was hurt in the latter part of the season, which kept him out of the last few games of the season.

MARSTON "Freshie"

Freshie is one of our all-round Athletes and he can play one game as well as another, and although baseball is his specialty, he was a most valuable assistance to the basketball team. He was fast, strong, and full of pep.

Roger has been on the team for two years now and from present looks it seems that he will play as many more years. Roger is a hard worker and nothing less than praise should be given for his playing this season.

Lyons "Charlton"

Charlton in the recent games with L. S. U. showed his old Alma Mater what he could do towards helping the team win the State championship. He is a fast man on his feet and can easily slip around his opponents to great advantage.

RAMIREZ "Rammy"

Rammy, our old star of some time ago, is still in prime order and has not lost any of his skill and agility as a baskeball player. As a goal shooter, Rammy is a wonder and there are very few in these parts who can beat him at this game.

Woodward "Swede"

The Swede is by far one of the most valuable players that has ever come to college, and when the whistle blows he begins his unceasing attack on the opponents and never gives in until the game is called. As captain he deserves as much credit as player, for he handled his team well and always came out on top in all discussions.

ALTMAN "Finnegan"

Finnegan was such a good player that in one of the games some one tried to annibilate him, but you know the old saying goes: "You can't keep a good man down."

JAMBALAYA

Basketball History, 1914

HE 1914 basketball season was a success from two standpoints—that of winning games and a financial one. The season opened with a game at St. Paul's College of Covington when the football members of the basketball team had sweet memories revived. We managed to win a hard-fought game from these hard-working youngsters. The first game with a college of our own ranking was with Mississippi College in New Orleans. We, as you remember, got our revenge for the football defeat by scoring five times as many points as they did in the first game, and twice as many in the second game. Then came Southwestern L. I. I. This team was "easy picking." They were hard workers, but lacked experience and Tulane scored eight times as many points as did the Lafayette boys. Our next exhibition of goal shooting was in a "come back" game with the Alumni. The old boys were there with the old "class and pep" for a few minutes, but when the latter lagged the former went with it. "Doc" Patton and Semmes Walmsley showed they had not forgotten how, and "Doc" Bradburn, Linder and Love were even brilliant at times.

Our two victories over L. S. U. on their own court, something that happened for the first time in history, was next on the program. The scores of these games were 26 to 12 and 10 to 7 respectively. Traces of football playing were quite evident in this series, and it gave us an "excuse" for our very poor showing on the Mississippi trip, one of our stars being severely injured. In Clinton a team that had been overwhelmingly defeated by us at the start of the season, defeated us on a slow outdoor court. We next went to Starkville to play the "Aggies." In both of our games there we were leading at the end of the first half, but the wear of the trip told on us and we were handed two defeats. Our trip home from Starkville was very interesting indeed, but it would take the rest of the pages in this book to tell it to you. The stress of Mardi Gras failed to "get us" and the same week we "hung" the finishing touches on the Tiger and had him completely tamed by the time the final whistle blew. Four games straight, I hold, is a great record to tell the grandchildren on your knee, especially when our opponent was the Mighty (?) Tiger from Red Stick.

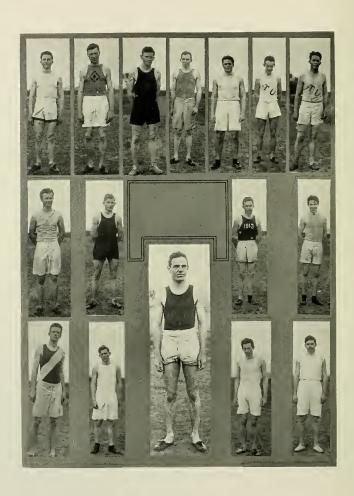

CAPTAIN WOODWARD
Shiner holds down the first sack to perfection and there are few balls that ever pass him. High balls are his specialty.
Vanderveer
This big league pitcher came to us from the blue grass regions and, under the guidance of Bruce Hayes, he developed into the best college pitcher in the South to-day.
GOODSEN
Out in the garden Charlic is a bear and is one of the most valuable men on the team.
His hitting is wonderful and he is as fast as Tyrus himself on the bases.

Tulane on Track and Field During 1913

A General Athletic Review of the Olive and Blue Campaign on Cinder Path and Field

BY CAPTAIN BERT COLEMAN

FATED shortly and succinctly, Tulane's 1913 season was satisfactory. She turned out no world-beaters; she surprised not the universe with new and startling luminaries; she failed to turn out a winner in the two big track meets of the season—the L. S. U. tussle and the S. I. A. A. championships; but on taking a broad perspective, we are forced to fold our hands complacently over our chests and view with a broad smile our 13 accomplishments.

In the first place, we must recollect that track offers less inducements in the form of remuneration and amusement than any other sport. Preparation for track and field sports includes nothing more than a steady grind of joyless jogging, rubbing, and running, with a great deal of hard labor thrown into the bargain. In spite of these hardships ever present, Tulane's stadium encompassed no less than forty men during the season, each striving to show himself worthy of his team; and be it said to the everlasting glory of our Alma Mater that favoritism did not and never has played a part in the selection of the various teams' members. If an athlete shows the stuff that athletes are made of—grit, determination, and natural ability—it has never been suggested that his failure of success in being selected or rejected as a representative of the Olive and Blue was due to anything worse than the respective coaches' honest opinion as to the candidates' peculiar fitness and adaptability.

Individual stars was Tulane's forte in 1913, but her defeat lay in this very fact. In the first place, men had been attended to to the exclusion of second and third place developments. Montgomery and Coleman in the sprints and Commagere, the Southern Intercollegiate champion, stand out pre-eminently. Seldom has a greater runner or a more consistent athlete in the quarter and half been seen South than good old "Monty;" while Adolph Commagere's form and tossing of the 16-pound hammer has gained him the well-deserved name of Southern Champion.

But we are perforce compelled, by restricted space, to forego further praise of our heroes and obliged to confine ourselves to "more substance and less verbiage."

Now for the L. S. U. meet held at Baton Rouge May 11, in which we shall stop only long enough to allow you a peep of the gravest disappointment of the season. Dope was with us, but failed to run true to form. Three first places only did Tulane capture, to the keen disappointment of the student body, and the immense gratification of the "Tigers." The score was something like this:

100 Yards-Upton (L. S. U.), Jenkins (L. S. U.), Smith (Tulane), 101-5 seconds.

880 Yards—Weinman (Tulane), Montgomery (Tulane), Nettles (L. S. U.), 2 minutes, 54-5 seconds.

220 Yards-Upton (L. S. U.), Coleman (Tulane), Galloway (L. S. U.), 23 seconds.

120 High Hurdles-Burris (L. S. U.), Hazlip (L. S. U.), Fenno (Tulane) disqualified, 17 minutes, 2 seconds.

Shot—Dutton (L. S. U.), Reid (L. S. U.), Priestly Werlein (Tulane), 40 feet, 5 inches. High Jump—Smith (L. S. U.), P. P. Werlein (Tulane), Hotard (Tulane), 5 feet, 9 inches. 440 Yards—Montgomery (Tulane), Galloway (L. S. U.), Weinman (Tulane), 54 seconds. 220 Low Hurdles—Lewis (L. S. U.), Hazlip (L. S. U.), Harris (Tulane), 28 seconds. Discus—Dutton (L. S. U.), Dupont (L. S. U.), Friestly Werlein (Tulane), 116 feet, 6 inches. Mile—Cockerham (L. S. U.), Preston (L. S. U.), Chase (Tulane), 4 minutes, 51 seconds. Broad Jump—Lewis (L. S. U.), Hazlip (L. S. U.), Van Horn (Tulane), 21 feet, 2 inches. Pole Vault—Newhauser (L. S. U.), Glass (Tulane), Cockerham (L. S. U.), 11 feet. Hammer—Commagere (Tulane), Dutton (L. S. U.), Spencer (L. S. U.), 140 feet, 9 inches. Total scores: L. S. U., 81; Tulane, 35.

The S. I. A. A., held at Tulane stadium May 18 was no kindlier disposed. Through the benignant aid of Providence and a few sturdy limbs Tulane emerged to find herself tied with Vanderbilt for third place. Taken all in all, this meet was the classiest and most spectacular of any intercollegiate ever held in the South, and the exploits of the athletes given enduring proof to the statement that athletics in Dixie's colleges are rising ever on a higher plane. As the Times Democrat said, in the morning following the meet: "The meet Saturday broke all records for speed and compares favorably with the time made by the Eastern colleges." Truly a significant enconium to Southern athletes.

It is worthy to note that Commagere of Tulane established a new Southern record in the hammer, breaking the old mark by two inches; Glass of Tulane beat his old rival Newhauser of L. S. U.; the same can be said of Coleman, who turned the tables on Upton in the 100-yard dash, while Montgomery of Tulane only lost the opportunity of setting two new records in the quarter and half by inches. Results of S. I. A. A.:

100 Yards—Coleman (Tulane), Wells (Miss. A. & M.), Upton (L. S. U.), 101-5 seconds. 880 Yards—Scott (Miss. A. & M.), Montgomery (Miss. A. & M.), Nelson (Vanderbilt), 2:011-5 seconds.

Hammer-Conmagere (Tulane), Dutton (L. S. U.), Tuberville (Clemson), 138 feet, 3 inches.

220 Yards-Upton (L. S. U.), Wells (Miss. A. & M.), Coleman (Tulane), 23 1-5 seconds.

120 High Hurdles—Burris (L. S. U.), Andrews (Ga. Tech.), Chadwick (Miss. A. & M.). 163-5 seconds.

Shot—Tuberville (Clemson), Dutton (L. S. U.), McArthur (Miss. A. & M.), 40 8-10 feet.

High Jump-Robinson (Ga. Tech.), 5 feet 9 inches; Werlein (Tulane), 5 feet 8 inches; Hill (Georgia), 5 feet, 6 inches.

220 Low Hurdles—Stahlman (Vanderbilt), Chester (Vanderbilt), Chadwick (Miss. A. & M.). 26 4-5 seconds.

440 Yards—Scott (Miss. A. & M.), Galloway (L. S. U.), Copeland (Vanderbilt), 511-5 seconds. Mile—Gill (Vanderbilt), Lewis (Clemson), Chase (Tulane), 4 minutes, 362-5 seconds.

Discus—Lamb (Miss. A. & M.), 1141-10 feet; Dutton (L. S. U.), 1071-2; Tuberville (Clemson), 101 feet.

Pole Vault-Glass (Tulane) and Folger (Citidel) tied for first with 10 feet 6 inches; Neuhauser (L. S. U.), 10 feet.

Broad Jump—Lewis (L. S. U.), 21 1-2 feet 2 1-2 inches; Chester (Vanderbilt, 20 feet 8 1-2 inches; Chadwick (Miss. A. & M.), 20 feet 2 inches.

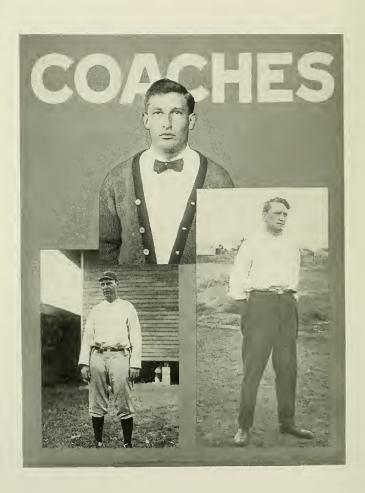

Total points scored by respective colleges: Louisiana State University, 31; Mississippi A. & M., 26; Tulane and Vanderbilt tied for third with 23 each; Clemson, 10; Georgia Tech., 8; Citidel, 3; University of Georgia, 1.

A meeting of the "T" men, called after the meet, elected Bert Coleman Captain of the Track Team for 1914.

The loyal alumnæ showed their appreciation of the importance of track athletics as an advertising medium by sending Capt. Coleman and Wallace Montgomery to the Missouri Valley Conference Meet, held in St. Louis May 30 and 31, where they captured places in the 100 yards and 440 yards respectively.

The following were members of the track squad for 1913: Capt. Coleman, Wallace Montgomery, Baker Smith, Rudolph Weinman, Fred Fenno, P. P. Werlein, Priestly Werlein, Roland Hotard, Sanford Glass, Van Buren Harris, Van Horn, Ernest Chase, Adolph Commagere, Mathias, Sumter Cousin, Achorn, Wyndham.

"Sense and Nonsense"

A Newcomb graduate, in taking leave of her dean, said: "Good-bye, Professor, I shall not forget you. I am indebted to you for all that I know."

"Oh, I beg of you," replied the professor, "don't mention such a trifle."

Proud Father: "Son, will you get through all your exams. this year?"

Truthful Son: "O, yes, father, with E's-with E's."

This conversation was overheard at the Alumni Banquet:

Meyer turned to his partner with a yawn: "Who is that strange looking man over there who stares at me so much," he drawled.

"Oh, that's Professor H----," she replied, "the famous expert on insanity."

"My daughter is quite an excellent Latin scholar," said the proud father of a Newcomb girl to a visitor. "Here is one of her exercise books; you can see for yourself."

The girl blushed scarlet and made a wild grab for the book. She was too late, for the visitor had already begun to read out loud:

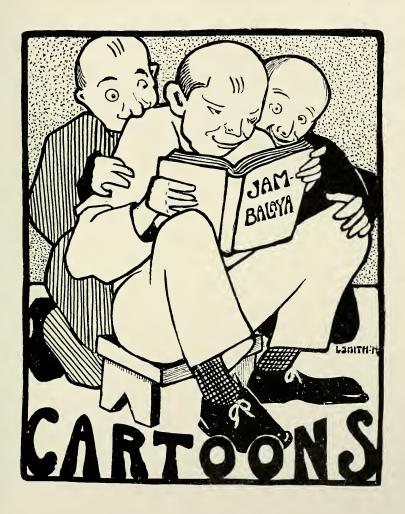

"Boyibus kissibus Sweet girliorum; Girlibus likibus, Wanti somorum."

"What made you say that Bob Marks was used to drinking?"

"Because he took dinner home the other night, and when they passed him the charlotte russe he tried to blow the foam off of it."

WE'VE CAGED HIM FELLOWS

AT BATON ROUGE

Over the Phone

ELLO; that you, Lois?"

"Why, hello, Connie" (spoken with diffidence).

"Well, you're a fine one. I demand-"

"Never mind about that. If you only knew what I've been through," quaveringly. "As usual, I was a little late to begin dressing. And to make matters worse, there was nobody left to hook me up except that nasty Caro Harrison—Oh, but I hate her!—almost had to go down on my knees to her, but there was nothing else to do. I was twenty minutes late as it was. Well, in flying around, I caught my dress and ripped it unmercifully. Mind you, hat on, face powdered, everything ready but the last touch or two. Did it make me sick? I just sat down and cried my eyes red; and you waiting all that time; and nobody left in the Annex but Caro, who stood there inwardly gloating over my hard luck—I'm sure of that."

"Gee, Lois, but you do have the tough luck. But you can imagine how I felt waiting at Hill's a solid forty-five minutes. And that's the second time we've failed to meet—looks as if an evil genius were trying to get somebody's go—"

"It does look that way, Conrad, but you see how it was. Oh, I could have died! I've had a bad taste in my mouth ever since. Say, I've a piece of news! Tuesday's my birthday."

"That's so, sixteen or fifteen?"

"Oh, both!"

"Ha, ha! You girls. Wish there were a dance that night."

"Well, make it some other night. I'm always ready, you know."

"Good enough. Well, I'll ring off now, Lois. See you soon. Ta ta."

"Au revoir."

As Conrad turned away from the 'phone, "Satisfactory apology," he thought, "but this waiting on corners business begins to grow a little tiresome. Oh, well!—but what'll I send her for her birthday? I have it—a bunch of carnations, pink—I despise the color, but she likes it. Well, it's a good thing that we disagree on something; and then there's Caro Harrison; strikes me she's a good sort after all; I believe Lois does her an injustice."

Conrad did not indulge himself in a trip to Canal Street Monday afternoon; instead, ordering the carnations by 'phone. They arrived all right Tuesday, creating no little stir in the Annex, with the result that Lois was given an enjoyable ascendency over the other girls for the day, at least; wherefore, naturally, they proved the most acceptable gift that she received.

Howbeit, there is a sequel to the events of Tuesday. Wednesday morning, for what reason I shall not assign, Lois' gentleman friend from Tulane, who, let me inform you confidentially, was much more than friend, happened to stroll along the uptown side of Washington Avenue in a neighborhood dear to all normal Leanders of the Olive and Blue. Glancing casually, and perfectly naturally, towards the Annex, what was his consternation upon beholding a garbage can surmounted by a crown of pink, the very blossoms—there could be no doubt of it—which he had ordered sent the previous morning. Those flowers meant a sacrifice on his part; but they meant much more than that; they were a messenger of the tender regard, daily ripening into love, which he felt for a girl who was all he could have wished, save in one or two small points, and had been advanced one step nearer young womanhood by the very event of the day before that had called forth this bouquet in recognition of his growing esteem and affection.

Conrad had not much zest for his work that day.

In the evening, dinner over, he went to the 'phone, following his habit. His eagerness was far below its usual pitch; still, he wanted to guard against any possibility of making much over nothing. Responding to Central's "Number, please," "Jackson 1609-W," he commanded, in a tone of imperious and frigid definiteness. As luck would have it, Caro Harrison had previously engaged the services of Jackson 1609-W. Caro is rather long-winded. After futile attempts—Conrad was patient—he gave up, a victim of Central's "busy" once more recorded as never having called Central a liar or even thought her one.

That was Wednesday. Thursday found him downtown around six-thirty, and rushing the pit afterwards to see May Irwin. Friday afternoon, completely taken with work, was followed by dinner at a friend's home. Disaster seemed to be brooding over his "case," at any rate, so far as the daily 'phone chat with the sylph of the Annex was concerned. And now came Saturday. About a quarter of seven Conrad applied for Jackson one—six—o—nine—W. Caro did not have the 'phone this time; but somebody else did (maybe Lois herself). Ere long seven o'clock had arrived, past which hour of fate no one may talk via 'phone to the dormitorial maids. Sunday succeeded, with Conrad dateless, and out of all humor to attempt an engagement with Lois.

But let us inquire into the state of Lois' mind by the beginning of the ensuing week. A gift from Conrad the previous Tuesday, but not a word either by 'phone or otherwise since the Sunday night preceding that Tuesday. Oh, he would advance some good reason! But explanations didn't carry much weight with Lois. It was humiliating! and a wave of fury surged through her. Where she had to wait, it was his to make all the advances. Truly a pretty arrangement.

"Why, wasn't Connie around yesterday?" asked Olivia Matthews.

"How should I know?" snapped Lois.

"Oh, if you take it like that!" intoned Olivia.

That Monday night connected a certain number Walnut with a certain number Jackson, and so brought into collision the disappointment mingled with petulance of Lois and the disappointment of Conrad. After the usual cheery sallies, howbeit tempered by the slightly "off" feeling of both girl and man, Lois demanded an account of her Tulanian. Needless to say, the account was more satisfactory to the giver than to the receiver.

"Well, I suppose that'll have to do," commented the girl.

"And now," rejoined Conrad, "I'd like a word of explanation for my part;" and, after describing his Wednesday morning experience, "was it all you cared for me or my gift to keep it one day and then pitch it into the garbage can?"

"Perhaps it was a little premature," suggested Lois; "but just because they were carnations didn't mean I was to keep them forever, I hope?"

"Well, to be frank, they cost just a little. What's more, they couldn't have been badly withered, anyway you make it. But it wasn't that—it's the sentiment."

"Oh, well, if you take it like-"

"Oh, never mind," interrupted Conrad; "we'll let bygones be. And now, tell me what you've been doing in your spare moments since I saw you last."

"Spare moments! I'd like to know when I ever have any? When it's not a party or meeting or—" and Lois was off on a catalogue of ever-succeeding events, calculated to thrill anybody, much less her lover, who was highly pleased to find his chosen a live wire in the fullest sense of the word.

By June things had become serious, in the accepted sense of the word. Lois tarried for Commencement—magnificent sacrifice! but a real sacrifice, where Commencement consists of little more than the ceremonies of graduation.

And now behold Lois, but yesterday a Sophomore, and Conrad, but yesterday a Senior, traveling in state to Nashville—had I told you they were from that city?—and experiencing, one after another, the great emotions of homecoming.

By late June things had become more serious. So that we find our Tulane alumnus enjoying the process of choosing a ring intended for the left hand of Lois. The ring, however, was fated never to rest on her finger, for it was lost during the bustle and change of the day. A hard blow for Conrad! Like every normal youth.

never ahead of his income or even on an equal with it, the loss of a costly ring was disastrous.

And then Conrad thought of a previous gift, the birthday blossoms, lost in quite a different way. "It does look as if something objected to my pleasure in giving gifts to Lois," he reflected. And the thought was not pleasant.

Although pretty well taken down, and aware that there was hardly a chance in a thousand for the recovery of the jewel, he advertised for it, resolved to leave no stone unturned.

"Shall I tell her of the loss, or shall I not? Wouldn't it be better to say nothing, and just rake and scrape and buy another?" So he pondered, as he waited eternally for the other end of the line to respond. Finally the expressive tones of Lois' mother were heard over the wire. But over and above them was heard a veritable screech: "Will you please get out of here and let me rest in peace?" (Lois talking to her little brother).

Conrad was free to cut off; he had spoken no word; he had not compromised himself. "A mistake," reported Lois' mother.

Next day he dropped by the office of the Nashville ——— and in answer to the query of the advertising editor, said: "Will you please withdraw that ad. I put in yesterday for the ring?"

The advertising editor asked in surprise: "You don't mean to say you've found it already?"

"Oh, no!" replied Conrad; then quickly collecting himself, "but that doesn't make any difference. Just cut it out." And he dropped the money owed for one day on the counter.

R. K. Munn,

Being the Proposal of a Matter-of-Fact College Professor After the Manner of His Class Lectures

OOD evening." Adjusting his eye-glasses and sitting down. "Did I leave any question with you at our last meeting?"

"I thought not. Well, there's one question I want to discuss with you to-night, but before coming to that I want to take up a minor point. You remember when I first started talking to you about love—a long time ago? I said—Oh! by the way" (readjusting his eye-glasses), "while I think of it, there's to be a play here next week I'd like very much for you to see. It's very seldom we get to see a real good play here in New Orleans, so when we have the chance we should take advantage of it. When do I come to see you? Thursday? Good! We'll go that night, and it'll count for my visit." Once more placing his eye-glasses at the right angle.

"But, to go back to the subject of love which I started several weks ago with a few introductory statements." Pause, during which he opens a window. "Will this be too cool for you? Say so, if it is."

"Perhaps I'm not being just with you in discussing this before becoming familiar with what your father has to say about marriage. I intended to see him before to-night, but didn't. However, that doesn't mean at all that I'm not familiar with what a great many fathers think on the subject." (Once more adjusting his eye-glasses.)

"To digress for a moment; there's another point I want to make which leads up to my main question. It concerns the wages of a college professor; they are not very high, but, leaving aside the justice of the rate (which involves ethics), let us consider the practical side—could he support a— Yes, sure! Professors work just as hard as anybody else and ought to get just as much money, but let's stick to our main question. Do you think a girl would marry a man with my salary? A very good answer, but not what I'm driving at; you'll see my point in a minute. To put my question in a different way." (Once again he adjusts his eye-glasses.) "Do you think you could ever grow to care for me?" (Looking at his watch.) "I must go now, but think that question over and remind me to begin with a discussion of it at our next meeting."

She must have reminded him—he's married now (and still adjusting his eye-glasses).

Alice Gets Her Reward

PRING was on deck, and that clover-leaf spirit at the bat. Professors accustomed to sit in a high chair during class and twist and squirm about with lean trilbies rocking the wastebasket to and fro, now kicked the trash preserver over, and leaned back in the chair until the thoughtful girls wished that the back would break, so contagious was the spirit of spring.

But we divert. Spring is not the subject of our discourse tonight. Neither the Yellow Journal Edition, no matter how interesting it may have been, nor the thoughtless selections of Phi Beta Kappa, nor the Boobs, nor Agnes Scott, no matter how pleasant.

Once again, it was spring. Green-capped freshies at Tulane, no more belligerent, hummed softly to themselves, and at heart rejoiced at the decision of Supreme Court Dinwiddie and his court in decreeing that pre-sophs wear the emerald topgear. Birds were singing also. They always do when one writes about spring. Even the Item caught that Easter spirit of good-will and left alleged scandals off their front page.

But though it was spring, and the rabbit had raced home to prepare for the fall hunting season, yet Alice, the Dana Gibson ideal of Newcomb, was "o'ercome with emotion," as Laura Jean Libbey or Shakespeare would say. Alice was really perturbed. Wherefore, she did not know, only things weren't just breaking right. That is, she thought so, which was a mystery to her companions. Alice was about to graduate. Shouldn't she be happy? True, she had managed to skip through boresome classes on D's, and tangoed too much, but all that came under the head of a Newcomb education.

Anyway, Alice was blue. She went about in listless fashion, that dreamy, faraway look, booming out a curfew to music and art, speaking only when necessary, breezing to the window and staring out, and such things.

Alice was still at the window when a delegation of her sisters from the—you know—fraternity interrupted the reverie.

"We want to know what's the matter, dearie," they said in unison. "What is oo urried about?"

The angels of comfort nudged each other, wriggled, clasped hands, expecting clean-cut, well-modulated statements from Alice, warranted to give diaphanous assurance. Alice, over-keyed, fell limply into the leader's arms, had her cry, straightened out, and spoke soft and low together:

"I'm about to graduate," started Alice, at which the girls looked knowingly at one another as much as to say: "I told you that was on her mind."

JAMBALAYA

The last tear had controverted Tennyson's yarn about the brook, and Alice continued:

"But it's not that on my mind. I feel as though my education is not complete. It's about a boy, or rather a student." (The angels of comfort sat stern and flashed Era Club eyes at mention of the common.)

"The only trouble about it is," said Alice, smiling now, for it was spring and winter's burden was off her shoulders," is that I only saw him once. But that one time!" (Here Alice sighed as though the thought of Steve was worth more than an crdinary diploma, while the other girls began thinking of their various Steves.) "He saw me, too, and Oh, he's been on my mind ever since!"

At this point Stella and May handed Alice some ice water, which, evidently, was soothing balm.

Alice was still at the window when the other girls filed out trained-nursedly, full of that "it'll pass over now" air.

Long and hard she stared at the horizon, dreaming of her ideal, then of the dismal prospect of life back among the hills, and she began to question if it was worth while to have spent the happy days of a college student, for four long years, then hike it back where a devoted family would "bill and coo" over their daughter's college career for the next few years.

Musing thus, as the window which we forgot to say was open, a trained pigeon suddenly hovered above Alice, as if to find the proper party through the process of elimination, circled around a couple of times flapping its wings to attract attention, then dropped a note on Alice's "straight-up" raven tresses.

Alice ran, not the gauntlet, but the gamut of emotions, so to speak, as she read, re-read, and heart-throbbed over the following:

"Whether or not I ever see you again, I just have to tell you that the one time I saw you made me want you forever. Of course it's all a chance, but I rather say 'I tried' than go on moping all the time. I don't even know your last name, but what does that matter. It's up to you to decide whether you shall go back to that farm among the hills or stick it out with me. My profession is law. Engineering is too hard." ("The soft stranger," she said.)

"My record is full of such things as the Noridirg, when Sloo Hammond blossomed forth as a keg promoter. I took a leading part in the Enalut Riot, the same show which some of your Newcomb alumnæ alleged was a sure enough Riot and said we hurt their scenery; also several Tulane Night enterprises. Was around when Sloo held up Freshie Jones in Audubon Park, and was a party to that shooting scrape last year in dormitory. As for jollifications back on the campus, I was always there. Am a

"So, Alice, it's up to you. I started out the same moment I sent this bird, so when you get through reading this I ought to be under your window." STEVE."

"Remember also this may be your last chance.

Alice gave one look below, and sure enough there was Steve. The pigeon had sailed away, her companions gone off to play, and Steve was still there. Alice had been finally rewarded.

Moral to Newcomb Dorm Girls and others interested: Don't throw things too hard out of the window. It may be your last chance. G. W. B., '14.

"A LAWYER'S WIT"

As Percy Brown entered the classroom the other day, Prof. McGovney, looking from his roll call, said: "Close the door, Mr. White." An uproarious laughter greeted this request; and Mac, looking up with a sheepish grin, addressed the class as follows: "Well I knew he was a gentleman of color."

Our New Football Coach

OACH E. R. SWEETLAND was graduated from Cornell University with the class of 1899. Immediately after his graduation he became coach of the football team at Hamilton College and while there succeeded in having his team defeat Colgate University 30 to 0 and 38 to 0, as well as Trinity 18 to 6.

His successes at Hamilton brought him the position of football coach at Syracuse University during the season 1900, 1901 and 1902. His team defeated Amherst, Columbia, Oberlin, Brown, Dickinson, Williams, and Colgate, and during the three years the Syracuse football team lost only one game to Yale, Princeton, Lafayette and Cornell.

His successes at Syracuse caused him to be retained by this University to coach its 'Varsity Eight—there being recorded to the credit of his crew victories over Georgetown. University of Pennsylvania and Harvard.

In 1903 Coach Sweetland was recalled at Hamilton College, where flattering offers were made him, and again in the Fall of this year he secured triumphs for Hamilton. It was then that the Ohio State University offered him the position of coach of football, basketball and track, which position Coach Sweetland accepted and in which he served during 1904, 1905 and 1906. It was during his connection with Ohio State University that the teams of this institution won for the first time the "Big Six" championship in football, basketball and track.

In 1906 Coach Sweetland decided to further augment his store of knowledge, and in the Fall of 1906 he re-entered Cornell University as a graduate student and assisted in coaching football, winding up the end of the season by coaching Colgate track team, which that year won the New York State Intercollegiate Championship.

Having finished his graduate work at Cornell, Mr. Sweetland began to study law at Syracuse in 1907, and while engaged in that work became superintendent of the Syracuse Boys' Club, an athletic organization at Syracuse.

But Colgate University had remembered the work of Coach Sweetland in 1906, and in 1908 induced Mr. Sweetland to become its football coach. It was in that year that the Colgate football team won the New York State Intercollegiate Championship, just as the 1906 track team had won the same championship.

After this brilliant record the Kentucky State University induced Mr. Sweetland to become its Director of Athletics, which psoition he kept during 1909, 1910 and 1911. The track team of that institution won three years consecutively the Kentucky Intercollegiate championship; while during the season of 1911 the basketball team won every game it played, the football team defeated the Universities of Tennessee, Illinois and North Carolina.

Tulanians will remember that it was in 1910, while Coach Sweetland was directing the athletic destinies of Kentucky State, that the latter institution defeated our football team on the occasion of our team's trip to Kentucky.

Again did Sweetland's work attract attention elsewhere, and recognition came from the University of Wisconsin, who tendered him its Chair of Associate Professor of Physical Training. The extreme cold at Madison, Wisconsin, and the disagreeable winter brought on an attack of pneumonia and Mr. Sweetland was forced to withdraw his acceptance of the position tendered him.

In the Fall of 1911 we find Mr. Sweetland as coach of the football team of Miami University of Ohio. Kentucky State, however, would not let the most successful coach in its athletic career remain away from it, and from January 1912, to the end of the session 1913, Mr. Sweetland was given Director of Athletics and Physical Training at the Kentucky State University.

Mr. Sweetland left the Kentucky State University to go to the West Virginia University, where, besides being director of intercollegiate sports, he taught in the Law School of that institution.

It was in Southern athletics that Coach Sweetland had the greatest confidence, and when he heard that there was a position vacant at Tulane he immediately applied, as he thought that in a large city and in a large college there would be unlimited possibilities. Not only as coach, but as expert manager of athletics, has Mr. Sweetland been most successful.

Mr. Sweetland stands six feet one, weighs two hundred and ten pounds, is unmarried, and is thirty-two years old. Mr. Sweetland is a big man in body and in mind, of sterling moral character and professor of energy.

SWAMPS

Swamps are not desirable to have about your home or in the neighborhood. They are not good to look at and they breed mosquitoes and other objectionable things. Ninety-five per cent of the land area within seventy-five miles of Tulane University is unreclaimed swamp or water soaked prairie.

But it happens that this unreclaimed land contains more plant food per acre than any other equal acreage in all the world. For unnumbered centuries, nature has been storing it away for man's use,—billions of tons of it, on five million acres. All of the gold mines of the world do not furnish as much new wealth each year as these water soaked acres could produce, if properly reclaimed and cultivated.

The struggles of the future between peoples and the nations will be for food and clothing. Plant food is the basis for both.

The presence of this potential food and clothing makes possible the building here of a great world city, when the plentitude of material wealth will make easy a well balanced society and where a refined civilization may reach its highest development.

What now appears to be a positive drawback, will become a great asset, such as no other city possesses. Nature has a way of making difficult the possessions of her richest treasures. To get the wealth of the swamps, we must drain them and make them fit and desirable abode of man.

This will take many men and much money. Tulane is now training engineers and financiers who will have a part in this work and Tulane-Newcomb men and women will find no richer fields for the investment of talent and energies than are in this lower Mississippi delta.

What Do Your Letters Cost?

THE maximum cost of the average business letter is about NINE CENTS. The minimum cost is FIVE CENTS. The average cost is SEVEN CENTS apiece. A corporation that turns out only 200 letters a day pays $14 a day—over $4,000 per annum—just for writing letters.

Analyze Your Letter Factory

The operating expense of your Letter Plant is governed by the working cost of two factors. These factors are (exclusive of postage):

Your human helpers—stenographers. THEY REPRESENT 95% of the working cost.
 The writing-machines that make the letters. THEY REPRESENT LESS THAN 5% of your letter-making cost.

Stop and think! Are you, as a business man, willing to hamper, "tie up" and decrease the efficiency of the 95% factor of your plant, in order to "economize" on the 5% factor?

Can you afford to do without the superior service which you will get from a new equipment of Royal Typewriters—the 5% factor—to increase the efficiency of your 95% investment in labor?
