REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

● When William Gummere, a Princeton student, started football in 1869, it was with the idea of giving a few fellows a chance to kick a ball around a little. The experiment has wound up by giving everybody a big kick.

● Gummere died only a few months ago, being at the time Chief Justice of New Jersey.

● As a student athletic leader at Princeton 64 years ago, Gummere conceived the idea of starting a game to be known as intercollegiate football. He interested a Rutgers athlete, William Leggett, in the project. These two met and drafted a set of rules, scheduled two games and proceeded to organize their respective teams of twenty-five players.

● Thus, on November 13, 1869, the first game of intercollegiate football played either in the United States or England was held. The game was played at New Brunswick, Rutgers winning, 6 to 4. The second game was played two weeks later at Princeton, the Tigers winning, 4 to 0.

● The rules were a modification of Association, then played and named as now.

● No sport has ever taken the popular fancy as did that conceived by Mr. Gummere. It is seldom that a man lives to see an idea grow into such full bloom as did football, starting from that day at New Brunswick until today it attracts millions of people into magnificent stadia the length and breadth of a nation. Football has become the recreational outlet of hundreds of thousands of men and women because it is a game that embodies courage, manhood, combat, physical condition and alertness.

● It is a sport that sends great multitudes home to a Saturday evening dinner with a more conscious conception of sportsmanship, the relief from the humdrum that is so rare and a quick acceleration of the red blood that so often has slowed down in the every day living. It is a sport that makes better men for having played it and having watched it.

● Only a few, it is true, may be strong enough and skilled enough to play college football but it gives the chance to every student to develop into a better man. Its revenue has borne the freight of not only providing skilled and high characterized teachers in football but in track, tennis, basketball, boxing and a broad intramural program. Its revenue has built stadia, has transformed inadequate gymnasiums into comfortable quarters for the student body as a whole to exercise in good weather or bad, with large locker rooms, shower rooms, and a hundred other facilities. Its revenue has built tennis courts for men and women students to play on. And as the new facilities become popularized, football may gradually be reduced from a standpoint of gate receipts in order that new thousands may be attracted to its wholesome recreational advantages. That trend is already definitely in vogue. Gone are the days when the lowest price seat in the stadium was $3.00. Today, Tulane for example, offers good seats for as low as seventy-five cents and a dollar at most games. When everything else, including sporting goods, was on the incline in 1933, football prices were being trimmed voluntarily to from ten to twenty per cent by most of the universities. In 1932, another reduction of thirty to forty per cent had been made at Tulane.

• • •

● Quite naturally, any sport as popular as football must find criticism. Most people have a false idea of the gate receipts. John Public usually reads in the morning paper that fourteen thousand fans saw Podunk defeat Oshkosh and he knows that he paid $2 for his seat. He immediately multiplies 14,000 by $2 and that makes $28,000. There you are, he says, twenty-eight grand. He doesn't know that the figures to begin with were probably exaggerated unintentionally. Few crowds running into the thousands are ever underestimated. Ten thousand people look like fifteen thousand if they are scattered over an area of a few acres. He doesn't know that approximately 4,000 of those fans were students and faculty members who pay a slight fee for the seats. He doesn't know that perhaps another two or three thousand of those fans were high school boys and girls who paid forty or fifty cents each. He doesn't know that another thousand were knee pants kiddies who paid two bits. He doesn't know that another portion of that crowd paid on an average of $1.00 or less for general admission seats. He doesn't know that the travelling expenses and hotel bills ran probably fifteen hundred dollars and the equipment of the two teams divided among nine games probably figures another thousand dollars a game. He doesn't know that the four officials for the game after their travelling expenses and fees are paid runs another six or seven hundred dollars. He doesn't stop to figure the cost of ticket printing, ticket sellers, ticket takers, police, special watchmen, upkeep of the plant all year around, initial cost of the stadium, medicinals, tape and gauze, scouting and salaries figure into it all. And he rarely ever figures that the surplus, if any, is divided between the two

NEW SIGNALS USED BY OFFICIALS

RIGHT — Horizontal arc of either hand: PLAYER ILLEGALLY IN MOTION. (Penalty, 5 yards. If from shift or huddle 15 yards.)

With no intention of committing lese-majesty, we herewith present a graphic presentation of the series of signals which the officials have devised to tell the stands the nature of any penalty imposed.

BELOW — Arms folded: FLYING BLOCK OR TACKLE. (Penalty, 5 yards.)

ABOVE — Holding one wrist: HOLDING. (Penalty — by offense, 15 yards; by defense 5 yards.)

ABOVE — Swinging arms horizontally: USED TO INDICATE INCOMPLETE PASS, MISSED FIELD GOAL OR CONVERT, ETC.

ABOVE — Military salute: UNNECESSARY ROUGHNESS, ILLEGAL DEFENSIVE USE OF HANDS. (Penalty, 15 yards.) ALSO USED FOR FLAGRANT ROUGHING. (Penalty, half distance to goal line and disqualification.)

BELOW — Waving hand behind back: ILLEGAL FORWARD PASS.

The New Rules in Brief

By

JAMES E. HALLIGAN

Southeastern and Southern Conference Football Official

The Southern Football Officials Association is probably the first Officials Association in the United States to adopt the SIGNAL system of flashing the reason for the penalties that may occur in the games. It is probable and likely that in due time all the Major Officials Associations will use these signals. It is the wish of the Southern Football Officials Association to do everything possible to make college football more interesting and understandable to the spectators. The referee is the official selected to give these signals, which will be given after the penalty is charged and just as the offensive team lines up for its next play.

The changes in the football rules that football fans should know concern principally the OUT-OF-BOUNDS rule and the SUBSTITUTE rule. In order to give the team with the ball, namely, the offensive team, more playing territory when near the side line, it has been ruled that any time the ball is dead within ten yards of the side line, the ball must be brought out to the ten yard line and put in play at that spot. This change will save the team with the ball from throwing the ball out-of-bounds as has been the custom, and also save this team the loss of a down.

The SUBSTITUTE rule permits the field captain to take three times out of two minutes each during each half, without penalty. Any more times out taken costs that team a penalty of five yards, unless a player is injured and removed from the game. Should a coach send in a player at any time when time is not out, that team is charged with DELAY of the game, which is a five yard penalty and a FIRST DOWN if the defensive team is charged with the delay, and if the offensive team caused the delay it counts as a loss of five yards.

Just before the game starts one of the officials will point to the captain of the team, or to his bench, denoting the team which won the toss and his selection of starting options, namely, whether he will receive the kickoff, kickoff, or goal to defend.

teams and if the receipts aren't big enough, money must be in hand to meet the bills.

● We might add that the surplus, when there is such a handy-man, goes back into the physical education plant to build badly needed facilities such as a gymnasium, swimming pool or other needed units. So, as long as the colleges are gradually trying to reduce the gate receipts football is on the right track. Nor is it being over commercialized. It requires funds to do all of the things enumerated. It wouldn't be the major sport that it is today—the fun valve for students, alumni, friends and neighbors, if it wasn't what it is. In a lesser degree, football is like everything else.

● I know often one wonders why the big equipment bill? We are prone to think of football as merely the thirty-three or more men who trot out on the field on varsity day. We don't stop to recall that the varsity had to scrimmage against the scrubs and freshmen or that they have to be properly equipped and protected for the play that goes in preparing for the varsity games.

● It's a great game and one made possible by the love of it. It would be just as great a game if no one saw it except the students and officials on a Saturday afternoon. That was the case back in 1869 when Bill Gummere and Bill Leggett led their teams on the field. But we all liked it so well, we wanted to come out, get a seat in the fresh October air and enjoy it; consequently we had to provide our seats and the facilities for enjoying it. Proof of that is that we are here today and that football has never stopped growing.

The squad pictured below represents in the main the men who will go to wars for Tulane this fall. A few stalwarts such as Joe Loftin, John Bruno, Tex Linam and one or two others are missing from the picture.

There are eighteen lettermen listed in this array, a number of reserves of last year who are expected to shine this fall and a flock of ambitious sophomores.

Many of this number will get in today's game. Some will not for one reason or another, including injuries suffered in scrimmage, illness and so on.

It might be interesting to keep a check on your roster page as to men who get in the game. Watch them from week to week.

Another point that might be watched to advantage today as an educational slant on the game would be that pertaining to the new signals used by the officials in denoting penalties, the kick-off, etcetera.

The new signals are made easy for you with an illustrated page showing just what they denote.

In addition, we secured a short article by James E. Halligan, veteran Southern football official, who explains clearly about the new rule changes and officials' signals.

new art layouts, new features, a short, short story by a well known writer for one of the issues, and many other things.

Our purpose is to make the program interesting enough to take home to the family to read just as you would a magazine. We want enough new photos of both institutions to give it a souvenir value to keep or send to some friend who was unable to attend the games. We want to give you information that is vital to enjoying the game, such as complete rosters on one page so that you won't have to turn from one sheet to another. We want to give you more compactly in the center of the book a complete arrangement of players by name and number, names of officials and the most authentic possible guess at a starting lineup.

We also plan many interesting features to entertain you during the time-outs and after the game.

On days where the general admission gates are crowded on Willow Street, the fans might keep in mind that they can also secure general admission seats on the Barrett Street end of the stadium.

High school students also will enter from the center gate on Barrett Street to the wooden stands at the scoreboard end of the field.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO FLY THE MAIL AT NIGHT

● A.M. WILKINS has flown the night air mail over 150,000 miles for TWA. It takes healthy nerves to hang up a record like that!

● WILKINS joins a fellow pilot, W. Niedernhofer, at Newark Airport, for a chat and a smoke. "Camels never ruffle or jangle my nerves," Wilkins says.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. They are milder, richer in flavor. They never tire your taste or get on your nerves.

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

A. M. WILKINS, air-mail ace, says: "It's a steady grind, all right, living up to our tradition that the mail must go through! That's why I smoke Camels. And I smoke plenty! Camels never ruffle or jangle my nerves, and I like their mild, rich flavor."

Camels never tire the taste—never get on the nerves. Your taste and your nerves will confirm this. Start smoking Camels today and prove it for yourself.
