Today's Game

A large percentage of the principals in this afternoon's athletic drama are familiar to the Tulane Stadium scene.

To the hustling, improving Greenies, of course, the place is "home" and while a tie is not quite so satisfactory as a victory the fact remains that Coach Andy Pilney's team has yet to lose before a New Orleans crowd. Today they will have to play very well to retain that distinction.

The visiting squad from Mississippi State includes veterans of the Maroon teams that scored three touchdowns on each of their last two trips here. Last year that was more than enough. The season before the Wave got as many TDs plus two more.

Continuing with the well-known faces, State's head coach is a 30-year-old gentleman named Darrell Royal who saw the Sugar Bowl close up as an invited guest from Oklahoma in the 1949 and 1950 New Year's classics. He was quite a back. So was his present assistant coach, Robert (Jitterbug) Kellogg, who gladdened many Tulane hearts in a Greenie career highlighted by his 75-yard punt return touchdown in the 1940 Sugar Bowl battle with Texas A.&M. He and trainer "Dutch" Luchsinger have changed the Olive and Blue for the Maroon and White.

1954 TULANE SCHEDULE

Tulane 0; Georgia Tech 28
Tulane 13; Memphis State 13
Tulane 7; North Carolina 7
Oct. 9—Miss. State, home
Oct. 16—Ole Miss, Oxford
Oct. 23—Georgia, home
Oct. 30—Auburn, Mobile
Nov. 6—Alabama, home
Nov. 13—Vandy, Nashville
Nov. 27—L.S.U., home

State and Tulane are hardly strangers. Their teams have been playing since 1901 and while the Greenies hold a 20-11-2 advantage the men from Mississippi have taken two of the last three meetings.

Tulanians who enjoyed last week's second-half comeback tie with North Carolina will know today to keep an eye on fast-developing Wave sophomore quarterback Fred Wilcox (17), leading rusher Bob Saia (33), Willie "The Wisp" Hof (43) and their accomplices in a Wave backfield that can be very dangerous. Last Saturday's big men up front were Harry Duvigneaud (84), who took Wilcox's pass for the tying touchdown; Captain Eddie Bravo (82), who played the entire game; Charlie Coates (70), continuing to do an important job at tackle; and All-SEC guard probability Tony Sardisco (64).

Thus far the Maroons have beaten Memphis State (27-7) and Arkansas State (46-13) and have lost to Tennessee (19-7).

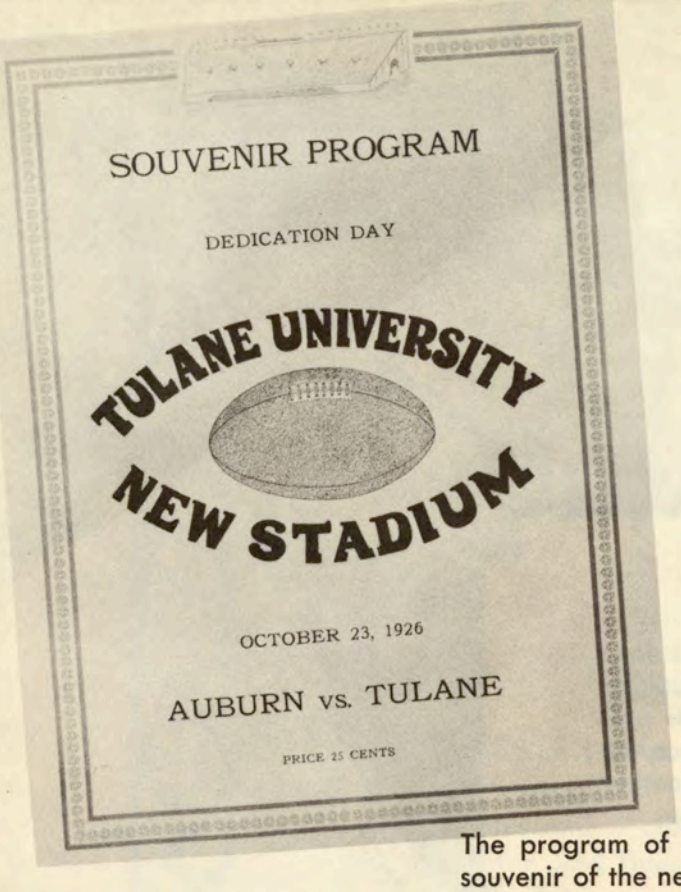
30 YEARS THE STYLE STORE FOR MEN

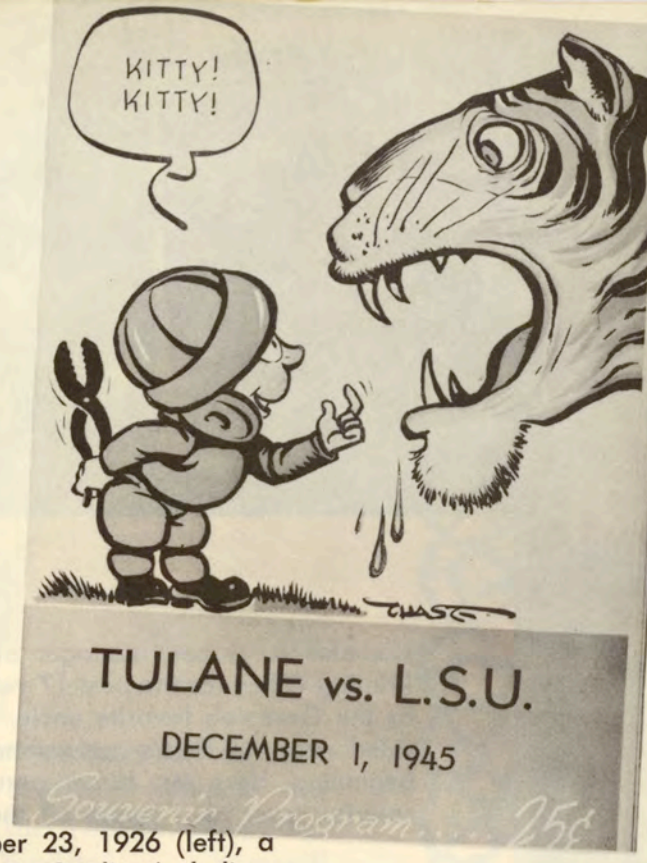
For 10 years Tulane game goers have delighted in The Greenie, the impish little character who is pictured in all manner of innocent mischief on the cover of the football programs. Here is The Greenie's Daddy — John Churchill Chase, outstanding cartoonist of the New Orleans States, historian, author and sometimes-accused genius. Mr. Chase's brainson, who is now a standard symbol in Tulane sports, entered his 10th year this week. Happy Birthday, Greenie!

"The Greenie", here shown trying on some alligator shoes the hard way, made his debut on this cover of the Florida game program of October 6, 1945. Since then he has taken some 60 curtain calls—all different and highly original. As his fame has spread, he has been presented with "brothers" by Mr. Chase, including the Ole Miss Reb, the Rice Owl and the Georgia Tech Yellow Jacket.

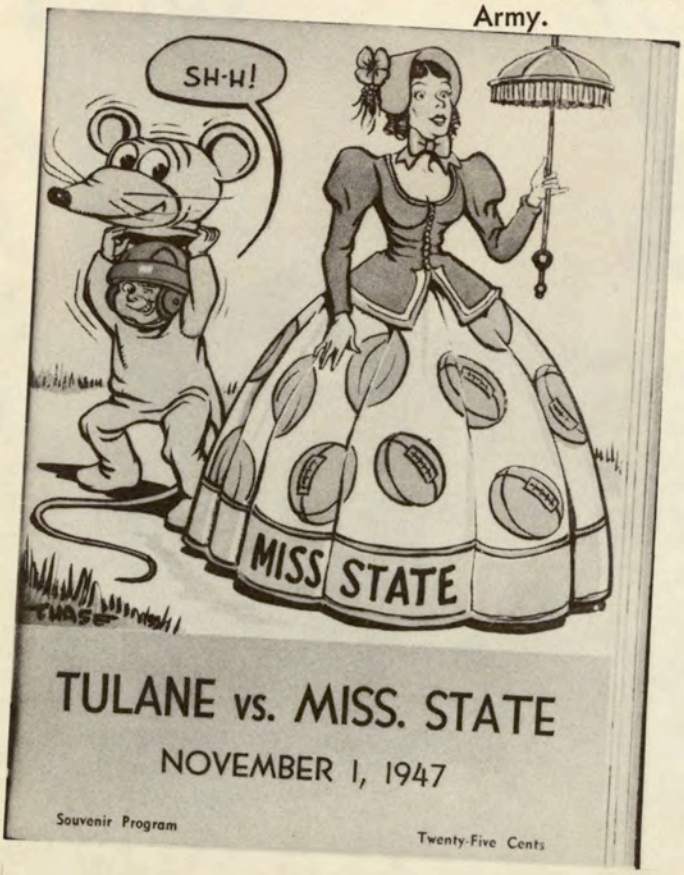
TULANE vs. FLORIDA

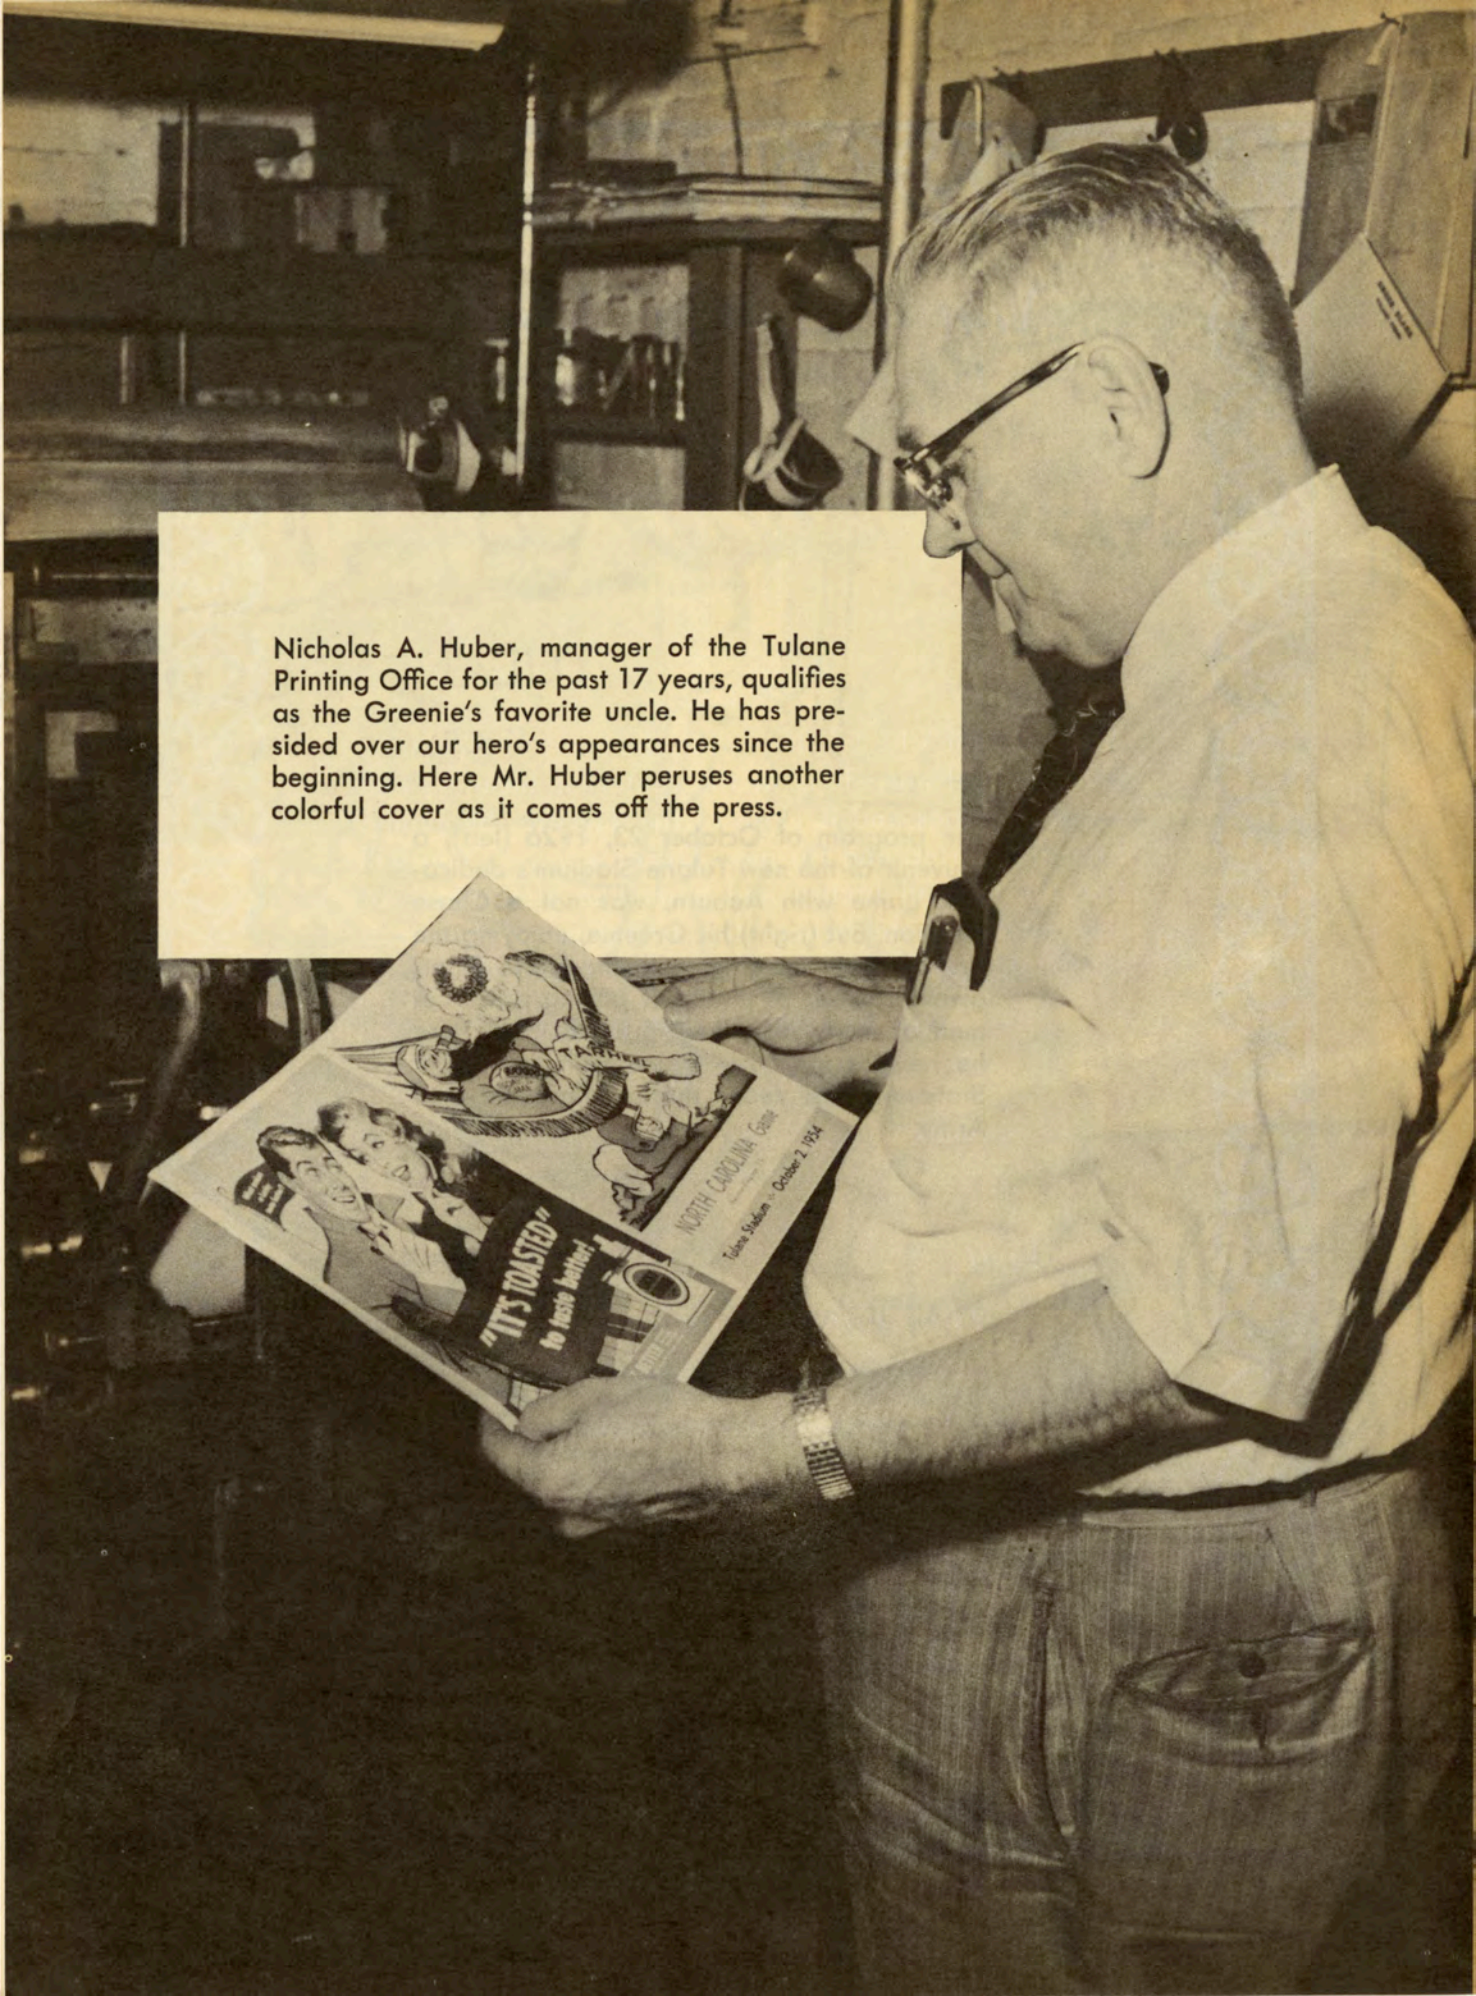
OCTOBER 6, 1945





The program of October 23, 1926 (left), a souvenir of the new Tulane Stadium's dedication game with Auburn, was not a Chase creation. But (right) his Greenie, enjoying the first of many meetings with the L.S.U. Tiger, gives promises of plenty of pulling power. A man of many disguises, this little guy. Here he heralds the 1947 game with Mississippi State and last year's thrilling upset tie with Army.





Nicholas A. Huber, manager of the Tulane Printing Office for the past 17 years, qualifies as the Greenie's favorite uncle. He has presided over our hero's appearances since the beginning. Here Mr. Huber peruses another colorful cover as it comes off the press.

ROOSEVELT
"Pride of the South"

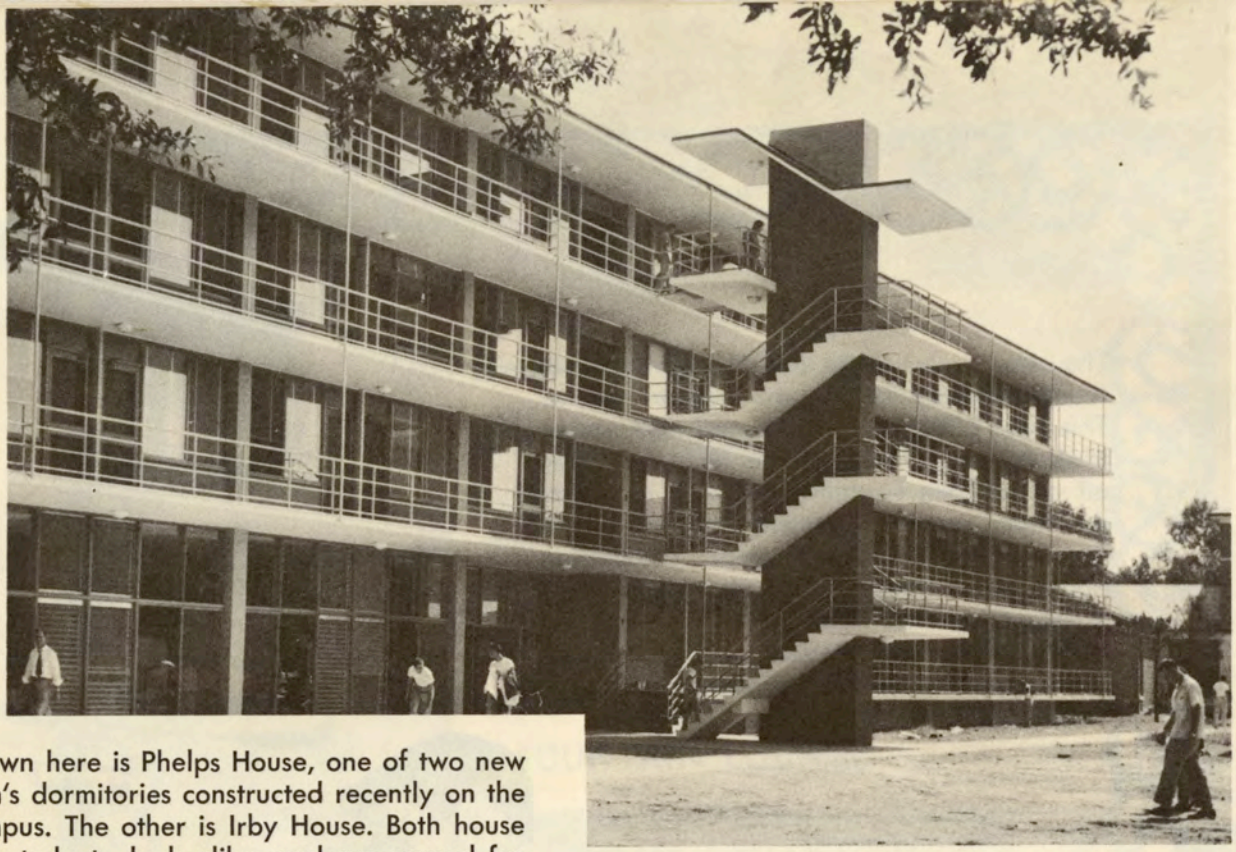
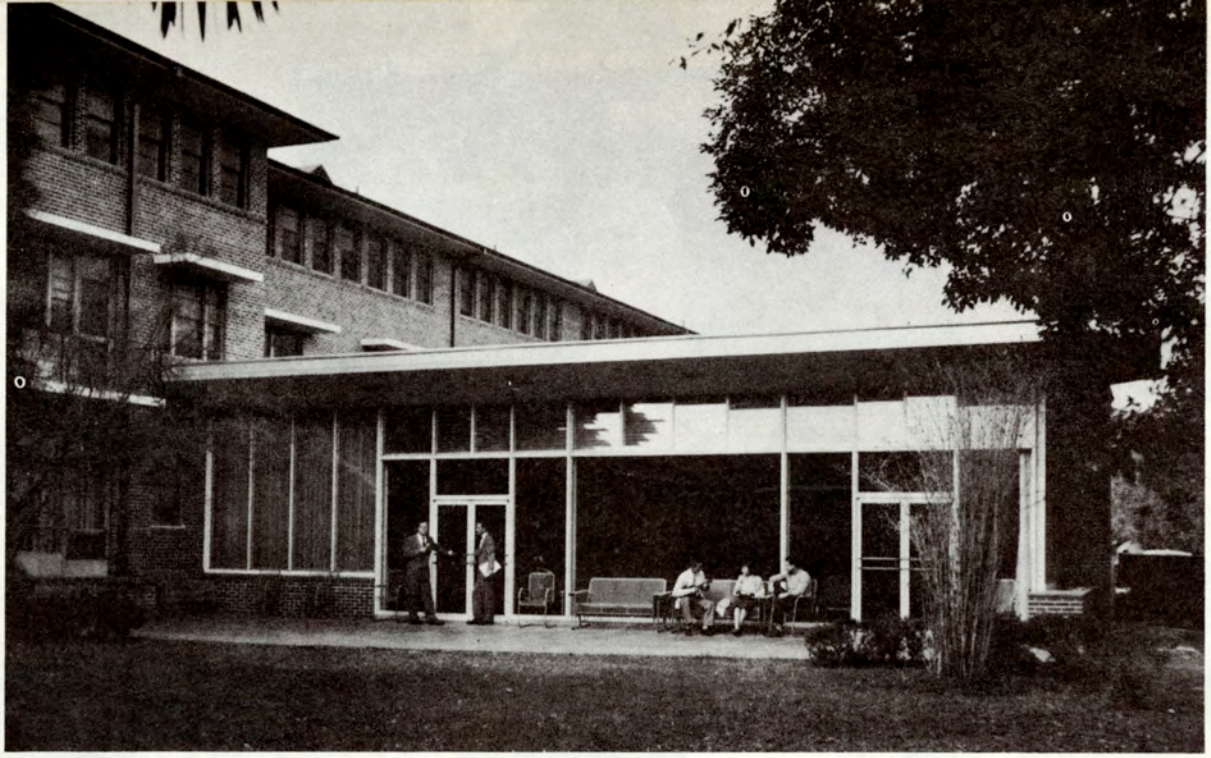
The second section of today's Cam-Pix features dormitory life on the Tulane campus. This year 690 men students and 400 women students reside in residence halls, including all out-of-town freshmen. Here is a typical dormitory scene—a student studying for his first examination of the year in Paterson House, which houses 125 students and which is named in honor of the late A. B. Paterson, New Orleans civic leader and industrialist, who served for many years as a member of the Tulane Administrators.



Shown here is Phelps House, one of two new men's dormitories constructed recently on the campus. The other is Irby House. Both house 225 students, look alike, and are named for past presidents of the Tulane Administrators, the late Esmond Phelps, New Orleans attorney, and the late W. R. Irby, New Orleans banker.

All Tulane Freshmen must wear "Tulane Greenie beanies." Here three freshmen from Irby House get outfitted by Tulane and Newcomb upper-class students. "Beanies" are worn until the traditional Tulane-Louisiana State University game. They are then cast aside, win or lose.

One of the most eagerly awaited calls in the lives of dorm students is mail call. Here at Josephine Louise House, Mrs. U. M. Moody, who is house director, gives letters from home to Peggy Sloan and Julia Cherry. House is named for Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb, founder of Newcomb College. Other Newcomb dormitories are Warren House, named for Warren Newcomb, husband of the founder ,and Doris Hall, (below).



A favorite spot of Paterson House residents is the patio (above) and a favorite spot of most girls in Warren House is the telephone (below). Making the call is Carol Clark. Eavesdropper is Sarah Young. Other men's dormitory at Tulane is Zemurray Memorial House, named in honor of the late Samuel Zemurray, Jr., Tulane student who was killed in World War II. It houses 112 men students. A fourth women's dormitory, to house 90 graduate students, is now under construction.

The University

Tulane University is the only private, non-denominational institution of higher learning offering a full university program in a nine-state area extending from California to the Atlantic Seaboard and embracing New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

The University's geographical location has led to a natural emphasis upon a region which includes the Gulf States, much of the Mississippi Valley and a large portion of Latin America. This means that in addition to the basic work of the University, Tulane undertakes specialized instruction and research which no other institution is in a position to perform so well.

The University comprises the College of Arts and Sciences, Newcomb College for women, University College (adult education) and the Schools of Law, Engineering, Medicine, Social Work, Business Administration, Architecture, and Graduate studies. In addition, the Middle American Research Institute, the Urban Life Research Institute, the Comparative Law Institute, the Engineering Research Institute, and the Summer Schools round out its program.

President of the University is Dr. Rufus Carrollton Harris.

The student body of approximately 4,000 full-time students and some 2,000 others who are taking courses in the field of graduate medicine, University College and other divisions, is drawn from most of the states of the union and from more than a score of foreign countries.

Tulane had its beginning in 1834, when seven young physicians banded together to combat yellow fever and cholera, the city's twin curses of that period. In 1855 the State Constitution established in New Orleans the University of Louisiana with departments of Law, Medicine and Natural Sciences, and Letters.

The University received its name from Paul Tulane of Princeton, N. J., who made his fortune in and around New Orleans and who donated $1,000,000 to the institution in 1882. His gift, made at a time when the South was financially bankrupt as a result of Civil War, provided a revenue which revived a virtually moribund institution. Through his gift a reorganization of the university was completed. It was separated from the state and its affairs were entrusted to a self-perpetuating board of administrators.

In 1886 Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb donated to the Tulane Educational Fund the sum of $100,000 to be used in establishing the H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial Fund College in the Tulane University of Louisiana in honor of her daughter. She subsequently gave more than $3,000,000 through gifts and her will. These gifts enabled the Tulane administrators to round out the ideal of the University by creation of an institution which would give to women all the educational advantages which before had been offered only to men.

The campus of a hundred acres is located on St. Charles Avenue, facing Audubon Park, one of the most beautiful in the South.

Tulane Stadium

Tulane Stadium, a massive double-decked structure of steel and concrete, is famous as the home of the Green Wave football teams and of the annual Sugar Bowl Classic. It has an official seating capacity of 80,975.

The stadium is located on the site of the old Etienne de Boré plantation, where sugar was first granulated in this country. It is bounded by Willow and Calhoun streets, Audubon Boulevard and South Claiborne Avenue.

Tulane Stadium was dedicated October 23, 1926, with east and west side stands of reinforced concrete seating some 35,000. In the dedication game Auburn defeated Tulane by the margin of a safety, 2-0. Since then the stadium has been the scene of many memorable touchdowns and the making of important athletic history.

The original stadium was constructed with the financial assistance of the people of New Orleans and vicinity, in recognition of the Green Wave achievements of the early 1920's. More than 6,000 citizens donated $300,000 in a drive completed in just five days.

Enlargements and improvements of the huge arena have been due largely to efforts of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, sponsor of the annual Sugar Bowl Classic. The Sugar Bowlers' investment at Tulane amounts to more than $1,250,000.

The first Sugar Bowl game was played January 1, 1935, when Tulane defeated Temple in a 20-14 thriller. An 85-yard touchdown run by Tulane's Claude (Little Monk) Simons was the day's highlight.

The Sugar Bowlers' first step in the enlargement program was taken in 1937 when 14,000 North stand seats were erected through a financial arrangement with the Tulane University Board of Administrators at a cost of $150,000. In 1939 they followed with a debenture bond issue of $550,000 to double-deck the structure and boost its capacity to 69,000. Then in 1947 another bond issue of $500,000 was offered to enlarge the massive bowl to its present capacity.

Stadium improvements have included permanent box seats, portal seats, two electric scoreboards, an electric time flasher, an elevator to the press box and a photographer's roof.

The press box, which has been voted among the nation's best by the Football Writers Association, is 240 feet in length and seats 254 in swivel chairs. There are five booths for radio broadcasting.

Herbert A. Benson served as stadium enlargement architect and A. N. Goldberg as contractor.

Tulane Songs

ALMA MATER

We praise thee for thy past, O Alma Mater!
Thy hand hath done its work full faithfully;
The incense of thy spirit hath ascended
And filled America from sea to sea!

We praise thee for thy present, Alma Mater!
Today thy children look to thee for bread!
Thou leadest them to dreams and action splendid!
The hunger of their souls is richly fed!

We praise thee for thy future, Alma Mater!
The vista of its glory gleameth far!
We shall ever be part of thee, great Mother!
There thou will be where e'er thy children are!

Chorus

Olive Green and Blue, we love thee.
Pledge we now our fealty true
Where the trees are ever greenest,
Where the skies are purest blue.
Hear us now, O Tulane, hear us.
As we proudly sing to thee!
Take from us our heart's devotion!
Thine we are, and thine shall be!

ROLL ON, TULANE

Here's a song for the Olive and the Blue.
Here's a cheer for the team that's tried and true.
Here's a pledge of loyalty to thee,
Oh, Tulane Varsity.
Here's to the Greenbacks that never will say die,
And here's to the hearts that are true
To the men of Tulane who are fighting for her name,
For the Olive and the Blue.

Chorus

Roll, Green Wave,
Roll them down the field.
Hold, Green Wave,
That line must never yield.
When those Greenbacks charge through the line
They're bound for victory.
Hail, Green Wave,
For you we give a cheer.
Hail, Green Wave,
For you we have no fear.
So ev'ry man in ev'ry play,
And then we'll win that game today.
Hurrah for Old Tulane!

Regal Beer TASTES BETTER

IN Beer, it's taste that counts, and REGAL Beer tastes better . . . so much better, in fact, that 3 REGAL drinkers out of 4 have been drinking REGAL five years or more! Yes, REGAL's better taste holds friends longer than any other beer.

The next time you buy beer, pick up a handy six-carton of REGAL... REGAL, the better-tasting premium beer.
