GIUSEPPE FERRATA
Opus Twenty-one
A Wave.

Words by
ARCHER M. HUNTINGTON.

High Voice.

Music by

Largamente. (d = 86)

I awoke in the midst of the sea,

And my heart was an opal fire.
And my kisses of foam I flung.

To the sun of my desire.
I caught the winds and the breath
From flow'rs on the distant land,
And the joy
in my soul awoke;
I was

Più mosso. ($= 78$)

-course is a straining race. And the stars dance deep in my breast.

But a flow'r of the land shall be my love,

It shall come like the stars to my breast.

Con anima. ($= 56$)

On! On! And the shore is near, Oh sweet is my loved one's breath.
A - las!
I am bro - ken,

I die.
If this be death!
