What kind of restaurant is it that serves a Fauburger?

Boulogny is generally described as a "Creole/Cajun" restaurant, but Chef Joel St. John conjures up a wide range of dishes, some elegant, some simple (they're now called "Real Food").

A Fauburger (charcoal-grilled sirloin... $5.50) is considered "Real Food."

Whatever you call it, it's just plain good.

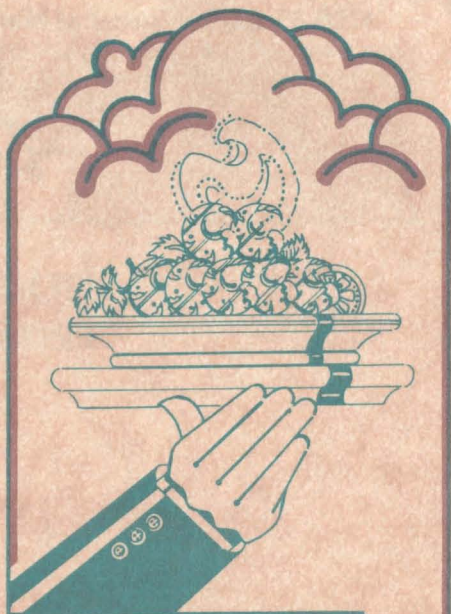

Our prices? You'll find them a happy surprise.

A look at our insides

The decor at Boulogny is semi art-deco (really), and our ambience is breezy and comfortably sophisticated. Dress is "casual chic." Don't worry, you'll fit in perfectly.

DINNER

EVENTS

Our Menu...

is eclectic and superb. Try the redfish beignets, advance to the Veal Magazine, then top it off with our homemade Hazelnut Cheesecake. Enjoy our wide range of light luncheon soups and salads, too.

Sunday Brunch Is Beautiful...

and served from 11:30 til 3:00. There's a new brunch menu now and free champagne! Highly recommended: our eye-opening Brandy Punch—$3.50.

The Bar...

is big, burnished and beautiful, but unnamed. If you think of something snappy, let us know. Instant fame awaits. Appetizers, desserts and fine wine by the glass can be ordered at the bar, too.
