Who brought the name, Who brought the fame, To old New Or-leans town; Who We al-ways thought, That Joe Man-dot, The light-weight crown would get, And is our boy, Who is our joy, That nev-er yet laid down? From when they meet, 'Twill mean de-feat, For Wol-gast you can bet. Joe coast to coast He is the toast, Of ev - 'ry - one who knows; A Riv - ers now, He had his chance, With me you will a - gree; So fight - er that's A fight - er from His head down to his toes.

join the crowd, And hol - ler loud, For the light-weight King to be.

REFRAIN

Man - dot, Man - dot, He's our pride and joy, Oh Man - dot,

Man - dot, A good New Or-leans boy; As a South-ern-er he's right, As a fight-er he can fight,— And Joe Man-dot's name's in ev-'ry mouth.

Oh Man - dot, Man - dot, Known from coast to coast, Oh Mar - dot,

Man - dot, Of him we'll al-ways boast, Of his race he's tried and true, Give his Dad-dy cred-it, too, For rais-ing Joe Man-dot, The pride of all the South.
