"Today"

Louisiana Polytech will furnish the Greenies a workout this afternoon.

Since Louisiana College, which was swamped 77-0, held Polytech to a tie score, you can write your own ticket as to the score this afternoon.

It will be the day of the reserves. For the first time since the start of the season the Greenies will not be forced to show anything to win. And for the first time since the Louisiana Wildcat game, Shaughnessy will be in a position to give his Greenie reserve strength a real opportunity to show its wares.

In the ranks of that second eleven Shaughnessy has some real fine players, potential stars of tomorrow but they lack that seasoning which is necessary to combat the big elevens.

And besides the chance for the second string line, the "pony" backs will get their chance to canter around the lot. Tulane's "ponies" in Tom Killeen, "Shorty" Norman, Ellis Henican and "Frenchy" Lorio is about as fleet-footed a quartet of backs to be found anywhere. Slippery weather has prevented the speed boys from getting much chance or showing their speed, but with a good break on the weather today, these lads will come to post early in the game.

With the three hard games with Sewanee, L. S. U. and Centenary in view, Shaughnessy will probable let his Varsity crew get into the game for just long enough to keep on edge. During the past week the Varsity has taken life easy, whereas Shaughnessy has concentrated on the reserves.

The Greenies will make their first showing at the stadium after a successful invasion of the Middle West and Montgomery. Since the Greenies downed "Bernie" Bierman's Mississippi Aggies, they have earned a glorious 18-7 victory over Northwestern and also turned back the Auburn Plainsmen in a sea of mud, 13-0.

Last year Louisiana Poly was an easy victim and, although the Greenies amassed 42 points before the final whistle the lads from Ruston managed to shove over two touchdowns by means of a passing attack. And the lad that tossed both passes that resulted in the touchdowns will face the Greenies today. Blue Hogg, is a fullback that would do credit to any college eleven, and his ability to carry the ball will be demonstrated this afternoon.

In the Tulane lineup will appear Moss and Duren at ends, Evans and Stoessel at tackle, Carre, Rosenhouse and Guerrierio at guards, and Watson and Palermo at center. These lads have the making of a fine set of linemen. In Stoessel and Evans Shaughnessy has two wonderful prospects to step into Levy's and Wight's shoes when the latter are graduated.

At center, Palermo and Watson are fine understudies to Harvey Wilson, and both are adaptable to other places in the line on occasion. Carre, Rosenhouse and Guerrero are the bulky boys. This trio form a strong middle of the line, with Guerrero being able to alternate as a backfield man if necessary. Three years ago Guerrero was an All-State backfield man when playing with the Monroe, La., high school.

Walter Moss and Bill Duren, are excellent material to fill next year, the shoes of Harry Gambel. Both these boys are fast, can tackle well and know the game. They are, however, untried to any degree under fire.

It will be speed day all right if the field is fast. Tommy Killeen, track star, is as fast a man as on the whole team, and he is a picture to see skirting the ends, a la "Brother" Brown. "Frenchy" Lorio is without a par as an off tackle man, an elusive hip sway giving him a great advantage over tackles. Ellis Hanican, a cool, heady quarterback, will get his first chance to perform to any extent against La. Poly. Sickness kept Ellis out of the early part of the season and it is just now that he is rounding to his best shape. Last year and the preceding year he made an excellent backfield man, alternating with Captain Lautenschlaeger

What They Say About "Peggy"

"CHUCK" McGUIRE, CHICAGO AMERICAN—"Peggy Flournoy, the other ace of the Tulane backfield lived up to his advance notices by giving the greatest exhibition of kicking we have ever seen. His punts must have averaged 55 or 60 yards and were all high enough for his ends to be down under the ball. Flournoy usually twisted and squirmed his way for substantial gains. His forte seems to be a sort of dancing dodge, a stuttering run Zappke calls it, and a knack of sliding off his interference for a few added yards when checked."

FRENCH LANE, CHICAGO TRIBUNE—"A brilliant halfback. The names of Flournoy and Lautenschlaeger will probably be written into Dixie's hall of Football Fame. The speedy, slippery, dodging, fighting, squirming Flournoy ripped and clawed his way through the Northwestern Line. He scattered the Purple line to all sides of him."

HARRY McNAMARA, CHICAGO HERALD-EXAMINER—"Peggy Flournoy's play at left halfback was superb. I doubt whether the great Red Grange in his palmiest days every played more brilliantly than the Frenchman did against the Wildcats today. He was a demon in a broken field, a human battering ram at hitting the line, his punting surpassed anything I have ever seen on football field in recent years and his defensive work was excellent."

ROBERT J. STRATON, CHICAGO DAILY NEWS—"All three touchdowns here scored by Peggy Flournoy, Tulane's expert plunger."

BRIAN BELL, OF ASSOCIATED PRESS—"In Peggy Flournoy, the Greenies have a punter who seems the first logical successor to Alan Thurman whose high, wide and handsome kicks at Virginia were a sensation a decade ago."

MORGAN BLAKE, ATLANTA JOURNAL—"Flournoy and Lautenschlaeger are two sensational backs and any team would have a day's job to stop them."

FRED DIGBY, NEW ORLEANS ITEM—"There is no doubt in my mind about the all-American calibre of Peggy Flournoy. He went right up to Chicago where they make members of this mythical eleven and brought the sports writers there to their feet gasping at his marvelous punting, his battering line plunging and terrific defensive work. His punting average against Northwestern of nearly 55 yards was revelation to the football world of the middle west."

HARRY MARTINEZ, THE DAILY STATES—"Flournoy's work is spectacular and his punting a sensation to western grid followers. As a line plunger he cannot be beat and he can throw passes with the best of them. Flournoy is a triple threat man, he can punt, pass and hit the line and he does all these well."

WM. McG. KEEFE, TIMES-PICAYUNE—"Flournoy has not failed to make a touchdown in any game played this season, not excepting the tough battle with Missouri, last year's champions of the Missouri valley. While Flournoy made three touchdowns on the Northwestern Purple in Chicago it is interesting to note that Alonzo Stagg's Chicago University Maroons could not register a single touchdown on Northwestern just the week before."

WHAT'S THE DOPE?

Next week the Sewanee Tigers will ring down the curtain on Tulane's home schedule for 1925. And in the game the Greenies will meet a strong foe, determined on beating Tulane, which despite reserves, is moving on the up-grade at a fast clip.

"One of the strongest teams in years," was what the adherents of Sewanee said of the team from the mountain at the start of the season, and such the Tigers looked like until they ran up against Alabama's Crimson Tide and were swamped 27-0. This defeat was a death blow to Sewanee's conference hopes. The experts had declared before the game that it was anybody's contest and because of the supposed closeness of the result everybody was left gasping for breath when 'Bama rode to the victory.

Two weeks ago, Sewanee suffered its second defeat. While Tulane was taking the measure of Northwestern's Purple outfit in Chicago, the Kentucky eleven handed the Tigers a 14-0 verdict.

Since that however, the Tigers have been coming strong as is shown in their recent victory over Chattanooga, when they showed a stiff defense and a strong scoring punch.

The Sewanee game will be of great interest in New Orleans. It is the last Conference game in New Orleans, and one of great importance for Tulane will have its hands full to win. It will mark the last appearance in grid togs of Captain Lautenschlaeger, "Peggy" Flournoy, Harry Gamble, "Irish" Levy, Fred Lambrecht, Benny Wight and Ellis Henican, all of whom will be lost by graduation and the three year rule. And last but not least, November 14 will be Homecoming Day and Sewanee and Tulane alumni from all parts of the state and nearby states will join in making the day a big one.

THE LAST TWO WEEKS

In the two weeks that the Tulane team has been out on the road it has made a great name for itself in the football records of America.

Like a whirlwind, sweeping up from the South, the Green Wave splashed through the mud of Stagg field two weeks ago and, while Chicago fans roared their applause, rolled over the heavy Northwestern Purple eleven to an 18-7 victory.

It would be an insult to the grid fans of New Orleans to write at length on that game here because nearly every one stormed the news-stands for Chicago papers, or read their fill in the local dailies.

Suffice it to say the Greenies won a lot of recognition, Flournoy and Lautenschlaeger won a lot of praise in which the whole team came in for its share, and Tulane received publicity that a million dollars couldn't have purchased.

the trip were the playing of Lautenschlaeger and Flournoy, the cheer-leading of Larry Benson and Marion Draper, and the great playing of Tulane's band. This about covers every phase of the trip.

At Montgomery the Greenies battled through the mud of Crampton Bowl to gain a hard earned victory over the Auburn Plainsmen. Thrice in that scoreless first half and as many more in the second, the Greenies were well on their way to scores which did not materialize because of the lack of punch. Once the Greenies were kept from a possible score by poor officiating. With the ball on the Auburn 1-yard line, and three Tulane downs expended, the lineman lost count of the downs for the moment and gave the ball to Auburn.

Another example of poor officiating occurred during the change of position at the end of the third quarter. On changing the ball the referee

Of the game, our guess is of course that Tulane will win. Prejudiced or no, the writer would bet on the present Greenies against any team in America, and he believes that they could beat any outfit the country offers, Michigan, Dartmouth, California included.

Our guess is that Tulane will win by 3 touchdowns. The lay-off, the gradual working back into a high pitch and perfect form will find the Greenies ready for the Tigers. While the Wave is getting the relaxation it needs today against Poly, Sewanee will have its job cut on to win from Homer Hazel's "Ole Miss". Hazel eleven held Vandy to a 7-0 score last week and the Vandy team was saved by the gong from a tie score or thereabouts.

The Sewanee team is supposed to have a strong line and the outcome of the battle will depend on whether the Tulane forwards can outrush the visitors. The Tigers also boast a tricky offense eleven with a good forward pass attack.

Coach "Brother" Brown

mistook the 47-yard line for the 42-yard line and Tulane lost five yards in the transaction.

The Greenies looked much better than Auburn, although the Plainsmen out rushed the Tulane line for most of the battle. However, Coach Morey could only show a spasmodic off tackle attack which was sooner or later squelched by the Greenie line.

The going was the worst possible. Slippery, boggy Alabama red clay was not conducive to speed, yet Lautenschlaeger, on several trips through the mud, did some nice stepping.

"Peggy" Flournoy was right there with his line smashing and as neat a 45 yard dash off tackles, as any one could want. His punting with a heavy, slippery ball, was fine.

The real star, uncovered in the battle was Johnny Menville, former Freshman and Jesuit star. Johnny showed to advantage on plunging through the heavy Auburn line and on 7 straight plays carried the ball some thirty yards. Menville will get his big chance against Sewanee.

Twelve hundred fans, the greatest number to follow a Tulane team, made the great "trek" to Montgomery on three special trains.

at the signal calling position. "Shorty" Norman has been the focal point of more than one grid fan since the season opened. They roared when the midget clicked off his good gains in the Aggie game and are just waiting for a dry field and a real chance to see "Shorty" do his fleahop.

The Poly game comes as a safety valve to a hard season. It is the first breathing spell since the season opened and it is sandwiched in between the first half and the last half of a hard set of assignments.

The boys from Ruston are, it must be admitted not capable of giving the Greenies much stiff competition, although the reserves may have its hands full stopping Hogg and company.

And while the Greenies are having an easy time of it, Kentucky may be furnishing the punch that will give Alabama a knockout in the race for the Dixie title.
