A GRATEFUL PRIVILEGE

* Houston and many manufacturing concerns of this section have grown to immense proportions during past quarter century.

* During this enterprising span of twenty-five years it has been our privilege, for which we are grateful, to render complete advertising service to many progressive, leading manufacturers and to grow with them and Houston.

Rice Institute and the fighting Owls deserve our unqualified backing!

Today's Game

The Rice-Tulane series promises to be one of the most colorful football spectacles of the South.

It's not a new one, in the strict sense of the word, as the Owls and Greenies first tangled on a gridiron back in 1916, but it pits one of the best teams of the South against one of the leading teams of the Southwest.

The Owls and Greenies have met twice in this decade, with "Red" Dawson's team emerging as the winner both times. In 1938, it was Tulane 26, Rice 17. Last year, in 1940, it was Tulane 15, Rice 6, in a wide open offensive battle.

The Owls won the first two games they played against Tulane, taking the first one in 1916, 23 to 13, and the second, in 1917, 16 to 0. Then came a scoreless tie in 1920, and in 1921, it was 7 to 6, Tulane.

This year, Tulane brings one of the strongest teams of the South to Houston.

They opened their series with a 21-7 victory over the strong Boston College crew, victor over Tulane last season, and winner over Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl New Year's day.

They followed that up with a convincing 32-0 win over Auburn, coached by Jack Meagher, former Rice mentor.

Tulane, notably a running attack team in the last few years, has taken to the air in its first two games this season. They are running, and passing, off a "T" formation, revived by Clark Shaughnessy at Stanford last year.

Against Boston College, they completed pass after pass. Against Auburn, they stuck to the ground most of the time, but cashed in on passes when the defense tightened too much.

Last year's game between the Greenies and Owls was a colorful affair over in New Orleans.

The Owls marched down the field for the first touchdown, Bob Brumley going over, in the first quarter.

In the second period, however, Tulane came back fighting, scoring a touchdown and field goal, and chalked up another touch in the third quarter.

Tulane had 10 first downs to 7 for Rice, but the total yardage gain was almost even, with the Greenies running 192 yards and passing for 14.

a total of 206, and the Owls running 115 and passing 82 for a total of 197.
Brumley had a great day for the Owls, picking up 83 yards in 20 trips with the ball.
The Tulane-Rice rivalry is a natural, geographically. The two cities are within striking distance, both have entertainment galore to offer visitors,
and each year finds a growing number of fans following the teams to the games.
This is the second game to be played under a five-year, home and home contract between Rice and Tulane.

Thumbnail Sketches of Tulane University

Intercollegiate football was inaugurated at Tulane in 1893, with T. L. Bayne serving as the first coach. Bayne, who starred at Yale as a quarterback in the middle ’80’s, returned to Tulane as a law student and organized the first team.
From that beginning, Tulane football has grown to assume national importance.

NOTES
Since 1915 Tulane football teams have played only under the leadership of five head coaches, Clark Shaughnessy, a University of Minnesota
alumnus and now head coach at Stanford University, headed the Green Wave football staff from 1915 through 1926, with the exception of one intervening year when he resigned to enter business.
Myron Fuller served as head coach that year, 1921.
Bernie Bierman, also a Minnesota alumnus and former assistant to Shaughnessy at Tulane, succeded to the head coaching position in 1927 and continued in that capacity through 1931, when he returned to his alma mater as head coach. Ted Cox, a Bierman assistant at Tulane, and like Shaughnessy and Bierman, a Minnesota graduate, succeeded Bernie. He served as head coach through 1935, when Lowell P. “Red” Dawson, a Tulane
alumnus, became head of the football staff.
The highest score ever made by Tu-

DO YOU KNOW THESE 3 WINNING SYSTEMS?

1 THE WARNER SYSTEM

Uses both the single and double wing-back system of attack, but its distinguishing characteristic is the unbalanced line. The double wing-back formation allows for great deception behind the line—often sacrificing power ahead of the ball to attain this deception. The Warner System stresses sustained advance.

2 THE ROCKNE SYSTEM

Operates from a single wing-back parallelogram. Its distinguishing characteristic is a balanced line. It stresses power ahead of the ball, unlike the Warner System which often allows a man to go through without interference. The Rockne System strives to score on a perfect play from any place on the field.

3 THE Postal Telegraph SYSTEM

The Postal Telegraph System starts right at your own telephone* or at the nearest Postal Telegraph office. Its distinguishing characteristics are faster, more personalized service that saves you money. Its players—who always wear blue uniforms—depend on their amazing speed afoot and on cycles.

People find it wise to employ the Postal Telegraph System when sending BIRTHDAY GREETINGS—WIRES OF CONGRATULATION—MONEY ORDERS—RESERVATIONS—SINGING TELEGRAMS—TRAVEL MESSAGES.

of the 1930 season and ending with the Rose Bowl defeat, January 1, 1932. The second longest streak was in 1924-25-26, when the Greenies went through 15 games without defeat but two of the games ended in ties.

COACH DAWSON

DAWSON'S FOOTBALL CAREER

Lowell Potter Dawson, the Tulane head football coach, known to the football world as "Red," has been on intimate terms with success from the very outset of his career in the game.

As a quarterback at Tulane, under the regime of Bernie Bierman, "Red" helped pilot the 1929 Green Wave to an undisputed title and in 1930 he was mainspring field general in directing the Greenies to a co-championship in the old Southern Conference. His generalship in 1931 was one of the big factors in leading the Wave through an eleven game schedule unchecked and into the Pasadena Rose Bowl where the Greenies rolled up 17 first downs compared with six for Troy only to see three mighty sweeps by Ernie Pinkert nullify all of the brilliant Tulane offense as Southern Cal won, 21 to 12.

Upon graduation, Dawson joined Bierman in the Silver Fox's new post, University of Minnesota, where "Red" was backfield coach and principal scout. In 1932, they were building for the Gophers. In 1933, they had "arrived" and in 1934 and 1935, the Minnesota powerhouse was nationally acclaimed champion.

It was after the 1935 season that Dawson, recommended strongly by Bierman, answered his alma mater's call to come home as head coach.

And . . . in his third year at the helm of the Greenie powerhouse—a football machine which he had moulded—Dawson produced a team that most Continued on page 18 experts acclaimed as the greatest ever to represent Tulane.

As debatable as that point might be, with many insisting that Clark Shaughnessy’s 1925 masterpiece at Tulane was tops, others equally positive that Bierman’s 1931 edition was best of all, none denied that for sheer power and reserve strength Dawson’s 1939 team was not far and away superior. Shaughnessy’s great 1925 team was built around 17 men. Bierman’s 1931 champions actually were only two deep in the face of tough opposition but Dawson’s 1939 team was just as effective even to the third depth and he substituted teams by units. And it must be remembered that the strength of Dawson’s competition in 1939, as in all of the years he has been at the helm, has been far sterner than the 1925 or 1931 team faced. Tulane’s schedule policy, for the past few years, has entirely eliminated “breathers.” Every game is a major one.

RICE'S HONOR
All for Rice’s Honor,
We will fight on,
We will be fighting,
When this day is done
And when the dawn comes breaking,
We’ll still be fighting on, Rice,
For the gray and blue,
We will be loyal,
To Rice be true.

HEAD COACH JESS NEELY
Vanderbilt '24

The quiet but outspoken native of Smyrna, Tenn., one of Vanderbilt University's football immortals, came to Rice in February, 1940, after signing a contract to coach the Owls for the next five years.

Now, Houston followers of the Owls, a hard-bitten legion which overlooks little, believe Neely when he says: "We'll have a fighting football team."

Fighting football is the only kind Neely knows how to play. Vanderbilt alumni and people around Nashville still tell the story of how Jess, an injured arm useless at his side, captained the Commodores of 1922 in a bruising struggle with Michigan. A volume, "Vanderbilt Football," rates Neely one of the greatest of Vanderbilt captains.

Jess was at Vanderbilt from 1920 through 1922, and played under Dan McGugin and Wallace Wade, the Duke mentor of the present who was then an assistant to McGugin. He was a back on offense and an end on defense, testimony as to his ability. Neely and Wade have been fast friends ever since; in fact, their styles of play are very similar. Neely was end coach and baseball mentor under Wade at Alabama before going to Clemson as head football coach. He and the famous Rose Bowl coach of Alabama and Duke teams have kept in close contact.

In nine years at Clemson, Neely's teams won 43 and lost 35 and tied 7 games, coming along fast after the first four years in which they lost 21 as against 12 victories. His 1939 team was the greatest, losing only to Tulane's Sugar Bowl powerhouse, 6 to 7, and scoring 159 points to opponents' 42, outside the Cotton Bowl game which Clemson won over Boston College, 6 to 3.

Jess is a law graduate of Vanderbilt, although he never has practiced the profession. After coaching Murfreesboro, Tenn., high school one season at the request of a friend, Neely went back to Vanderbilt and got his degree. Then he accepted a job at Southwestern University, Memphis, Tenn., where, he laughingly admits, he coached everything, including girls' basket ball. Joe Davis, line coach, played for Jess at Southwestern. Jess was assistant baseball coach at Princeton in the spring of 1928 before going to Alabama, where he stayed through 1930. Then he went to Clemson.

JOE DAVIS, LINE COACH

The football careers of Head Coach Jess Neely and Line Coach Joe Davis have been pretty closely entwined. Both are natives of Smyrna, Tennessee.

The first game of football Davis ever played was against Vanderbilt and Captain Jess Neely in 1922. Joe was playing for a Tennessee Normal school then.

Davis transferred to Southwestern University at Memphis in 1924 when Neely went to the Memphis school to coach. Davis made 12 letters at Southwestern, four each in football, basketball and baseball. He was captain of the football team in 1926 and captain of the basketball team in 1928. Joe was an end in football. The school did not have track competition.

Davis went into business following graduation, but he helped coach the Louisville, Miss., high school team one year and was head coach of it another year before joining Neely at Clemson in 1931.

Joe turned out two All-Southern ends while at Clemson. They were Goins and Blalock, the latter having two more years of competition.

Joe takes Del Morgan's position as line coach, left vacant when Morgan moved to Texas Tech as head coach.

CECIL GRIGG, BACKFIELD COACH

Cecil Grigg is one of Texas' all-time football greats. He made 13 Austin College letters. He played at Austin College and at Dallas University, winning All-Southern and All-American mention. Also a pro ball player for years, including time with Shreveport in the Texas league in the days of Uncle Billy Smith, Ewalt, Hartman, Chick Knapp and Verbont, Cece also was a star of early pro football. He was an All-Pro league selection with Canton during the time of Jim Thorpe, and later spent several seasons with the New York Giants. Then he umpired in the Southern and Texas leagues.

Grigg was head coach at Austin College before coming to Rice with Jimmy Kitts in 1934. Old-timers rate him one of the greatest of running backs in Texas.
