Dear Mr. Toole:

I always feel a little self conscious when I write Honor-Roll letters to those who have already graduated. Now that you have entered into what I hope seems a larger extramural life, you may no longer set much store by evidence of a minor undergraduate "triumph."

This College and University, however, do place a high value on scholastic excellence. We hope, also, that you do so and will continue to do so.

Congratulations on your persevering through that last semester, and best wishes for your success in your present and future undertakings.

Yours sincerely,

William Peery
