THE PRESIDENT'S

Dear Friends,

As you read our Summer Bulletin I will be on the Brandeis University campus attending the National Women's Committee Conference '81. Do you know that we, the National Women's Committee, are the largest single contributor to the University with a gift of over 18 million dollars raised in the past 33 years. The Women's Committee has grown into the largest friends of a library organization in the world. There are now 125 chapters and over 65,000 volunteer members. The newest chapter is in Hawaii.

As our local chapter starts into our fourth decade I am filled with excitement. We can accomplish so much in the next two years. There is talk of building a new library. Our volunteer benefits, study groups, University speakers, and tours become more enticing each year. I am thrilled to be able to work with the incoming officers and board members. The wide variety of talents and expertise and over 385 years of combined volunteer involvement which they bring to our chapter, makes this slate unbeatable. Please join us in fulfilling our commitment to Brandeis, The Women's Committee and to ourselves. In closing, I want to share a letter from Marver Bernstein, the president of the University.

Cordially,
Felice Harlow

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Mrs. Felice Harlow
544 Andrews Avenue
Metairie, LA 70005

Dear Felice:

Sheva and I were delighted to greet you and several leaders of the New Orleans Chapter of the National Women's Committee at the brunch at the home of Susan and Donald Mintz on March 22.

In the life of Brandeis, a single decade is a large part of the total life of the University. Three decades span almost the full period since the University opened its academic doors in September 1948 to its first freshman class of about 100 students and ten faculty members. Thus, the New Orleans Chapter, now celebrating its thirtieth anniversary, has been a premier chapter and a close participant in the University's creative enterprise almost from the very beginning.

On this milestone anniversary, I want to express to you and the several hundred members of the New Orleans Chapter the deep gratitude and appreciation of the trustees, the faculty, and present and former students of the University to the entire Chapter for its steadfast support of the University and its most critical, indeed indispensable, strategic center, the Library. To you, your officers and colleagues, past, present, and future, go our heartiest congratulations. How fortunate is the University to have hundreds of ambassadors and agents of good will in the New Orleans metropolitan area. I would be grateful to you for conveying my personal congratulations to the entire Chapter on this historic occasion.

It is a blessing to each member, to the entire Chapter, to the National Women's Committee, and to the University that the New Orleans Chapter has realized this day. May the fourth decade build on your illustrious past and your vital present stature.

Cordially,

Marver H. Bernstein
President
