Rebel Invasion

They have counted three over Tulane's football team, but the Greenies, who are far from finished fighting despite injuries and ill fate, mean to end the toll of defeat against Ole Miss today.

The fact that the task will not be easy is fully understood by a crew well schooled in adversity. After setbacks by Georgia, Michigan and Georgia Tech, made more painful by an epidemic of accidents of key players, Coach Raymond (Bear) Wolf's Wave reasons that it is now ready for anything.

It was last Saturday, after learning that fullback Ronnie Kent had become the fifth fractured-hand case of the season, that Trainer (Earl Bubba) Porche expressed his feelings. "We have had some spirited teams," he said, "From the standpoint of natural ability and numbers we have had better teams than this one. Yet in all my experience I have never seen a group of boys with as much 'heart' as these have. They cannot be discouraged."

Indeed, it is fortunate that such determination is present, for while it might be said that the worst must be behind them, the Greenies still have a rough road ahead.

In Ole Miss' Rebels, the successors to last year's fine Sugar Bowl outfit, Tulane faces one of the fastest moving and improving teams in the South. Coach Johnny Vaught's young men, including only seven seniors, opened with a 39-6 win over Chattanooga and an impressive 22-6 blasting of Kentucky. Then, after being tripped up by surprising Auburn, the Rebs polished off Vanderbilt, 28-6, last Saturday. Quarterback Lea Paslay (62) directs a hard-hitting split-T attack, while All-American guard candidate Crawford Mims (42) leads a formidable line.

Some silver lining in Tulane's injury cloud is the fact that right halfback Max McGee (25), who missed last week's Georgia Tech duel with a bruised hip, is slated to return to action today.

The tall Texan leads the Wave in six departments — rushing, pass receiving, punting, kickoff returns, punt returns and scoring.

Although not as seriously hurt as fullback Kent, sidelined indefinitely, quarterback Ray Weidenbacher (14) and left halfback Lester Kennedy (47) were also on the Tech game casualty list. But with three-quarters of the starting backfield absent, quarterback Pete Clement (17), Wayne Wall (22) and accomplices did a fine second-half job against the Yellow Jackets.

CAMPUS PICTURES
A MEDLEY OF
© TULANE UNIVERSITY 1953

Today's CAM-PIX section is a double-header. The first section is a quick pictorial preview of events scheduled for the school year and the second section features the school of business administration in honor of Business Administration Day today. On the cover is Miss Diane Greenslit being crowned the 1952 Queen of Tulane Homecoming. Who will reign as the 1953 Homecoming Queen on October 31?

First production of the Tulane University Theatre's 1953-54 season will be "Captive at Large," which will open at the Tulane Playhouse, October 20 for a five-night run. Here is a scene from the production, "He Who Gets Slapped," staged last year.

On November 13 the annual Beaux Arts Ball will be held, proceeds of which go toward the travelling fellowship in the school of architecture. This year's theme will be "Superstition." Pictured is a scene from a recent ball with "Gourmet" as the theme. Notice the egg plant with French dressing, deviled egg and glasses of pink champagne.

Sorority Skit Nights are always a treat on the campus calendar. This is a scene from one of last year's uproarious acts.

Like their Greek letter sisters, Tulane fraternity men stage their Skit Night. Both are held in the spring and always display much originality and staging.

One of the most picturesque events of the school year is the annual Easter Sunrise Service held on the Newcomb quadrangle as the sun breaks through the mist of morning.

The closing event of the academic year is Graduation Day, goal of all the students.

This is Norman Mayer Memorial Building, which houses the school of business administration. A two-story building was erected in 1942 and a three-story annex and third story was added in 1949. The building is named for the late Norman Mayer, prominent cotton broker of New Orleans and philanthropist, who died in 1937. The school was founded in 1914 through the cooperation of 222 persons and business firms.

Business Talks are an integral part of the curriculum of the school, which supplement formal classwork with practical work-a-day information presented by leaders of business and industry. Here Enders Voorhies (right), chairman of the finance committee of U. S. Steel, confers with Dean Robert W. French (center) and Professor Donald Halley, prior to delivering a business talk on industry.

In addition to Business Talks, nationally known business figures lecture before the business faculty and local businessmen in informal seminars. Here Dr. William Leiserson, labor relations arbiter, conducts a seminar on labor-management problems.

Each November the school co-sponsors the Tulane Tax Institute with the school of law, which is attended by some 200 tax practitioners throughout the Deep South.

The school also sponsors the Institute on Foreign Transportation and Port Operations, which is directed by Dr. Marvin L. Fair, shown on the left.

Current trends in business and business administration are stressed by the school in its training of future businessmen and women. Here a senior seminar in economics discusses price trends during the year.

It isn't all strictly business in the school of business administration. The Christmas dance is always a highlight of the social season. Here four pretty business maids tell Santa what grade they would like to receive in their course in advanced marketing.

ALMA MATER

We praise thee for thy past, O Alma Mater!
Thy hand hath done its work full faithfully;
The incense of thy spirit hath ascended
And filled America from sea to sea!

We praise thee for thy present, Alma Mater!
Today thy children look to thee for bread!
Thou ledest them to dreams and action splendid!
The hunger of their souls is richly fed!

We praise thee for thy future, Alma Mater!
The vista of its glory gleameth far!
We shall ever be part of thee, great Mother!
There thou will be where e'er thy children are!

Chorus

Olive Green and Blue, we love three.
Pledge we now our fealty true
Where the trees are ever greenest, t
Where the skies are purest blue.
Hear us now, O Tulane, hear us.
As we proudly sing to thee!
Take from us our heart's devotion!
Thine we are, and thine shall be!

ROLL ON. TULANE

Here's a song for the Olive and the Blue.
Here's a cheer for the team that's tried and true.
Here a pledge of loyalty to thee,
Oh, Tulane Varsity.
Here's to the Greenbacks that never will say die,
And here's to the hearts that are true
To the men of Tulane who are fighting for her name,
For the Olive and the Blue.

Chorus

Roll, Green Wave,
Roll them down the field.
Hold, Green Wave,
That line must never yield.
When those Greenbacks charge through the line
They're bound for victory.
Hail, Green Wave,
For you we give a cheer.
Hail, Green Wave,
For you we have no fear.
So ev'ry man in ev'ry play,
And then we'll win that game today.
Hurrah for Old Tulane.
