TODAY'S GAME

You can throw away the record book, forget about the stars of the previous games and get a big laugh out of the fact that one team is "favored" over the other.

For today's game is the Bayou Bowl—LSU and Tulane—and if you've ever seen one before, you know that nothing that has happened earlier this season makes any difference.

This is the game where both teams will be keyed to a breaking point, where each will show its most vicious blocking and tackling and where even the fans get more excited than the football coaches.

In this wild, sometimes bitter but always exciting rivalry that dates back to 1893, the "upset" has come to be the standard and it's practically an oddity when the favored team wins.

The last six games between the schools illustrate this point. In the span are two 14-13 games, a 14-14 tie and two upsets.

Today's game may well be one of the best of them all. Andy Pilney and Paul Dietzel have put together a pair of well-coached, hard-hitting teams that have surprised everyone with their fine showings this fall.

Neither is shooting for the conference championship or a bowl bid, as has been the case in many previous Tiger-Greenie games, but no Tiger or Greenie team was ever as popular as are these clubs.

They'll give you an hour of full speed football and the kind of playing that makes you proud of them—win or lose.

Today's game marks the first meeting of Dietzel and Pilney, who are recognized as two of the brightest new faces in collegiate football coaching. Both are leading contenders for SEC "Coach of the Year" honors.

It's also the last Greenie-Tiger game for several stars of both teams—the men who have furnished the thrills in the past two or three Bayou Bowl games.

For LSU, the seniors are Joe Tuminello, Ed Fogg, Don Stinson, Vince Gonzalez, O. K. Ferguson, Chuck Johns and R. B. Nunnery.

The Greenies making their final appearances are Tony Sardisco, Bill Vickrey, Bryan Burnthorne, Jim Carmody and Otis Gilmore.

You should see some of the finest line play of the year today. Both teams claim a big, talented forward wall; three of today's starters, end Tuminello and tackle Earl Leggett of LSU and guard Tony Sardisco of Tulane are all-SEC selections.

L.S.U. ALMA MATER

Where stately oaks and broad magnolias shade inspiring halls,

There stands our dear old Alma Mater who to us recalls
Fond memories that waken in our hearts a tender glow
And makes us happy for the love that we have learned to know.

All praise to thee, our Alma Mater, moulder of mankind,
May greater glory, love unending, be forever thine.

Our worth in life will be thy worth, we pray to keep it true,

And may thy spirit live in us forever, L.S.U.

Wild Flicker

This bird flies down the road leaving a trail of cans, bottles and paper behind him. You may not be able to tell where he's going...but you sure can tell where he's been.

THE

Smart Bird

uses the trash baskets at road stops or waits till he gets home to get rid of refuse. He's considerate of roadside beauty...knows, too, it's dangerous to throw things from a car.

The Smart Bird doesn't "throw away" engine power, either. He uses premium gasoline. Its higher octane rating lets him enjoy all the power his engine can deliver. He gets more pleasure...more value every mile.

Intercollegiate Athletics Observes NCAA'S

50th Anniversary

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS, during the current college year, 1955-56, commemorates the golden jubilee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The universities and colleges of the nation take pleasure in observing their national organization's 50th anniversary because the development and progress of the NCAA is the story of intercollegiate athletics' own expansion and improvement.

Fifty years is a long time. In 1905, the key of offense in college football was the flying wedge . . . organized track and field competition was just getting under way . . . the original peach basket goal was about to be replaced by the open metal hoop in basketball but the sport still was new and strange to most sections of the nation . . .

The NCAA evolved from a meeting of 13 colleges and universities called in 1905 to reorganize the game of intercollegiate football. (The rugged nature of the game was causing too many injuries and deaths.) A permanent organization was established, March 31, 1906.

Today, the NCAA is composed of more than 465 colleges and universities, athletic conferences and associations, devoted to the sound administration of intercollegiate athletics. Also today, the member institutions of the NCAA provide intercollegiate athletic competition for more than 130,000 students annually in more than 26 different sports. The men responsible for the coaching and administration of intercollegiate sports firmly believe that these competitive athletic programs are a vital part of the educational system which prepares our youth for future productive careers in society.

The universities and colleges of the nation have joined together in one Association—the NCAA—for purposes of athletic discussion, legislation and administration at the national level. The NCAA is solely and completely responsive to the will of its members as expressed by their governing boards and chief executive officers. The NCAA concerns itself with any phase of college athletics which spreads across regional lines and becomes national in character, and a majority of the member institutions concur that national action is needed.

These member institutions carry on many diversified activities through the NCAA. For example, they:

- establish and maintain athletic standards.
- formulate and publish the official playing rules for college sports.
- conduct National Collegiate Championship events in 13 sports.
- maintain the official national statistics and records of college sports.
- provide financial and other assistance to groups interested in the promotion and encouragement of intercollegiate and intramural athletics.
- conduct studies as a means of developing solutions to athletic problems; i.e., the recent surveys on television, post-season events, length and time of playing and practice seasons, admission taxes, college baseball, etc.
- participate in the U. S. Olympic and Pan American movements in matters of fund-raising, sports organization and the selection of coaches and athletes for United States teams.
- administer a group insurance program providing catastrophe medical coverage.
- maintain a large film library covering play in National Collegiate Championship events.

The development and expanded activities of the NCAA reflect the progress of intercollegiate athletics over the past half century. The NCAA and its member institutions, in the years ahead, will continue to make every effort to provide maximum opportunities for our youth to enjoy the experience of competitive athletics as an integrated part of their over-all college education.
