STADIUM INFORMATION

EMERGENCIES: A First Aid Station to handle any emergencies which may arise during the game is located in the Southeast Corner of the stadium, under the stands. It can be reached through Gates 1 and 2.

In addition, an aidman (wearing a fireman's uniform, with armband) is stationed in each of the four stands of the stadium.

First aid facilities are furnished by the Baton Rouge Fire Department.

REST ROOMS: Rest rooms for men and for women are located beneath the stands in all four sides of the stadium.

LOST ARTICLES: Articles found should be turned over to the Stadium Office inside Gate 5 under the West stands. Persons seeking to recover lost articles should also inquire at the Stadium Office.

PUBLIC TELEPHONES: Public Telephones are located on the ground level under each of the four stands.

CONCESSIONS: Refreshment stands are located in each of the four stands, and vendors circulate throughout the stadium.

CAMPUS CAFETERIA: Hatcher Cafeteria, across the street from the East Side, is open until 7 p.m. on Saturdays.

No Favorite In Tiger-Greenie Games

BY ACE HIGGINS
LSU Sports Publicity Director

When the LSU-Tulane football series was in its embryonic stage, an astute observer came to the conclusion that the keenness of the rivalry precluded any odds-making on the outcome of any given game.

That theory has been tested and proved more than filter-tipped cigarettes. To paraphrase the great Grantland Rice, "it matters not who the favorite is, but how they played the game."

That theory will be put to its annual test today. LSU, with a 4-5 record, is the logical choice over Tulane, with a 2-7 mark. But, as the man says, don't bet the family jewels.

Tulane has come along fast and has given every team, save Ole Miss, a pretty fair run for their money. Army found out two weeks ago that the Greenies cannot be regarded lightly. The highly favored Cadet crew was lucky to escape with their collective crew cuts.

Mississippi State, pushed until Tulane's manpower wore thin in the final period, was in a precarious position until they outlasted the Wave's staying power.

The Greenies hold victories over Marquette and Alabama and have added years to the ages of the coaches of Texas, Georgia Tech, Mississippi State and Army. If the point has been made clear that Tulane is not to be taken lightly, then you have read well.

Since that November day in 1893 when LSU inaugurated the sport of collegiate football with a one-game schedule against Tulane, the two teams have carried on a colorful and torrid rivalry. The Greenies took advantage of LSU's two-week training period and trimmed the Tigers 34-0. But LSU evened it up in 1895 with an 8-4 conquest. Sixty-seven years and 54 games later finds LSU with an advantage of 29 wins against 18 losses and seven ties.

Tulane and LSU find themselves in similar positions in today's game. Each has an outstanding senior and each has top flight sophomores. But both are "thin" in manpower ranks where experienced personnel are not available.

The Greenies count heavily on their mighty-mite quarterback, senior Gene Newton. LSU, to succeed, must have a peak performance from hard running senior full-back Jimmy Taylor. Tulane is proud of sophomore back Rickie Petitbon and LSU relies on the speed of sophomore Billy Cannon. Both have experienced halfbacks to help stabilize the backfield. Claude "Boo" Mason has been a standout for Tulane and J. W. "Red" Brodnax has helped the Tigers. Senior end Will Billon is a Wave stalwart up front and so is senior end Bill Smith of the Tigers.

For the third consecutive game, the Tigers will be faced with the problem of containing a Split-T attack. With Newton a past-master of the option play, pressure will again be kept on Tiger ends.

Tulane must concern itself with the hard-running Tiger backfield corps of Taylor, Cannon and Brodnax.

Eight Tiger seniors will be playing their final game for the Tigers today. End Bill Smith, tackles Alvin Aucoin and Jim Lavin, guards Ed Cassidy and Gerald Schwalb, quarterback Win Turner and fullbacks Jimmy Taylor and Bob DeCrosta will be in action for the last time in a Tiger uniform.

The winner of today's game will have possession of "The Rag", a flag that is symbolic of the victor in the annual struggle. With the exception of two ties in which each school shared possession for six months, LSU has maintained possession since 1949.

Is everyone ready? Then hang on for one of those slam-bang LSU-Tulane scraps.

More than anything else, a KitchenAid dishwasher brings you the precious gift of time. You have time to be a part of things—family fun and friends-after-the-game—secure in the knowledge that all's well in the kitchen.

Indeed, your dishes could not be in better care. Your KitchenAid is produced by Hobart—another way of saying it's the finest made. You'll see the evidence everywhere you turn: The new Timed Spray Cycle that "warms up" tableware and dishwasher interior, clears plumbing lines of cold water before the wash action starts. The easy-rolling, cushion-coated racks that take the guess out of loading. The revolving power wash system that leaves your tableware hospital-clean. The separate blower that dries even fine crystal to perfection.

Yet—wonder of convenience—Hobart has contrived to work all these features into the standard cabinet width; you don't give up space you sorely need. By all means, see the new KitchenAid by Hobart. You'll find just the model to go with your kitchen, as surely as it goes with your way of life. And see the new food preparer and the electric coffee mill—they're KitchenAid, too!

AL AUCOIN, senior tackle, was one of LSU's most consistent performers in 1955 and 1956. A former Terrebonne High star, he will graduate in geology.

JIMMY TAYLOR was the SEC's leading scorer last fall and was one of the South's best fullbacks. A fine runner, he also kicks field goals and extra points and calls defensive signals. An All-America prep footballer at Baton Rouge High, he is a senior at LSU.

ED CASSIDY is stumpy (5-11, 200) but swift, stood out as a second team guard last fall. A senior in accounting, he is from Bogalusa.

WIN TURNER, a three-year letterman at quarterback, was the hero of LSU's 1954 win over arch-rival Tulane. A senior, he was an outstanding prep performer at Istrouma High of Baton Rouge.

BILL SMITH is a two-year letterman from Ruston. He was a starter in 1955 but was injured during 1956 campaign. A senior in commerce.

M. C. REYNOLDS, "Mr. Cannonball," quarterbacked the 1955 team, shared the post with Win Turner in 1956. A native of Mansfield, he is a top passer and spot punter.

BOB DECROSTA, called "Rock," lettered as second unit fullback last fall. A native of Hudson, N. Y., and a Navy vet, he is a senior in physical education.

JERRY JOHNSTON was second team right half last fall after transferring here from Jones (Miss.) Junior College. A senior in physical education, his home is in Waynesboro, Miss.

COACHES SAY:

Taylor--"The Nation's Best Fullback"

At the outset of the 1957 football season, Louisiana State football coach Paul Dietzel called Jimmy Taylor "the best fullback in the United States."

While some skeptics were prone to write this off as over-enthusiasm on the part of Coach Dietzel, others who had seen the 200-pound blockbuster in action were sure that the Bengal boss was right.

Now, with the season ending, the skeptics have joined Coach Dietzel in his praise of the Baton Rouge senior and some figure that the coach was too modest in his praise of the human tank.

Taylor's following has grown each week as opposing coaches who have seen the Bengal fullback shatter their lines with his smashes hasten to add their praise for the Tiger star.

Ole Miss Coach John Vaught, whose Rebels felt the wrath of Taylor's bull-like rushes, says simply, "Taylor is the best fullback in the country today." This testimonial was precipitated by a 115-yard rushing performance by Taylor against the Rebs including a 60-yard scamper in which the Tiger fullback ran through, over and around Ole Miss players.

Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Dodd, who saw Taylor score all 20 of LSU's points in the Tigers' conquest of the Yellow Jackets, says "Jimmy Taylor is the hardest running back in the Southeastern Conference. I have never seen a back run with more determination and power than he did in our game with LSU."

Who is Jimmy Taylor? Where did this 200-pound bundle of muscles acquire his football talent?

Jimmy Taylor, a Baton Rouge youngster, is a living example of how much determination means to the success of any individual.

Coming from a family of modest means, Jimmy helped sustain himself through Baton Rouge High School by delivering the morning papers. Some observers say that his route was the longest ever.

This time consuming job which had to be done while the city was still asleep did not prevent Jimmy from becoming an All-America High school football player. It was not uncommon for the former Baton Rouge High star to return from a road trip, get off the bus at 3:30 AM and then head straight to the newspaper building to check out his papers for delivery. It's one of the few times in history when a newspaper reader, checking the exploits of an All-America high school back, had the paper delivered by the star himself.

Because he was a self-styled individual who made his own way, Jimmy on the football field, as in life, gave nor asked any quarter. His competitive spirit and determination to win once caused an opposing back to remark, "This guy ain't human. He'll kill you for a yard."

The success that he enjoyed in high school was carried over to his freshman year at Louisiana State University. Against the Tulane freshman, Taylor personally demolished Green Wave hopes by romping up and down the field for over 200 yards rushing and more than 100 more on passes received.

Scholastic difficulties forced Taylor into Hinds Junior College for one year and he came back to Tiger-town last year. Without the benefit of a spring practice, it took the high scoring star five games to get going. Through the first five games, Taylor scored eight points. The last five, he accounted for 51 points for a total of 59—good enough for the scoring title. He seems well on his way to a history making second consecutive championship. No other SEC back has ever won the scoring title two years in succession.

Through nine games, Taylor has accounted for — yards rushing and has scored — points. Old timers say without hesitation that he is the finest fullback in the history of football at LSU. And coming from the old timers who are generally prejudiced by nostalgia, this observation assumes the proportions of downright praise.

The Jimmy Taylor of today is a much more mature person than the chip-on-shoulder freshman who appeared on the LSU campus four years ago. He's not fighting the world now—only LSU opponents. And most of them wish he were fighting some one else.

HOW HE DOES IT. Here's Taylor's "touchdown twist" over the line for six points against Rice.

"BAYOU BOWL"

Tulane, Tigers Meet For 55th Time

Today's game — Tulane vs. LSU — is the classic of Louisiana football.

Dubbed "The Bayou Bowl," the annual meeting between the Pelican State's two big-time collegiate football teams is the big game of the season for most of Louisiana's football fans.

Not only the biggest, but the most exciting. Few rivalries in football can match the weird plays, the upsets, the close games and the intangible "spirit" that has marked the LSU-Tulane game.

Today's match is the 55th Bayou Bowl. In all-time play, LSU leads by a 29-18-7 count — if you're an LSU fan. If you're a Greenie, it's 28-19-7, as the 1901 game is still in dispute.

It all began in 1893, when Dr. Charles E. Coates was trying to form a football team at LSU. At New Orleans, T. L. Bayne, an ex-Yale quarterback, had organized a Tulane team and had already played one game.

LSU challenged Tulane and the game was scheduled for November 25, 1893, at Sportsman's Park on Canal Street in New Orleans. Some 1500 fans, paying 50 cents each, saw the first Tiger-Greenie game, which Tulane won by a 34-0 score.

The honor of scoring first in the series went to Tulane's Allen Blakemore, who oddly enough had been listed as team manager of the Greenies.

Here's a resume of the games down through the years:

TULANE-LSU, CIRCA 1926.
A striking old photograph shows LSU halfback E. H. "Hinky" Haynes bucking over for the only touchdown as the Tigers spoiled Tulane's dedication of what is now the Sugar Bowl stadium. LSU won, 7-0, on Haynes first-period touchdown against the heavily favored Greenies.

1894 — no game.

1895 — The first Tiger-Greenie game at Baton Rouge found LSU winning by an 8-4 score. J. H. Arrighi and G. B. Nicholson punched over for LSU touchdowns in a come-from-behind win before 1500 fans.

1896 — LSU marched 82 yards and was on the Tulane four when the Tigers thought of an easier way to win. They protested Tulane's use of a player who wasn't registered at the University; the referee upheld LSU's protest and awarded the Tigers a 6-0 win.

1897 — no game.

1898 — LSU, led by T. L. Sherburne, swamped the Greenies in the season's only game, 37-0 (a Yellow Fever epidemic had delayed the opening of school). LSU gained 726 yards from scrimmage, did not punt and was never held on downs.

1899 — The Greenies and the Tigers went into this game with equal records—neither had won a game nor scored a point in other games. This was LSU's day—the Tigers ignored the muddy field and razzle-dazzled Tulane for a 38-0 win; Phil Huyck starred for the Tigers.

1900 — Tulane's Dupleche scored three times before the game was called on account of darkness. LSU gained only 36 yards before darkness mercifully arrived. TU, 29-0.

The 1957 LSU Tigers

SCOTTY McCLAIN, sophomore end, starred for LSU frosh team last fall. He's an engineering student from Smackover, Ark.

BOB WESTERMAN, a junior in secondary education (teaching), played briefly at quarterback last fall. A native of Malvern, Ark., he lettered as a sprinter for the LSU track team last spring.

JOHNNY LANGAN is one of the team's lightest linemen (178 pounds). Redshirted last season, he was a prep star at Carbondale, Ill., before coming South.

DUREL MATHERNE, a sophomore, quarterbacked the 1955 frosh team, was out of school last year. The son of a state policeman, he starred at Lutcher High.

DON KOZAN, "Red," saw service at right half last fall but did not letter. Small (5-9, 157), he has fine competitive spirit, Junior in Arts and Sciences.

TOMMY LOTT is younger brother of end Bobby Lott. An engineering sophomore, he was redshirted last fall. An all-state guard at Texarkana High.

MERL SCHEXNAILDRE played briefly last season at left half as a sophomore. A product of Terrebone High of Houma, he catches for the LSU baseball team in the springtime.

FRED BLANKENSHIP, the tallest (6-4) end, played on the 1956 frosh team. A native of North Little Rock, Ark., he is a sophomore pre-med student.

TULANE, TIGERS MEET—

1901 — This is the year of Crandall. LSU, behind 22-0, protested the use of a player named Crandall by Tulane. The old Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, then the equivalent of the present-day NCAA, upheld and awarded the Tigers an 11-0 forfeit victory. A mad, mad Tulane wouldn't play LSU for the next two years. The dispute has never been settled. Tulane recently got the NCAA to rule the other way but both teams, at kickoff today, still claim this one as a victory.

1902-1903 — No games were played.

1904 — A crowd of 5,000 at New Orleans saw Tulane upset LSU when the Greenies' Smith blocked a Tiger punt and recovered on the LSU 1-yard line. LSU won everywhere but on the scoreboard.

1905 — LSU, after fumbling four times inside Tulane's 10-yard line, drove 41 yards in the fading minutes for a 5-0 win. The game was played at New Orleans and halfback C. I. Smith stood out for the Ole War Skule.

1906-1910 — no games were played.

1911 — LSU quarterback Larry Dupont ran 17 yards in the fourth quarter to set up the only touchdown as the Tigers won before 3,500 fans on LSU's new "stadium." The game was played on a wire and board enclosed field, complete with bleachers, on what is now the state capitol grounds.

1912 — Tulane had a new grandstand this year, and a record crowd of 8,000 saw LSU come from behind on the running of Dupont and Alf "The Human Ram" Reid for a 21-3 victory. Woodward kicked a 25-yard field goal for Tulane.

1913 — LSU, captained by Big Tom Dutton and sparked again by Larry Dupont, smashed Tulane by a 40-0 count at Baton Rouge. Hinderman of Tulane broke away on a 40-yard run in a losing cause.

1914 — The Tigers and Greenies battled to a 0-0 tie in a sea of mud at New Orleans. A halftime "friendship" demonstration between LSU and Tulane students wound up in a brawl.

1915 — Most of the scoring was done with left jabs in this free-for-all between the schools. In between the fighting, Reid and "Ram-'Em-To-Hell" Bernstein powered LSU to a 12-0 win. At this point, LSU had a comfortable 10-3-1 edge in the series.

1916 — Mike Flanagan ran 50 yards to give LSU a 14-14 tie with Clark Shaughnessy's Greenies in New Orleans. LSU's coach was Dana Bible, "loaned" to the Tigers by Texas A&M.

1917 — Tulane's Gentling spoiled LSU's first season on the new football field, State Field, as the Greenies romped to a 28-6 victory. The victory was Tulane's first at Baton Rouge.

1918 — Everybody went off to war and they forgot all about the Bayou Bowl.

1919 — "Fatty" Ives and R. A. McFarland sparked LSU to a 27-6 win at Heinemann's Park in Tulane. Tulane's Fields took a punt and ran 86 yards to the end zone, but forgot one thing—he'd signalled for a fair catch.

1920 — Branch Bocock made his debut as LSU coach and Tulane spoiled it with a 21-0 victory at Baton Rouge.

1921 — LSU had a good passing attack, Tulane had a good running attack. It rained. Tulane by 21-0 behind Legendre and Brown.

1922 — Tulane scored first and last, but LSU got four touchdowns in between for a 25-14 upset before 10,000 fans at State Field in Baton Rouge. "Doc" Fenton, LSU great of 1908, came back to coach the Tigers for this game. Gus Jackson and swifty Newton "Dirty" Helm starred for LSU, which Brother Brown returned a punt 40 yards for one of Tulane's touchdowns.

Tulane's Don Zimmerman, an All-American, whipped the Tigers twice in early thirties.

1923 — Brother Brown struck like lightning to crush Mike Donahue's first LSU team; the incomparable Brown swept end for 70 yards and one touchdown and then passed to Peg Flournoy for 45 yards and another touchdown. Ellis Henican sprinted 20 yards with a fumble for the other Tulane tally in a 20-0 win at New Orleans.

1924 — This was dedication day for LSU's new stadium (at the present site) but Tulane didn't go along with the ceremonies. Les Lautenschlaeger and Peg Flournoy paced the Greenies to a 13-0 victory.

1925—Tulane was a 30 point favorite this year and the Greenies lived up to it, whipping the Tigers by 16-0 before 25,000 fans at Baton Rouge. After a 0-0 first half, Lautenschlager had Menville hide out on the old "sleeper" play and then tossed to him for the touchdown that broke up the tough battle. A. L. "Red" Swanson starred for LSU.

1926—LSU ended a three-season drought with a 7-0 victory over favored Tulane before 23,000 at New Orleans. Al Connell ran 28 yards to set up the game's only touchdown.

1927—The running of Bill Banker and the passing of Dick Baumbach (now Tulane's athletic director) led the Greenies to a 13-6 victory over the Tigers before 15,000 at Baton Rouge. Tulane's Pat Browne twice made key tackles to drop two LSU drives in scoring territory. Bernie Bierman was Tulane's new coach.

1928—Banker, "The Blonde Blizzard", and running mate Percy Brown were contained by LSU's tight defense in a scoreless tie before 25,000 in New Orleans. Banker broke loose but LSU's Hank Stovall blocked him out of bounds on the one-foot line and LSU held. This was Russ Cohen's debut as Tiger coach.

Jerry Dalrymple

1929—Tulane, enroute to the championship of the South, beat the Tigers, 21-0, on the strength of the fabulous Jerry Dalrymple. Dalrymple, an All-America end, took a 25-yard pass, ran over LSU's secondary and scored to break open the game. A crowd of 24,000 saw the game at Baton Rouge.

1930—Southern conference co-champs with Alabama, Bierman's Greenies slapped down a fighting Tiger, 12-7, before 23,000 at New Orleans. Roy Wilson blocked a punt by All-America Don Zimmerman for LSU's touchdown.

1931—Tulane was supposed to go to the Rose Bowl if they whipped LSU; they did. Joe Almkary threw a 50-yard scoring pass to Tom Smith for a 7-0 LSU lead, but Zimmerman and Dalrymple led Tulane to a smashing 34-7 win before 26,000 at New Orleans.

1932—Tulane lost Zimmerman and several other starters before the game on a wave of influenza, but LSU refused to cancel. The Tigers, with Joe Almkary gaining 115 yards rushing, won by 14-0 before 20,000 at Baton Rouge.

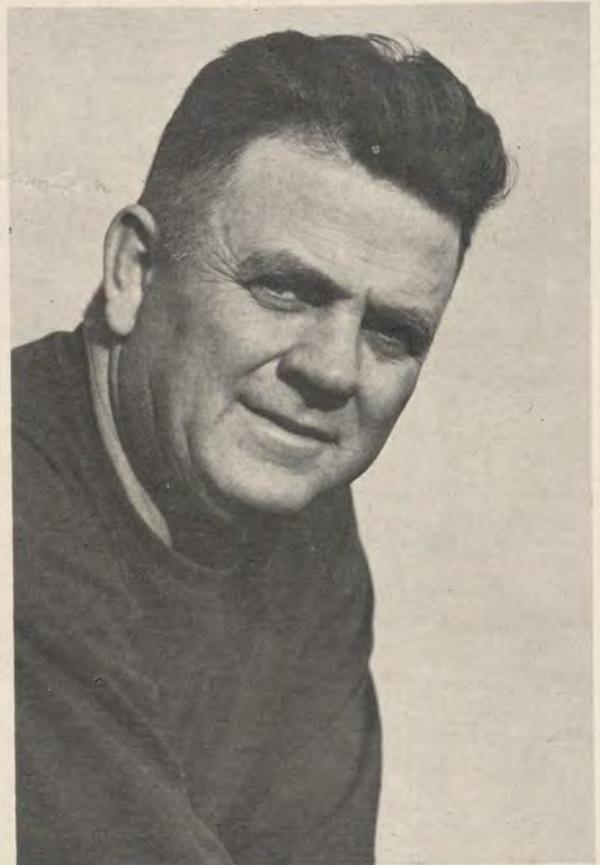

1933—LSU was rising under Biff Jones and this year the Tigers and the Greenies, both powerhouses now, battled to a 7-7 tie before 27,000 at New Orleans. Tulane scored first behind "Little Preacher" Roberts; LSU roared back to tie on the strength of Pete Burge's brilliant end zone catch.

Claude Simons

1934—Tulane's Claude "Little Monk" Simons bested LSU's Abe Mikal in a brilliant duel as the Greenies went to the first Sugar Bowl game. A record (for the series) crowd of 32,000 saw the game at Baton Rouge. Simons passed to Dick Hardy for one touchdown, then returned a punt 42 yards for the second in the closing minutes. Dick Mintz kicked the winning extra point.

1935—Simons left but Mikal was still at LSU, and the McComb Menace ran for a touchdown and passed for two more as LSU thrashed the Greenies, 41-0, before 32,000 at New Orleans. Tulane made only three first downs during the game.

Bernie Moore, "The Ole Possum," won nine and lost only three to Tulane before he quit to become SEC commissioner in 1947.

1936—Tulane's brilliant Bucky Bryan spent this, his last game, on the sidelines with an injury, but it probably wouldn't have made much difference. LSU's SEC champions crushed the Green Wave by 33-0, before a record crowd of 48,000 in Baton Rouge. Pat

Tulane University

Dr. Rufus C. Harris
President of the University

TULANE, the first independent university in the South, is located on a 110-acre campus in New Orleans. The University had its beginning in 1834, when seven young physicians banded together to combat yellow fever and cholera, the city's twin curses of that period. In 1847 the Legislature established in New Orleans the University of Louisiana.

The University received its name from Paul Tulane, who donated $1,000,000 to the institution in 1882. Through his gift a reorganization of the university was completed. It was separated from the state and its affairs were entrusted to a self-perpetuating board of administrators.

In 1886 Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb donated to Tulane the sum of $100,000 to establish the Sophie Newcomb Memorial College in honor of her daughter. Newcomb was the first women's college in the country to be established within a university.

Tulane University comprises the College of Arts and Sciences, Newcomb College for women, and University College (adult education); and the Schools of Law, Engineering, Medicine, Social Work, Business Administration, and Architecture; and the Graduate School.

The student body includes about 4,700 full-time students, and some 2,300 others who are taking courses in the field of graduate medicine, University College and the other divisions. It is drawn from all of the 48 states of the union and from about 30 foreign countries.

R. O. Baumbach
Director of Athletics

DICK BAUMBACH, Tulane's director of athletics since 1952, is a former Greenie football star and a former president (1943-44) of the Tulane Alumni Association. Baumbach quarterbacked Tulane's undefeated and untied team of 1929. He was a prominent businessman in New Orleans for two decades before becoming athletic director.

FOOTBALL COACH at Tulane is Andy Pilney, once a Notre Dame football great, a former major league baseball player and currently one of the top amateur golfers in Louisiana. A native of Kansas, Pilney starred as a halfback at Notre Dame in the mid-thirties. He came to Tulane in 1946, became head coach in 1954.

TULANE, TIGERS MEET—

Coffee, Gus Tinsley, Rock Reed and Cotton Milner stood out for LSU.

1937 — After Honest John Andrews ran 50 yards with an intercepted pass to put Tulane in upset position, LSU's Jimmy Cajoleas fumbled the pass from center on a field goal attempt and tossed a basketball pass to Tom Smith for the tie-breaking touchdown. Tigers by 20-7 before 35,000 at New Orleans.

1938 — Heavily favored Tulane ended three frustrating years as Bobby "Jitterbug" Kellogg trucked past the Tigers. The final score was 14-0 before 40,000 at Baton Rouge.

1939 — Tulane had a Sugar Bowl date with Texas A&M and "Jarring John" Kimbrough and LSU couldn't spoil that. Kellogg sparked the Greenies, but Bob Glass's 85-yard run was the knockout punch. 33-20.

1940 — Adrian Dodson made his now-famous 88-yard run behind perfect blocking and Leo Bird's passing and Walter Gorinski's line bucks did the rest as LSU took a 14-0 win. A crowd of 31,000 saw the game at Baton Rouge.

1941 — Leo Bird's peerless passing — including a crucial one to blocking back Steve Van Buren — led to an upset of the Greenies. Gorinski's 26-yard power run was another highlight in LSU's 19-0 victory before 51,000 at New Orleans.

1942 — A brilliant Bird paced LSU to three second half touchdowns after Tulane had taken a 6-0 lead in the third quarter. LSU won the first wartime game before 30,000 in Baton Rouge, 18-6.

1943 — LSU's incomparable but injured Van Buren was on the sidelines for all but a few plays. Dub Jones, an LSU freshman the year before, was at Tulane in Navy training and he scored two touchdowns and set up another for a 27-0 thumping of the Tigers.

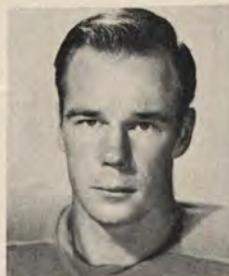

1944 — An LSU freshman with a golden passing arm, Y. A. Tittle, completed 15 of 17 tosses for a 25-6 upset of the Greenies. Gene Knight ran 60 yards with an intercepted pass for one of LSU's touchdowns.

1945 — A record crowd of 53,000 saw Tittle, Willard Landry and Dan Sandifer sink the Greenies by a 33-0 score in New Orleans. Tittle connected on 11 of 13 tosses.

1946 — Tittle passed for three touchdowns as LSU smacked the up-and-coming Greenies, 41-27, but the story of this game was the two touchdowns that didn't count. Jim Cason of LSU ran 94 yards for an apparent touchdown but it was called back for clipping; later, he ran 97 yards for what looked like another but the referee ruled he stepped out of bounds on the 35.

1947 — Tulane almost caught up with Tittle in the Tiger's last game but LSU hung on for a 6-6 tie. Tittle passed to Ray Bullock for LSU's touchdown, but Tulane marched 54 yards to tie it up. Late in the game, Tulane stopped an LSU drive on the Greenie one-foot line. The crowd was a record 67,000.

1948 — The weather was dismal and so were Tiger fans. Tulane, powered by the great Eddie Price, humiliated LSU by a 46-0 score before 44,000 in Baton Rouge.

Lee Hedges

1949 — LSU's "Cinderella" team blew over Tulane's SEC champions in a 21-0 upset before an all-time record of 80,000 fans at New Orleans. The Tigers defensive unit contained Price and Kenny Konz raced 92 yards the first time LSU got its hands on the ball for the crucial win. Lee Hedges' 65-yard run was the clincher.

1950 — Tulane was a two-touchdown favorite but the Greenies had to fight back gamely for a 14-14 tie. Mike was "catnapped" by Tulane students and almost missed the game. Billy Baggett starred for LSU, while George Kinek, Hal Waggoner and Joe Shinn stood out for Tulane.

1951 — An erstwhile defensive safetyman named Les Kennedy passed LSU silly in the second half, but the Tigers hung on for a 14-13 win before 42,000 at Baton Rouge. Kennedy threw to Ray Weidenbacher on a pass that covered 68 yards in the air in one of the Bayou Bowl's most memorable plays. LSU's fake field goal that led to a touchdown was another top play.

1952 — Tulane was heavily favored, but Leroy Labat and Jerry Marchand broke loose on long scoring runs and Cliff Stringfield kicked a field goal to settle the issue in the first half. LSU by 16-0 before 57,000 rain-soaked fans at New Orleans.

1953 — Marchand, LSU's splendid fullback, scored three touchdowns and Al Doggett scored one and passed for another as the Tigers followed the form chart in a 32-13 victory. Some 45,000 fans watched the completion of Tulane's first winless season.

1954 — Heavily favored LSU had to come from behind in the second half to eke out a 14-13 victory over Andy Pilney's first Tulane team. A 33-yard run by Willie Hof and plunges by Ronnie Quillian put Tulane ahead by 13-0, but Win Turner's passing and sensational catches by Vince Gonzales sunk the Greenies.

The 1957 Tiger Band

He practices every day of the week, performs in Tiger stadium on Saturday night, works hard on perfection and timing and does it all for a small tuition scholarship.

But he's not the football player in Saturday's night game. He's one of the members of the LSU Band which stages halftime spectaculars at each of the Tigers' home football games.

While the work isn't as rough as playing football, the drive for precision is just as demanding and LSU students participating in the 1957 band have their hands full.

They practice at least one hour each day for Saturday's halftime show, tapering off with a dress rehearsal in Tiger stadium on Thursday afternoons.

The shows are produced by Oscar Barnes, assistant director of the LSU band department. The department of Bands, directed by L. Bruce Jones, is in the LSU School of Music.

Only a few of the band members are music students, however. Most of them are first year freshmen, and students from nine different colleges in the University are participants.

The band you'll see at halftime is the Tiger band. After football season, this band will be split into two concert bands that will perform at other University functions.

Actually, all band members are in the Tiger band. They're rotated into different groups named the Concert Band, the Military Band, etc.

Head Drum Major of the 1957 Band is Ramon Espinosa of Brownsville, Tex. Playing a major role in the administration of the Band are the band officers, Captain Willie Smith of Monroe and Lieutenants Byron Wales of Franklinton and Jimmie Taylor of Alexandria.

ALMA MATER

by LLOYD FUNCHESS AND HARRIS DOWNEY

Where stately oaks and broad magnolias shade inspiring halls,
There stands our dear old Alma Mater who to us recalls
Fond memories that waken in our hearts a tender glow
And make us happy for the love that we have learned to know.

All praise to thee, our Alma Mater, moulder of mankind,
May greater glory, love unending, be forever thine.
Our worth in life will be thy worth, we pray to keep it true,
And may thy spirit live in us forever, LSU.

FIGHT FOR LSU

by W. G. HIGGINBOTHAM AND CASTRO CARAZO

Like Knights of Old, let's fight to hold
The glory of the Purple-Gold.
Let's carry through. Let's die or do
To win the game for Dear Old LSU.
Keep trying for a higher score.
Come on and fight we want some more, some more.
Come on you Tigers; Fight! Fight! Fight!
For Dear Old LSU! Rah!

TOUCHDOWN FOR LSU

by HUEY P. LONG AND CASTRO CARAZO

Tigers! Tigers! They've come to town.
They fight! They fight! Call a first down.
Just look them over, and how they go,
Smashing the line with runs and passes high and low.
Touchdown! Touchdown! It's a Tiger's score!
Give them hell and a little more.
Come on you Tigers! Fight them, you Tigers!
Touchdown for LSU!

Eddie Price, Tulane's great fullback, hung worst defeat on LSU in 1948.

1955 — Once again Tulane got LSU down by 13-0, but again the Greenies couldn't hold it. Superb play by Quillian and Gene Newton sparked Tulane, but Chuck Johns and Vince Gonzales pulled LSU up to 13-12. Gonzales then booted the crucial extra point for a 13-13 tie.

1956 — Tulane was favored to end the frustration of seven winless years against the Tigers, but frustration and Jimmy Taylor won out. Taylor scored the touchdown, kicked the winning extra point, intercepted two passes and caught a paydirt-bound Greenie from behind in LSU's 7-6 win.
