

HARPIST, PIANIST

Charles Levie, 15-year-old pianist of Jesuit High school, and Elizabeth Burke, 12-year-old harpist of St. Martin's school, are stars at tomorrow morning's Junior Philharmonic Society concert in Dixon Hall at 11.

SENIOR 'PHILHARMONICS' PLAY FOR JUNIORS

Julius Schulman, Raymond Sird, Russell Flagg and Peter Makas, members of the New Orleans Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra's string section, will play string quartets for Junior Philharmonic Society Saturday at 11 a. m. in Dixon Hall, Newcomb Campus.

Charlotte Bergeron, 15-year-old pianist from Assumption High school, is coming to town to appear as guest soloist at this Junior Philharmonic recital, reports Margery N. Dean. Miss Dean and Mrs. Vernile Winn are hoping to bring out a crowd. After Saturday morning, there won't be another Junior Philharmonic concert until March 23, they remind.

The JAMES A. COMISKEYS sort of hoped they'd even out the sexes in their growing family, but their newborn is a girl child, making three dolls and one little guy to call Assessor JAMES E. COMISKEY grandpa. . . . ROSEMARY MURPHY back from a trip to Nicaragua breezed into her Key Club wearing a huge mushroom of a hat, carrying a baby ocelot she brought back as a souvenir. . . . The Junior Philharmonic holds its second concert of the current series on Saturday at 11 a. m. at Dixon Hall with two young pianists starred -- CHARLES LEVIE of Jesuit High, CHARLOTTE BERGERON of Assumption High. Both are 15 years old. Added treat on the program will be a quartet of musicians from the New Orleans Symphony orchestra, JULIUS SCHULMAN, RAYMOND SIRD, RUSSELL FLAGG and PETER MAKAS.
