Tulane and the Community . . .

Dr. Longenecker

TULANE UNIVERSITY is an integral part of the New Orleans community.

The university's primary roles of education, research and service are largely focused on this area, affording opportunities for thousands of students of all ages to advance academically, contributing to the increase of knowledge, and providing a wide variety of community services, ranging from the upgrading of elementary education to the delivery of health services.

The university's programs and its calendar of events cover almost every aspect of life and make possible frequent interaction between the university family and its neighbors.

This gathering tonight is but one manifestation of this, offering not only recreation for thousands of persons but also a chance for visitors to see the obvious signs of Tulane's progress and to exchange views with students, faculty and staff about the university's mission and its impact on the community.

Athletic events bring visitors to the campus throughout the year.

And there are many other occasions.

Stage performances, concerts, lectures.

And, also, throughout the year, conferences, seminars and major conventions of scientific, professional and business organizations which attract to the campus not only persons from this area but visitors from many distant points.

Tulane, in fact, has become a core of many community interests—in art and the performing arts, in health and medicine, in science, law, engineering, architecture, business and education, to name but a few.

For whatever stimulus it does provide, Tulane is rewarded amply through the stimulation it, in turn, receives from the participation in its activities of so many from outside the university.

For the public's participation in all of these functions provide the leavening ingredient needed to enable Tulane to continue to improve in the accomplishment of its missions.

Green Wave Has Some Issues To Settle As Graves' Growling Gators Invade Tonight

By BILL CURL, Director

Sports Information Office, Tulane University

Tonight's . . . . . . Game

---

Coach Jim Pittman's gridders will have a couple of issues to settle as the University of Florida visits Tulane Stadium tonight for a 7:30 p. m. kickoff.

The last time the Gators visited New Orleans, Florida humiliated Tulane 51-13. But that was two years ago, before the start of the Pittman regime.

Last fall, in Pittman's inaugural season, the Green Wave threw a scare into the Orange-Bowl bound Gators on their home Florida Field turf. Tulane led, 10-7, in the second quarter, but Florida gained steam in the second half and rolled to a 31-10 win.

And the Wave will still be smarting from last week's rain-drenched 34-14 defeat to another Sunshine State team, Miami. Tulane led the powerful Hurricanes, 14-7, at the intermission, but the Green Wave tired in the muddy second half when Miami began living up to its pre-season billing.

Florida doesn't figure to be in a jovial mood, either. After opening with wins of 14-0 over Illinois and 24-7 over Mississippi State, the Gators were stung 37-6 Saturday by LSU. Coach Ray Graves hasn't lost two in a row since Georgia Tech did the trick early in the 1962 campaign.

In the all-time rivalry, Florida has won the last six straight contests since a 7-7 tie in 1947 to take the advantage with eight wins to six Tulane victories and two ties. The series dates all the way back to 1915 when Florida won the inaugural clash, 14-7.

Sparking the Gator attack are quarterback Jackie Eckdahl, tailback Larry Smith, and flanker Richard Trapp. Eckdahl is a sensational sophomore who may make Florida fans forget Steve Spurrier. Smith made several pre-season all-America squads and was Florida's leading rusher (742 net yards) and scorer (nine touchdowns) last year. Trapp, who has blinding speed, set an all-time SEC record with 63 pass receptions for 872 yards last year.

Tulane will counter with the likes of quarterback Bobby Duhon, tailback Chuck Loftin, and safety Jim Jancik. Duhon has 254 total yards to date, running for two touchdowns and passing for two more. Loftin leads the team in rushing, with 141 net yards. Jancik has the most tackles, with 24 solo tackles and 12 assists, and has already picked off three enemy aerials.

The Florida contest will be the first of four straight home games for the Wave, as Air Force, Georgia Tech, and Vanderbilt will follow the Gators.

Spirit at Tulane

Alma Mater

We praise thee for thy past, O Alma Mater!
Thy hand hath done its work full faithfully.
The incense of thy spirit hath ascended
And filled America from sea to sea.

CHORUS—

Olive Green and Blue, we love thee
Pledge we now our fealty true
Where the trees are ever greenest,
Where the skies are purest blue.
Hear us now, O Tulane, hear us
As we proudly sing to thee!
Take from us our hearts' devotion!
Thine we are, and thine shall be!

Hullabaloo

A one, a two,
A helluva hullabaloo,
A Hu-la-ba-loo Ray-Ray!
Hu-la-ba-loo Ray-Ray!
Hoo-Ray! Hoo-Ray!
Vars, vars, tee-ay!
Tee-ay! Tee-ay!
Vars, vars, tee-ay!
Tulane!

Roll, Green Wave

Here's a song for the Olive and the Blue.
Here's a cheer for the team that's tried and true.
Here's a pledge of loyalty to thee,
O, Tulane Varsity.
Here's to the Greenbacks that never will say die,
And here's to the hearts that are true
To the men of Tulane, who are fighting for her name,
For the Olive and the Blue.
Roll, Green Wave, Roll them down the field.
Hold, Green Wave, that line must never yield.
When those Greenbacks charge through the line
They're bound for victory.
Hail, Green Wave, For you we give a cheer.
Hail, Green Wave, For you we have no fear.
So ev'ry man in ev'ry play,
And then we'll win that game today.
Hurrah for old Tulane!

(Chant to be used on second chorus)

Roll, Green Wave, Roll, Roll Green Wave
Hold Wave, Hold Wave, Hold, Green Wave.
Go— go— go get the tigers
Go win, go win, go win from the tigers.
Fight, fight, fight for T. U.
T. U., T. U., the Olive and the Blue,
T — — U — — Rah, Rah, Rah, Tulane.

University

Robert Sharp Hall, Men's Residence Housing Tulane Athletes

Tulane University is an educational institution deeply rooted in the past and reaching toward the future.

Founded in 1834 as the Medical College of Louisiana, Tulane today offers undergraduate programs in 30 areas of study, masters' degrees in 43 fields and the doctor of philosophy degree in 33 disciplines.

Courses are offered in the College of Arts and Sciences, Newcomb College (the coordinate college for women), and University College (the evening division); in the Schools of Architecture, Engineering, Law, Medicine, Public Health and Tropical Medicine, and Social Work; in the Graduate School, the Graduate School of Business Administration, the Summer School, the Center for Teacher Education and at several research institutes.

The interest in tropical medicine—the Medical College of Louisiana was founded to combat epidemics of yellow fever and other tropical diseases—is the one cord that runs throughout the University's history, even as its interests expanded with its development as part of the University of Louisiana in 1847, and with its emergence, finally, as the Tulane University of Louisiana in 1884, after a generous gift from Paul Tulane had established the Tulane Educational Fund. The Fund's administrators used the gift to reorganize the University as a private, non-sectarian institution bearing Tulane's name.

Today Tulane's President, Dr. Herbert E. Longenecker, directs the operation of a cosmopolitan community whose faculty (650 full-time, 500 part-time) and students (6,000 full-time, 2,000 part-time) represent every state and 60 foreign countries.

By far the major portion of the University's activities are centered at the main campus, a 100-acre site in uptown New Orleans. Scholars also pursue their interests at the downtown Medical School campus; at the Delta Regional Primate Research Center in Covington, La., 35 miles from the main campus; at the International Center for Medical Research and training at Cali, Colombia, and at the University's newest campus—the F. Edw. Hebert Center, across the Mississippi River from downtown New Orleans, a development devoted to scientific research.

COVER STORY

The date was October 6, 1945. Look it up. The very first time the Greenie made his appearance on a Tulane cover, he was shown measuring the Gator from Florida for a wooden kimona. The score ended up Tulane 6, Florida 6. This year he's back with a tie-breaker punch for the Gator.

The Green Wave's official cover artist is WDSU-TV Editorial Cartoonist John Chase. See his Editorial Cartoons in color, week-days at 6:15 and 10:15 P.M. on WDSU-TV, Channel 6.

At Halftime Tonight: The Tyler Junior College Apache Belles

The colorful Apache Belles and Apache Band have spread the name of Tyler Junior College across the 50 states and into foreign countries. TJC without the famed high-stepping Belles and Band would be like the rose capital of the world, Tyler, without roses. Family Weekly Magazine called the Belles the "Prettiest Drill Team in the World!" With its 2½ million circulation, the magazine described the Lone Star State with "The natural resources of Texas include cattle, oil, cotton and the Apache Belles."

Accompanied by the jazz rhythm of the Apache Band for all ball games or like performances, the Belles travel thousands of miles each year. The two groups have become one unit in many hours of practice, in traveling, and in performing. They have performed from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to Mexico City, and from Jacksonville's Gator Bowl to Pasadena's Little Rose Bowl. Their precision dancing and flashy costumes have added color to the halftime at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans for six years.

Typical of the letters and telegrams Belle performances bring is one back in 1957 from Roundy Coughlin of the Wisconsin State Journal down in New Orleans for the Sugar Bowl game: "The Sugar Bowl had a whale of a setup. It was the finest I have ever seen. It was the Apache Belles from Tyler Junior College, Tyler, Texas. They were the greatest I ever saw for a between-the-halves show. I even waved my typewriter at them."

Sugar Bowl shows have received other comments. From Ed Danforth in his Atlanta Journal sports column commenting on the game: "The Sugar Bowl halftime was the best, with the famous Apache Belles from Tyler, Texas, making the Rockettes look like the amateur hour on a local program."

Irwin F. Poche, former chairman of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, wrote in a letter to the college: "We had what every sports writer, television commentator and showman had said was the best halftime show the Sugar Bowl has ever presented. This was due to the fact that among the attractions were the Apache Belles of Tyler Junior College, Tyler, Texas. I would like to trot out all my pet adjectives to tell you how wonderful the Apache Belles were. They far exceeded my fondest expectations."

Tulane is pleased to welcome this talented group back to New Orleans for your halftime entertainment tonight.

Do You Remember? . . . . . This Green Wave Star of 1960

Although Tulane football teams he played on amassed a 9-19-2 record, this fine athlete was still the No. 1 draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings and the entire National Football League after the 1960 college football season.

He led the Southeastern Conference in rushing (663 yards net and a 5.5 yard average) and scoring (78 points on 13 touchdowns) in 1960 and established a Tulane season record with five touchdown receptions.

Although plagued by injuries throughout his professional career, he made the All-Pro Team in 1963 and is regarded as one of the best all-around halfbacks in the National Football League. He is now a member of the Los Angeles Rams.

His brother led the 1957 Tulane football team in rushing, and is currently an assistant to the Dean of Students at Tulane.

A few of his teammates include All-Pro safety Richie Petitbon; Ernie Colquette, brother of Tulane assistant coach Jerry Colquette; and Carl McAfee, brother of Tulane linebacker Dennis McAfee.

The University of Florida is the largest land-grant institution in the South with a faculty of 2,000 and a student body of more than 19,000. Extensive building and modernization in the last ten years has resulted in a physical plant valued at approximately 100 million dollars.

In addition to numerous special research projects in the various schools and departments, the University has established a number of independent laboratories. These agencies carry on continuous basic research in the fields of engineering, nuclear physics, agriculture, forestry, business economics, public administration, communications, and statistics, making significant contributions to private industry and government research.

A broad program in Medical education, research and patient care is being carried out in the University's newest and finest facility at the J. Hillis Miller Health Center. Encompassing the Colleges of Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy and Health Related Services, the Health Center is housed in a 20 million dollar facility.

College students who are taking foreign language courses in many schools in the Gulf South area are reaping rewards this semester from their teacher's training at a special Tulane University teaching media institute this summer. The special four-week seminar held at the university's language laboratory for beginning college teachers of French, German, Russian and Spanish, was designed to train participants in actual use of modern technical devices now considered indispensable for rapid student learning. Here Dr. George W. Wilkins, Jr., associate professor of Spanish at Tulane and assistant director of the institute, shows Michelle Risko of Pickens, S. C., graduate assistant in Spanish at Tulane, how to make corrections on student examinations taken from tape recorders.

Student teachers are pictured at monitoring panel where they can hear pronunciation of those they are instructing in oral performance. The institute, jointly sponsored by Tulane and the U. S. Office of Education, was the only one on audio-technical teaching of foreign languages of 52 institutes throughout the United States under the Higher Education Act.

During the institute, Dr. Wilkins, second from right, instructed teachers about editing out tapes, preparing teaching tapes, grading student progress by listening to tapes and methods of transmitting progress evaluation to student records. Seminar students, all of whom are teaching college courses now, were also instructed in new methods of classroom instruction.

Dr. William Smither, in foreground, professor of Spanish and Portuguese, director of the language laboratory and institute director, explains use of studio recording equipment to teachers who will use their training as background for new teaching and testing procedures throughout their courses. The seminar's course of study was designed exclusively for the Tulane media institute. Attendance was required of all Tulane graduate students planning to teach languages on the college level for the first time this fall.

TULANE STADIUM

One of the finest college football facilities in the nation, Tulane Stadium is the world's largest steel stadium. It is located on the Northeastern end of the campus, on the site of the old Etienne de Bore plantation where Sugar was first granulated in this country.

Tulane Stadium was dedicated October 23, 1926, with East and West side stands seating some 35,000. Much of the enlargement and improvement since then has been due to the efforts of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, sponsor of the Sugar Bowl Classic. In 1937, 14,000 North Stand seats were erected. The upper deck was added in 1939, boosting the capacity to 69,000. Then in 1947, the bowl was enlarged to its present capacity of 80,985.

Tulane added floodlights in 1957. Other improvements have included permanent box seats, portal seats, press box elevator, and photographer's ramp. Two new scoreboards will be added for the 1967 season.

The press box, which has been voted among the nation's best by the Football Writer's Association, is 240 feet long and seats 254.

Auburn edged Tulane, 2-0, in the inaugural game in 1926. Tulane won the first Sugar Bowl game on Jan. 1, 1935, downing Temple, 20-14, in a game highlighted by an 85-yard TD run by the Wave's Claude "Little Monk" Simons.

The Sugar Bowl

One of the nation's great football classics is the annual Sugar Bowl game played in Tulane Stadium on New Year's Day. Founded in the depths of depression, it stands today as one of the most unique amateur athletic achievements in the history of American sports.

While the annual football game is the highlight, the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association also sponsors a basketball tournament, tennis tournament, track meet and regatta during Sugar Bowl week. Thousands of visitors flock to the Crescent City for the festivities.

The idea was first presented in 1927 by Colonel James M. Thomson, publisher of the old New Orleans Item, and sports editor Fred Digby. The first game was held on January 1, 1935, with Tulane defeating Temple, 20-14. From its inception, the group has been free of political entanglement. Under the charter, it was stipulated that it was to be a "voluntary, non-profit civic organization whose members serve without remuneration." Every Sugar Bowler buys his own tickets to all events.

LOOKING AHEAD: BASKETBALL

By GAYLE PATRICK LETULLE

With four starters from last year's talented run and shoot gang back for another assault on enemy nets, Tulane's young cagers figure to continue the steady improvement they showed en route to a 14-10 slate last winter.

Engineer of Tulane's return to winning basketball is Ralph Pedersen, former Tulane cage star and assistant coach. "Pete" took over the top job after the Wave had a disastrous 1-22 record in 1963-64, and brought respectability back to the program in just three years.

After a dismal 1-4 start last season, Pedersen revamped his starting lineup to include four sophomores, the tallest standing 6-4, and the youngsters rolled to a 13-6 record over the last 19 games, including victories over Yale, Davidson, NYU, Georgia Tech and archrival LSU.

Led by the now-departed Al Andrews, Pedersen's Kiddie Korps ranked fifth in the nation in field goal percentage (hitting 50.2% as a team) and seventh in the nation in team offense (scoring 88.4 points per game).

Andrews, who ranks second on Tulane's All-Time scoring list, will be hard to replace. But the Wave has four double figure scorers, a starter from the 1965-66 season who was injured last season, last season's No. Six man, and a promising crop of freshmen and transfers back to make the battle for starting jobs rather interesting.

Heir apparent to the scoring crown worn by Andrews for the past three seasons is forward Johnny Arthurs, a 6-4 Junior from New Orleans who bucketed an average of 15.4 points an outing last fall, second only to Andrews among Wave scorers. A fine pro prospect, Arthurs was also a standout on Tulane's baseball team last spring.

Playmaker, Terry Habig, an honor student in Tulane's School of Engineering, followed Arthurs in scoring with a 14.0 average. Habig, a 6-2 Junior from Auburn, Ind., topped the Wave in both assists and free throw percentage last winter.

Junior Bill Fitzgerald bucketed 13.3 points per game last season and was generally considered the Wave's top defensive ballplayer. A tremendous competitor, Fitzgerald led Tulane's baseball team in hitting last spring with a .339 batting average and was chosen the diamond team's MVP while only a Sophomore.

Six-foot-five-inch Dan Moeser, one of only two seniors on the 1967-68 squad, was Tulane's leading rebounder last fall. The Stroughton, Wis. native, who averaged 12.6 points per game, also topped the Wave in field goal percentage, hitting on 53.5% of his shots from the floor.

The other senior, Mitch Urbanski, was a regular last season before being sidelined after the Wave's second game. The return of the 6-5 Kenosha, Wis. native, who was a starter as a sophomore, should take some of the rebounding pressure off of Moeser.

Urbanski's stiffest competitor for a starting job figures to be lanky Bob Spurck, a 6-4 hustler from Fort Worth who averaged 7.0 points and 4.3 rebounds per game last winter.

Dennis Riddle, a promising 6-8 transfer from the Air Force Academy, and Junior lettermen Rick Carlson and Don Simmons are top front court candidates, while Soph Ned Reese, who had 102 assists in 16 frosh contests, Junior letterman Joel Miller, and Drew Madar, a Junior College All-American last season, will be vying for backcourt jobs.

Coach Pedersen and assistant Tom Nissalke will be looking for improvement defensively and on the boards to go with the returning nucleus of one of the nation's top offensive ball clubs when pre-season drills open this fall. If they find it, the sky's the limit.

Coach
Ralph Pedersen

WOMEN'S COLLEGES: ACCENT ON INTELLIGENCE

By Robert N. Kelso, Special Writer
Tulane University News Service

Girls at college-level finishing schools once spent nearly as much time balancing books on their heads as they did absorbing the contents.

They were drilled in posture, dress, deportment, speech and drawing room expertise—on the theory that a poised young lady with culture was a front-running candidate for marriage.

Today's college girls, with few exceptions, have their sights set on the same goal. But, in a world of increasing complexity, they need more mental equipment to accomplish the goal.

As a consequence, their schools work hard at honing intelligence—not manners.

An illustration of this accent on brains is provided by Newcomb College, coordinate liberal arts college for women at Tulane. Science laboratories at Newcomb are kept open 24 hours a day. They do brisk business.

Newcomb has been an integral part of Tulane, while maintaining separate identity as a women's college, for the entire 80 years of its existence. The Newcomb campus and the university campus are melded together. Newcomb girls attend classes throughout the university environment.

There are several women's schools in the United States which are co-ordinated with universities but Newcomb was the first established among them.

This close connection with a university for men may explain, in part, the reputation Newcomb has earned as a women's college of academic distinction. But Newcomb's own faculty and administrators have been busy for decades improving the finish of graduates, far beyond the social polish they now are expected to acquire on their own initiative.

An early indication of this trend was closing the college's department of home economics in 1920.

One of the latest suggestions from a select faculty study - committee is: offer outstanding freshmen a program which will earn them a master's degree in four years flat, with a baccalaureate degree thrown into the bargain.

The proposal does not aim at keeping exceptionally bright girls busy, but to meet a situation where (in the committee's words) "the bachelor's degree itself carries less and less weight in terms of vocational or professional opportunities for women," whether they seek a job on graduation, or mentally-stimulating employment after they have reared a family.

The committee, chosen to represent the college at a Danforth Foundation workshop on Liberal Arts Education for 1966, has no doubt that Newcomb girls could make use of such an accelerated program:

"An increasing number of our entering freshmen," they said, "are sufficiently well-prepared to be exempted from most first-year courses, and to complete our present Bachelor's Program in three or three-and-a-half years."

College Board scores posted by Newcomb freshmen over the past several years indicate the study committee knows what it's talking about. Comparing freshmen entering in 1958 with those of 1966, the newest crop—by these standard test-measures—is 76 per cent "smarter" on the verbal test and 95 per cent more competent on the math test.

The average score of all Newcomb freshmen on the verbal test over that period has risen from 527 to 603 points; on the math test it has jumped from 492 to 587.

A score of 500 on either test is considered by the College Entrance Examination Board to be average performance. In 1966, 90 per cent of Newcomb freshmen scored above 500 on the verbal test, and 88 per cent bettered 500 on the math test.

Another departure from the old concept of a finishing school is the geographical distribution in 1966 of incoming freshmen. They came from 42 states, three overseas U. S. territories, and 12 foreign countries.

Another departure is the increasing number of students going on for graduate and professional study. An impressive number now obtain fellowships to attend prestigious graduate schools in the United States. In the national Woodrow Wilson Foundation competition for graduate fellowships Newcomb is among the top five women's colleges winning the largest number of awards since the program began. The other four are Radcliffe, Barnard, Bryn Mawr, and Wellesley.

In 1967, Newcomb graduated 240 students—largest number in its history—and approximately half or more received one or more honors indicative of high academic achievement. The 240 graduates earned 135 honors ranging from departmental honors and cum laude distinctions to national scholarships and fellowships.

A total of 21 graduated with departmental honors, five graduated summa cum laude, five magna cum laude, 26 cum laude; 25 completed comprehensive examinations with distinction, and 21 were elected into Phi Beta Kappa, national honor scholastic fraternity.

Parents of Newcomb students are advised nowadays that the college expects the "finishing function" to have been largely accomplished at home. The school, says Dr. Joseph Cohen—academic assistant to the dean, professor of English, and director of the Tulane Scholars and Fellows Program—has other objectives in mind:

It wants to concentrate on "helping Newcomb students to become highly articulate, creative, sympathetic, resourceful, well-informed human beings who will not tiptoe across the last half of the 20th Century with a book poised on top of their heads, but will walk forward with vigor and enthusiasm, and with the knowledge of the book poised inside their heads."

The Bard of Des Moines

by HAROLD KEITH

Sports Information Director, University of Oklahoma

Trumpets blew the fanfare
Whistle blew for play
Halfback blew the kickoff
We always start that way.

BERT McGRANE probably scribbled that with a ball point on the back of an old envelope wherever he was when the idea seized him, then batted it out on his 12-year-old Underwood in the basement of his two-story farm home located eight miles from downtown Des Moines, Iowa.

Who's Bert McGrane? He's the former football writer for the Des Moines Register (for 41 years) who is now retired from newspapering but stays enthusiastically active as permanent secretary and poet laureate of the Football Writers of America, an organization of 1,200 sports writers from all over the nation.

"The Dam Sec," as McGrane calls himself, edits "The Fifth Down," a mimeographed publication composed of humorous odds and ends mailed during the college football season to each member of the FWA clan.

Best part by far of "The Fifth Down" are McGrane's amusing little ballads dealing with all aspects of the college game. Like this one:

They all raced after the fumble,
He captured it after a dive
The rest of the pack piled onto his back
He's cold and inert, but alive.

McGrane's verse makes frequent use of the symbol "&." He says brevity isn't the reason. "I use it because it seems to tie in with my notion that my efforts are just a motley assortment of trifles anyway," the Bard of Des Moines modestly explains. Like this tribute to the lowly lineman:

Halfbacks get big headlines
Coaches get fat check
Linemen pick up scabs & scars
North and south of neck.

Like everybody, he enjoys poking fun at referees and umpires:

Here's tip to officials
From ocean to ocean
Whenever in doubt
Just call backfield in motion.

Coaches and the uncertainty of their continued employment are the subject of many of McGrane's stanzas. Like these two:

Luckless coach who
Failed to win
Lost his head just South of chin.

When howling alumni
Confer with the President
Coach who's a loser is Soon a non-resident.

Football games are won in winter by assistant coaches and alumni who work like stevedores recruiting top-notch high school players, as this verse recognizes:

He was famed as a builder of men
He triumphed again and again
But without his recruiter
This same master tutor
Might never have got where he's been.

College athletic business managers love this ballad. Many of them have framed it and posted it on their walls:

The best of the linemen get clobbered
& the life of a back ain't so hot
But what of the guy to whom they apply
For tickets he simply ain't got?

Lady spectators, and what husbands hold is the chief reason for their attendance at games, aren't neglected by the Hoosier Bobby Burns:

Sweetie-pie with dreamy eye
Disregards the score
Makes a point to case the joint
For what the ladies wore.

The shifting pattern of college football romance also rates a rhyme:

He was a helluva halfback
& she was the gorgeous sort
She gave him the brush &
Developed a crush for
A guy who hated the sport.

Here McGrane sketches the patient substitute and his fate:

He sat on the bench three seasons
He worried, he squirmed & he sweat

If he hadn't received his diploma
He might have been sitting there yet.

After living through four wars,
McGrane knew their effect on college football:

The coach had a dream of a miracle team

He hardly could wait until autumn
He had talent galore
But along came a war
The draft board came over & got
'em.

Here's his caricature of the heart-breaking penalty:

Joe Zilch ran 80 from scrimmage
As rugged a run as you'll see
But the ref caught somebody holding & whistled it back to the three.

McGrane even dashed off a pome about nicknames:

Bruins, Gators, Coyotes, Cats
Bulldogs, Lions, Steers get votes
But no football team, alas
Ever chose the nickname Goats.

And this whimsy on the importance of concentration:

He took the ball, he hit the hole
He galloped toward the distant goal
Above him, watching, was his doll.
He sneaked a look & dropped the ball.

He can even make fun of his own profession as this final iambic shows:

Country's fulla experts
Putting teams on top
Teams fulla dynamite
Experts fulla hop.

Washington Irving once wrote, "Honest good humor is the oil and wine of merry meeting, and there is no jovial companionship equal to that where the jokes are rather small, and the laughter abundant." McGrane's verse gets awfully close to that.

Coach Ben Martin

Coach Ben Martin will lead the football Falcons of the Air Force Academy into Tulane Stadium next Saturday night to challenge the Green Wave. The Falcons feature a wide-open attack, and you can look for the air to be filled with footballs. A potent passing game has been the trade mark of the Air Force football since Martin initiated the sport at the new school nine years ago. A list of 22 lettermen is headed by the likes of defensive back Neal Starkey, quarterback Steve Turner, and tackles Ken Hamlin and Dick Swanson. A colorful, exciting ball game should be in store.
