Tulane and the Community . . .

Dr. Longenecker

TULANE UNIVERSITY is an integral part of the New Orleans community.

The university's primary roles of education, research and service are largely focused on this area, affording opportunities for thousands of students of all ages to advance academically, contributing to the increase of knowledge, and providing a wide variety of community services, ranging from the upgrading of elementary education to the delivery of health services.

The university's programs and its calendar of events cover almost every aspect of life and make possible frequent interaction between the university family and its neighbors.

This gathering tonight is but one manifestation of this, offering not only recreation for thousands of persons but also a chance for visitors to see the obvious signs of Tulane's progress and to exchange views with students, faculty and staff about the university's mission and its impact on the community.

Athletic events bring visitors to the campus throughout the year.

And there are many other occasions.

Stage performances, concerts, lectures.

And, also, throughout the year, conferences, seminars and major conventions of scientific, professional and business organizations which attract to the campus not only persons from this area but visitors from many distant points.

Tulane, in fact, has become a core of many community interests—in art and the performing arts, in health and medicine, in science, law, engineering, architecture, business and education, to name but a few.

For whatever stimulus it does provide, Tulane is rewarded amply through the stimulation it, in turn, receives from the participation in its activities of so many from outside the university.

For the public's participation in all of these functions provide the leavening ingredient needed to enable Tulane to continue to improve in the accomplishment of its missions.

Dr. Clarence Scheps, Executive Vice President

Tulane, Air Force To Match Contrasting Attacks As The Two Meet In Football For The First Time

By BILL CURL, Director

Sports Information Office, Tulane University

Tonight's Game

Tulane and the Air Force Academy will meet on a football field for the first time tonight.

The contest should provide an interesting contrast in offensive strategy. Tulane does most of its attack work on the ground while Air Force, in keeping with tradition, prefers to advance through the air.

Tulane has ground out 762 infantry yards in its first four outings, while the Falcons have rolled up 861 yards passing in five contests.

Coach Jim Pittman's team will be trying to snap a two-game losing streak after a disappointing 35-0 loss to Florida last week lowered the Wave's record to 1-3.

Air Force, meanwhile, is coming off its first win of the season. The Falcons took the measure of North Carolina, 10-8, Saturday to run their slate to 1-3-1.

North Carolina, a 36-11 victim to Tulane earlier in the season, is the only mutual foe the two teams have played to date.

Pittman and his staff have spent a week of hard work with the defensive unit, which has leaked for nine touchdowns in the last two games (one other came on an interception return). The Wave boss is also concerned about Air Force's attack. "They throw up a lot of different formations and try to confuse you," he says.

The Falcons, incidentally, will also be in the air at halftime, when the Air Force Academy Band and Drum and Bugle Corps will be featured along with a four minute free-flight demonstration by Mach I, the Falcon mascot.

Saturday night's contest will match two of the nation's finest defensive backs—Neal Starkey for Coach Ben Martin's Falcons and Jim Jancik, Tulane co-captain.

The Wave will be at home again the next two Saturday nights . . .

Georgia Tech will be Tulane's homecoming foe next weekend, and Vanderbilt will be here November 4. Both games are set for 7:30 p. m. kickoffs.

Spirit at Tulane

Alma Mater

We praise thee for thy past, O Alma Mater!
Thy hand hath done its work full faithfully.
The incense of thy spirit hath ascended
And filled America from sea to sea.

CHORUS—

Olive Green and Blue, we love thee
Pledge we now our fealty true
Where the trees are ever greenest,
Where the skies are purest blue.
Hear us now, O Tulane, hear us
As we proudly sing to thee!
Take from us our hearts' devotion!
Thine we are, and thine shall be!

Hullabaloo

A one, a two,
A helluva hullabaloo,
A Hu-la-ba-loo Ray-Ray!
Hu-la-ba-loo Ray-Ray!
Hoo-Ray! Hoo-Ray!
Vars, vars, tee-ay!
Tee-ay! Tee-ay!
Vars, vars, tee-ay!
Tulane!

Roll, Green Wave

Here's a song for the Olive and the Blue.
Here's a cheer for the team that's tried and true.
Here's a pledge of loyalty to thee,
O, Tulane Varsity.
Here's to the Greenbacks that never will say die,
And here's to the hearts that are true
To the men of Tulane, who are fighting for her name,
For the Olive and the Blue.
Roll, Green Wave, Roll them down the field.
Hold, Green Wave, that line must never yield.
When those Greenbacks charge through the line
They're bound for victory.
Hail, Green Wave, For you we give a cheer.
Hail, Green Wave, For you we have no fear.
So ev'ry man in ev'ry play,
And then we'll win that game today.
Hurrah for old Tulane!

(Chant to be used on second chorus)

Roll, Green Wave, Roll, Roll Green Wave
Hold Wave, Hold Wave, Hold, Green Wave.
Go— go— go get the tigers
Go win, go win, go win from the tigers.
Fight, fight, fight for T. U.
T. U., T. U., the Olive and the Blue,
T — — U — — Rah, Rah, Rah, Tulane.

Tulane University is an educational institution deeply rooted in the past and reaching toward the future.

Founded in 1834 as the Medical College of Louisiana, Tulane today offers undergraduate programs in 30 areas of study, masters' degrees in 43 fields and the doctor of philosophy degree in 33 disciplines.

Courses are offered in the College of Arts and Sciences, Newcomb College (the coordinate college for women), and University College (the evening division); in the Schools of Architecture, Engineering, Law, Medicine, Public Health and Tropical Medicine, and Social Work; in the Graduate School, the Graduate School of Business Administration, the Summer School, the Center for Teacher Education and at several research institutes.

The interest in tropical medicine—the Medical College of Louisiana was founded to combat epidemics of yellow fever and other tropical diseases—is the one cord that runs throughout the University's history, even as its interests expanded with its development as part of the University of Louisiana in 1847, and with its emergence, finally, as the Tulane University of Louisiana in 1884, after a generous gift from Paul Tulane had established the Tulane Educational Fund. The Fund's administrators used the gift to reorganize the University as a private, non-sectarian institution bearing Tulane's name.

Today Tulane's President, Dr. Herbert E. Longenecker, directs the operation of a cosmopolitan community whose faculty (650 full-time, 500 part-time) and students (6,000 full-time, 2,000 part-time) represent every state and 60 foreign countries.

By far the major portion of the University's activities are centered at the main campus, a 100-acre site in uptown New Orleans. Scholars also pursue their interests at the downtown Medical School campus; at the Delta Regional Primate Research Center in Covington, La., 35 miles from the main campus; at the International Center for Medical Research and training at Cali, Colombia, and at the University's newest campus—the F. Edw. Hebert Center, across the Mississippi River from downtown New Orleans, a development devoted to scientific research.

Do You Remember? This Green Wave Star of the 1950's

One of Tulane's all-time great linemen, this star of the mid-1950s earned All-Southeastern Conference honors three times. He was an All-American in 1955, and no other Tulane lineman has turned the trick since.

He was chosen the outstanding lineman in the Blue-Gray Game and also participated in the Senior Bowl and in the College All-Star Game against the World Champion Cleveland Browns.

He played professionally for the Washington Redskins of the National Football League, the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League, and the Boston Patriots of the American Football League. In 1961, he was named to United Press International's All-Pro (AFL) team as an offensive guard.

He currently serves as an assistant football coach at Jesuit High in Shreveport.

THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCE ACADEMY

The Air Force Academy was dedicated on July 11, 1955 in ceremonies at Lowry AFB, Denver, Colo., when the first class of 306 Cadets was sworn in. The new service academy was located temporarily at Lowry until the new quarters were completed.

Its mission is carefully designed to teach Cadets the basic fundamentals and the newest findings of science and the humanities. The Academy accomplishes this through a four-year curriculum composed of academic courses, leadership and military training, physical education and athletics. Upon graduation, Cadets receive a Bachelor of Science degree and a regular commission as a second lieutenant.

The academic program provides courses in the sciences, social sciences and humanities, which furnishes the foundation for the Cadet's development as an Air Force officer. The Cadet can also take elective courses with a major in the field of his interest, and he can also prepare for advanced education through enrichment courses and a masters degree program.

The leadership and military training provides the Cadet with the moral character and qualities of leadership desired in an Air Force officer. It equips the Cadet with fundamental military knowledge and skills required of a junior officer, and provides him with the professional military education for continued development leading to the highest command and staff positions.

Physical Education and athletics play an important role in the Cadet's four-year life at the Academy. This program develops the desirable traits of character, such as persistence, desire to win and aggressiveness, which are all essential to leadership. It also develops a positive attitude toward physical fitness and promotes the esprit de corps of the Cadet Wing through competition and pride in an athletic program. Each Cadet is required to compete either in intramural or inter-collegiate athletics during the fall, winter and spring seasons.

The past year has been notable in the Tulane University School of Medicine for innovations in teaching and in research application. One of the new clinical projects is the Family-Planning Project, developed by Tulane researchers under Dr. Joseph D. Beasley, pediatrician and specialist in public health who is head of the Tulane Population and Family Studies Unit. The project is supported by $3.1 million in private and federal funds in support of a New Orleans Family Planning Center and four satellite centers in key low-income, densely-populated areas. Centers will provide information and services concerning family planning and maternal health practices to indigent women in New Orleans. Here Dr. Charles McGee, medical director for the project, explains family planning information to a participant in the project.

To help meet the acute need for professional specialists in biomedical communication, the Tulane School of Medicine has begun a new graduate program leading to the master of medical science degree in biomedical communication. The program is under the direction of Dr. Walter G. Unglaub. Course of study includes computer science, motion pictures, the printed and spoken word, radio, the photographic arts, and use of the newer electronic media, such as closed-circuit television. In the school's television studio, Dr. Raoul P. Rodriguez "tapes" a TV lecture. Miss Carol Coe is the "patient."

More than 100,000 persons die annually in the United States of trauma or injury resulting from accidents and violence. Researchers in the Tulane School of Medicine have begun a study of this little-known killer not only to improve treatment for victims of violence, but to answer questions about what happens to the body when it occurs. Here the project director, Dr. Martin S. Litwin, prepares a filtrate of blood from an accident victim to measure concentrations of acid in it.

The nation's first community-oriented adult preventive medicine program, the Tulane Health Maintenance Project, aims at early chronic disease detection for persons in the over-35 "high risk" age bracket. Few persons have had in their lifetime all the tests given during three hours of examinations. Personal physicians take over after test results are obtained. Here nurse Erna Hoffman administers glaucoma test to "patient" Elinor Bowman, actually a computer programmer at the project center and too young to qualify for the program. Project director is Dr. Joseph C. Barbaccia.

TULANE STADIUM

One of the finest college football facilities in the nation, Tulane Stadium is the world's largest steel stadium. It is located on the Northeastern end of the campus, on the site of the old Etienne de Bore plantation where Sugar was first granulated in this country.

Tulane Stadium was dedicated October 23, 1926, with East and West side stands seating some 35,000. Much of the enlargement and improvement since then has been due to the efforts of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, sponsor of the Sugar Bowl Classic. In 1937, 14,000 North Stand seats were erected. The upper deck was added in 1939, boosting the capacity to 69,000. Then in 1947, the bowl was enlarged to its present capacity of 80,985.

Tulane added floodlights in 1957. Other improvements have included permanent box seats, portal seats, press box elevator, and photographer's ramp. Two new scoreboards will be added for the 1967 season.

The press box, which has been voted among the nation's best by the Football Writer's Association, is 240 feet long and seats 254.

Auburn edged Tulane, 2-0, in the inaugural game in 1926. Tulane won the first Sugar Bowl game on Jan. 1, 1935, downing Temple, 20-14, in a game highlighted by an 85-yard TD run by the Wave's Claude "Little Monk" Simons.

The Sugar Bowl

One of the nation's great football classics is the annual Sugar Bowl game played in Tulane Stadium on New Year's Day. Founded in the depths of depression, it stands today as one of the most unique amateur athletic achievements in the history of American sports.

While the annual football game is the highlight, the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association also sponsors a basketball tournament, tennis tournament, track meet and regatta during Sugar Bowl week. Thousands of visitors flock to the Crescent City for the festivities.

The idea was first presented in 1927 by Colonel James M. Thomson, publisher of the old New Orleans Item, and sports editor Fred Digby. The first game was held on January 1, 1935, with Tulane defeating Temple, 20-14. From its inception, the group has been free of political entanglement. Under the charter, it was stipulated that it was to be a "voluntary, non-profit civic organization whose members serve without remuneration." Every Sugar Bowler buys his own tickets to all events.

LOOKING AHEAD: BASKETBALL

By GAYLE PATRICK LETULLE

With four starters from last year's talented run and shoot gang back for another assault on enemy nets, Tulane's young cagers figure to continue the steady improvement they showed en route to a 14-10 slate last winter.

Engineer of Tulane's return to winning basketball is Ralph Pedersen, former Tulane cage star and assistant coach. "Pete" took over the top job after the Wave had a disastrous 1-22 record in 1963-64, and brought respectability back to the program in just three years.

After a dismal 1-4 start last season, Pedersen revamped his starting lineup to include four sophomores, the tallest standing 6-4, and the youngsters rolled to a 13-6 record over the last 19 games, including victories over Yale, Davidson, NYU, Georgia Tech and archrival LSU.

Led by the now-departed Al Andrews, Pedersen's Kiddie Korps ranked fifth in the nation in field goal percentage (hitting 50.2% as a team) and seventh in the nation in team offense (scoring 88.4 points per game).

Andrews, who ranks second on Tulane's All-Time scoring list, will be hard to replace. But the Wave has four double figure scorers, a starter from the 1965-66 season who was injured last season, last season's No. Six man, and a promising crop of freshmen and transfers back to make the battle for starting jobs rather interesting.

Heir apparent to the scoring crown worn by Andrews for the past three seasons is forward Johnny Arthurs, a 6-4 Junior from New Orleans who bucketed an average of 15.4 points an outing last fall, second only to Andrews among Wave scorers. A fine pro prospect, Arthurs was also a standout on Tulane's baseball team last spring.

Playmaker, Terry Habig, an honor student in Tulane's School of Engineering, followed Arthurs in scoring with a 14.0 average. Habig, a 6-2 Junior from Auburn, Ind., topped the Wave in both assists and free throw percentage last winter.

Junior Bill Fitzgerald bucketed 13.3 points per game last season and was generally considered the Wave's top defensive ballplayer. A tremendous competitor, Fitzgerald led Tulane's baseball team in hitting last spring with a .339 batting average and was chosen the diamond team's MVP while only a Sophomore.

Six-foot-five-inch Dan Moeser, one of only two seniors on the 1967-68 squad, was Tulane's leading rebounder last fall. The Stroughton, Wis. native, who averaged 12.6 points per game, also topped the Wave in field goal percentage, hitting on 53.5% of his shots from the floor.

The other senior, Mitch Urbanski, was a regular last season before being sidelined after the Wave's second game. The return of the 6-5 Kenosha, Wis. native, who was a starter as a sophomore, should take some of the rebounding pressure off of Moeser.

Urbanski's stiffest competitor for a starting job figures to be lanky Bob Spurck, a 6-4 hustler from Fort Worth who averaged 7.0 points and 4.3 rebounds per game last winter.

Dennis Riddle, a promising 6-8 transfer from the Air Force Academy, and Junior lettermen Rick Carlson and Don Simmons are top front court candidates, while Soph Ned Reese, who had 102 assists in 16 frosh contests, Junior letterman Joel Miller, and Drew Madar, a Junior College All-American last season, will be vying for backcourt jobs.

Coach Pedersen and assistant Tom Nissalke will be looking for improvement defensively and on the boards to go with the returning nucleus of one of the nation's top offensive ball clubs when pre-season drills open this fall. If they find it, the sky's the limit.

Ralph Pedersen

Georgia Tech will provide the opposition for Tulane's Homecoming next Saturday night in one of the season's outstanding attractions. Led by Tailback Lenny Snow and Defensive Back Bill Eastman, Georgia Tech sports fine running backs, a bevy of outstanding pass receivers, two good quarterbacks, a strong and experienced defensive line, and capable defensive linebackers. Coach Bud Carson's team is offensively explosive, capable of scoring from any place on the field. Tulane will be out to snap a 14-game losing streak in its rivalry with the Yellow Jackets and to avenge a stinging 35-17 defeat inflicted last year in Atlanta.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Our Sports Department

A look of bold innovation and the feel of competitive excitement set Chevrolet sport models apart from the pack for '68.

Revolutionary styling.

Looking like a dream car come to life, the '68 Corvette Sting Ray is an astonishingly beautiful new sports car. It's nearly seven inches longer and two inches lower. Startling new features include Hide-A-Way windshield wipers concealed beneath a power-operated cowl panel, rear deck spoiler, high-backed bucket seats and push-type door opening buttons.

Great performers, too.

Quieter and smoother riding this year, Chevelle and Camaro,

"The Hugger," offer new sports car-type performance—better handling, big engines. Camaro SS has a bulging striped hood that covers your choice of either a 350- or 396-cubic-inch V8. Chevelle SS 396 for '68 has completely new styling, a wider tread, shorter wheelbase, and a twin-domed hood.

More engine efficiency.

Standard on many models with automatic transmission is an ingenious carburetor heater that gives you increased efficiency in cold weather. Standard, also, is a new GM exhaust emission control.

New ventilation system.

Astro Ventilation, a brand-new system of bringing in outside air, comes on Corvette, Camaro and the Caprice Coupe, and is available on many other models.

Proved safety features.

All Chevrolet safety features are continued and you get many new ones such as energy-absorbing front seat backs and side marker lights for '68. Be smart. Be sure. Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.
