NAVY DAY!

TULANE vs. S. M. U.

OCTOBER 27, 1945

Souvenir Program... 25¢
Hail Navy

Tulane university and the nation today honor the United States Navy.

Though annually October 27 has been set aside as "Navy Day," this year it has a special importance.

From one end of this land to the other, wherever there is a city bordering on an outlet to the sea, today is being dedicated with special ceremonies to the fighting force that did so much to bring the United States victory over its enemies.

It is only fitting that today's game between Southern Methodist university and Tulane university should be a part of that program. Both of these institutions took an active part in the training of men for war duty. Both were the bases of Naval V-12 units which prepared thousands of students to become naval officers for duty with the fleets.

With us for this occasion is the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. H. Struve Hensel. He has been brought to New Orleans by the Navy Day Committee and will take part in halftime ceremonies honoring heroes of the United States Navy. His will be the honor of presenting medals to those selected for their bravery under fire.

Tulane vs. S. M. U.

Tulane and S.M.U. are comparatively new football rivals, having begun play just two years ago in 1943. Today's game marks the third time these teams have played.

In the two games to date, Tulane has been victorious both times. In 1943, the Green Wave eked out a 12-6 victory and last season the Wave took a 27-7 triumph.

So today the Mustangs will attempt to win their first game from Tulane while the Greenies will try to keep their slate clean and hang up the third win over S.M.U.

Back with the Mustangs this season, for the first time since the teams have played, is Head Coach Madison "Matty" Bell who just a few months ago was a commander in the Navy. During the war, James H. Stewart coached the Mustang teams that engaged Tulane.

In addition, the S.M.U. coaching staff has been supplemented by the appointment of H. N. "Rusty" Russell who is now assistant coach. Russell, an institution in Texas high school football, is in his first season with the Mustangs and will try to bring them the same success he enjoyed during his long tenure in the Texas prep ranks. McAdoo Keaton is another member of the S.M.U. coaching staff.

Football at Southern Methodist is in its 31st season, having started in 1915 with Ray Morrison as head coach. Over this span of years, the Ponies have won five Southwest Conference championships and have played in one post-season game, the Rose Bowl in 1935. The all-time football record at S.M.U. shows 157 games won, 104 lost by the Mustangs and 34 tied.

JOHNNY CALLS 'EM SIGNALS & PENALTIES

CALL FOR PHILIP MORRIS AMERICA'S FINEST CIGARETTE
Salo K. Lowe, research associate for the Middle American Research Institute at Tulane, took a group, including your Camp Pix photog, through the museum recently and started by pointing out the heart of ancient Mayan civilization in Yucatan.
One of the exhibits gave us an idea of where the three famous centers of culture in ancient America were located... A search through the MARI album uncovered this photograph of a research excavation made by the Institute in El Salvador.
In the display above, we gained some idea of ancient Indian pottery from the southernmost regions of Middle America. From the exhibit on the left, we picked up some pointers on sculpture from areas and periods widely separated and on the right noted examples of the famed Nicoyan ware of Costa Rica.
We learned that one of the museum's most prized possessions is the rare stone carving from the Chamalecon Valley in Honduras ... and examined a display of obsidian or volcanic glass which the Indians fashioned into objects ranging from knives to mirrors.

You'll get more pleasure out of winter evenings at home when congenial friends call to play a few rubbers of bridge or other games if you use enough light. See that your bridge lamps contain 150-watt bulbs for comfortable seeing. Give your family and guests the protection and cheer of better light in your home.
A scale model of the great Maya pyramid at Chichen Itza, Yucatan, was drawn up by MARI experts and proved an interesting sight... along with the rare, ceremonial vase of the Mayan period, which was restored by piecing thousands of fragments together.
Further attractively arranged displays showed (at the top) shell and coral ornaments, (in the center) vases carved from solid blocks of native Honduran marble, and (below) clay figurines of Vera Cruz.
All exhibits weren't of a permanent nature, for here Newcomb students donned native Guatemalan costumes for us and gave an animated fashion show.
Visitors are always welcome at the museum and before we left some of us gathered around the stone figure to read descriptive material on the exhibit published by the Institute.

Georgia vs. Alabama — 'Bama's bulldozer, bumping boisterously bowlward, bypasses the Bulldogs.

Auburn vs. Georgia Tech — First the Irish 'do'd it.' Then the Middles 'do'd it.' Now Dodds gets to 'do'd it' a while.

Duke vs. Army — Note to Wally Wade: 'Have you ever read 'For Whom the Bell Tolls'?'

Michigan vs. Illinois — Fritz Crisler meets a crisis but his Wolverines should pass it.

Tulsa vs. Indiana — Wherein the Hoosiers learn they shouldn't play with big, bad men. The Hurricane.

Iowa vs. Notre Dame — We know it's monotonous but it's still the Irish — and with no trouble.

Vanderbilt vs. L.S.U. — The Commodores attend a track meet to ''watch the Bengals go by.''

Ohio State vs. Minnesota — Ho hum. That Bierman man again.

Arkansas vs. Mississippi — The Hogs can't go in the Southwest. Now they try the Southeast — and they'll go against this one.

Purdue vs. Northwestern — The Boiler-makers pay a visit to the (Lynn) Waldorf. The reception will be warm but we'll stick with Isbell.

Navy vs. Pennsylvania — The cream of the nation meets the cream of the Ivy League. What do you think?

Once 'overs' lightly — Texas A. & M. over Baylor ... Cornell over Yale ... Colgate over Holy Cross ... Oklahoma A. and M. over T.C.U. ... Pittsburgh over Temple ... Southern California over Washington ... Tennessee over Villanova ... U.C.L.A. over Oregon.
